Have suggestions for us? We want to hear them

Readers have been overwhelmingly positive about their new Journal.

That doesn't mean they absolutely love all of the changes. Old habits die hard.

But with only a few exceptions, readers are willing to give us a chance to make even more improvements that will give them an even better newspaper.

One of their "concerns" involves the contrast between two different types of paper - one is a heavier, brighter sheet than regular-grade newsprint.

The advantage is it looks cleaner, makes photographs reproduce better (especially in color), and generally makes the newspaper easier to read.

The downside is it costs more - for us to buy and to mail. (Many readers get their Journal via the U.S. Postal Service.)

We agree. In the next few weeks, we'll begin printing all sections on a brighter sheet.

Your new Journal is less than a month old. We accelerated the production process, and now we have to go back and fine-tune the product.

We can't do anything about those readers who say they can't find the editorial page now. It's in the Lake County section, the same place it's always been.

But we probably can address your concerns.

Let us know what you think by sending an e-mail to llough@nwnewsgroup.com.

Thanks for reading the Journal.

D34 referendum fails, officials try to find Plan B

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Tuesday night was disappointing for Scott Thompson.

School District 34's referendum asking taxpayers to help fund two new schools failed. Thompson, district superintendent, would like to know why.

The proposal lost by a margin of 600 to 700 votes.

Officials plan to survey residents to discover their reasons for voting no or for not voting, Thompson said. Survey results could help district leaders know how to amend the school proposal to make it more appealing for taxpayers, Thompson said.

The district hasn't decided yet whether to put the referendum back on November or Spring 2007 ballots, Thompson said.

In the meantime, the district needs to figure out what to do next, he said.

Officials had no alternative to the $45.6 million building project. If the referendum had been approved, it would have

"I just feel bad for the kids

D34 Superintendent

hiked the tax rate by 20 cents. For a home with a value of $200,000, it would have added $123 a year to that homeowner's taxes.

Thompson said he has a sense that people felt they were over-taxed already, and didn't want to add another to the list.

"I just feel bad for the kids," Thompson said. "We need to find ways to house the kids we have with the space we have."

The two new schools would have solved the district's overcrowding problem, officials said. A middle school and elementary school would have been constructed.

Top AUGS leaders to change positions

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - School districts 34 and 24 will see staff changes next academic year.

The District 34 board voted Tuesday to accept the resignation of Antioch Upper Grade School Assistant Principal Jason Lind and reassigned AUGS Principal Eric Skoog.

Skoog will be head of District 34's student assistance program. Scott Thompson, D34 superintendent, said Skoog will assist in peer mediation, counseling, and other forms of help.

This new role will give Skoog more time to work on his doctoral dissertation, Thompson said.

Skoog was not available for comment at presstime.

Lind will be the new principal of Millburn School, a job he said he is looking forward to.

"I'm very excited about it," Lind said. "I have big shoes to fill."

Lind will replace Millburn Principal Gary Cybul, who is retiring after 30 years.

Lind spent seven years at District 34.

His duties in Antioch end June 30 and he starts work in July at Millburn, Lind said.

"I got lot to do," Lind said, chuckling.

ANTIOCH TOWNSHIP ASSESSMENT ROLL OF

CORRECTIONS BY THE 2005 LAKE COUNTY BOARD OF REVIEW

On page(s) 9, 11, 12 of this issue of the Antioch Journal, you'll find a list of changes in real property assessments in Antioch Township. These changes were authorized by the 2005 Lake County Board of Review. These values are subject to adjustment by the State of Illinois Department of Revenue equalization factor.

Our Town

These residents are winners

Lakes and Antioch high schools have put themselves in the local history books.

Both did excellently in state competitions for their sports.

March 10 and 11, Antioch cheerleaders earned second place in the medium division at the first-ever Illinois High School Sports Association's competitive cheerleading championship.

The Lakes High School Dance Team ranked sixth in the AA Hip Hop category at the state dance team championships.

They were only ONE point away from qualifying for the top five. Their accomplishment is even bigger when you consider they are a brand new dance team and a young one, with three juniors, five sophomores and seven freshmen.

I'm patting you all on the back so hard with pride you might get bruises. Watch out.

Steven Lester has also proven himself to be a winner. The Millburn student qualified to compete at Illinois Elementary School Association state wrestling championships. Lester took home first place at both the regional and sectional contests. Good job!!

Carol VanTreeck of Antioch was chosen as a semi-finalist for the 22nd annual American Quilter's Society Quilt Show and Contest April 26 to 29 in Paducah, Ky.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town," e-mail reporter Tara Clifton at tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

Family celebrates tradition, time with each other

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Sunday at Joe's Rock N Wave Diner, a person had two ways in which to get from one place to another.

Scotting sideways to fit into gaps between people while uttering "excuse me" was one option. Shoving bodies aside was another.

Joe's diner was jammed with loud, laughing family members celebrating Saint Joseph's Day at the eatery, 25125 W. Grass Lake Road.

Many Italian Catholics around the world honor Saint Joseph, the earthly father of Jesus, every March 19. Legend has it that during the Middle Ages, Sicilians endured a famine and asked Saint Joseph to ask God to bring them relief. Their prayers were answered, and they thanked God and the saint with a huge feast in which the entire village was invited.

Joe Nasca, owner of the restaurant, said he was expecting 70 to 100 relatives to come.

They came to celebrate family and Saint Joseph, the patron saint of Sicily, where their family was born, in the town of Montemaggiore Belsito.

This gathering is a tradition in Nasca's family, started in 1927 by his grandmother Rosalia, said Betty, Joe's aunt. Rosalia promised Saint Joseph that if she ever had children, she would celebrate the holy day in her family, Joe said. Rosalia ended up having two girls and a boy, who she named Joseph.

This Saint Joseph's Day, nobody seemed to notice the tight quarters. They just merrily went their own ways, stopping to kiss an aunt or yell across the room to a cousin while on the way to the dessert table.

For Joe, his wife Jeri-Lynn, and their family, this table was the Saint Joseph's table, a tradition in itself. Each generation adds to the table a new dish, or a new way of decorating the table. All Saint Joseph tables have an altar at the tables' head, but they vary in style and design.

The table was the visual centerpiece of the restaurant. It was actually several small tables pushed together with cloths thrown on top. At the head of the table was a plastic statue of Joseph, surrounded with lace, flowers and food.

Lots of food. The desserts looked almost too beautiful to eat, but too tasty to stay away. Joe said his sister and her husband, John and Rosalie, made much of the sweets. Cakes and pastries, adorned with everything from powdered sugar and cherries to chocolate and whipped cream, lined an entire wall.

And this was just part of the feast. Joe's family also got their fill of fried artichoke, several kinds of pasta, fish, olive salads and more.

Actually, there was so much food that the repeated mantra of the day was "Are you eating?"

Two days later, Joe said everybody ate. Nobody had leftovers to take home.

Teen brawl

An argument between two Antioch High School students last week quickly morphed into a fight involving four others.

Antioch Police Chief James Foerster said six girls, three white, two black and one Hispanic, were not seriously injured.

The incident took place in the school's halls. The girls were arrested on charges that included disorderly conduct, and were later released to their parents. Their cases have been handed to the juvenile court system.

Curran to take on Del Re

By ESTHER J. CEPEDA
news@lakelandmedia.com

Waukegan attorney Mark Curran succeeded in out-gunning opponent Lawrence E. Oliver for the Democratic nomination to face incumbent Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re in November's general election.

With the full force of the Lake County Democratic Party backing him up in the March 21 primary, Curran earned 56 percent of the votes compared to Oliver's 43 percent.

Celebrating at Louie's

Restaurant in Waukegan, Curran was clear-headed, jubilant, and relieved it was over-for now.

"I feel good," he said. "It was closer than I thought it would be but since I'm not a politician I didn't have a lot of preconceived ideas about how it would turn out. The bottom line is that we're ready for the challenge ahead."

Curran was grateful for the reception Lake County voters gave him.

"I'm very happy for all of the people who supported me," he said. "Sometimes you feel more for them because they are so emotionally invested in your win and you want to deliver."

Delivering is what Curran hopes to do if elected to the Sheriff's office.

"I'm glad my message of ethics and integrity came through," he said. "I think in November I'll be getting a lot of crossover Republican votes so I can bring the office into the 21st century."

A disappointed Larry Oliver, a Lake County sheriff's deputy, said he had no regrets despite not winning the nomination.

"We ran a good race but Mark had the numbers," he said. "I want to thank all of my supporters and to them I say, 'I'll be back to work by May.' I'm a police officer and I am going to go back to doing my job."

Thanks were given all around but Mark Curran had a special one for his family, including his three young sons who spent a late evening jumping up and down for joy and waiting for dad to get home to celebrate.

About his wife Irene he said, "She's been the absolute best. There's no way I could've done

Confused by all the mortgage options? Here's help

Fixed rate. Adjustable rate. Interest Only. Flex. All of the different types of home loans that are available these days can puzzle many homebuyers. But, say mortgage experts, virtually every home loan is one of two types: a fixed rate loan or an adjustable rate loan.

Before you start looking for a home, make sure you understand the pros and cons of each type of loan. Here are the basics you need to know.

Fixed rate loans

With most fixed rate mortgages, your monthly principal and interest payment will not change for the term of the loan, regardless of whether interest rates rise or fall. In exchange for that stability, you may have a higher interest rate than you would with an adjustable rate loan. Fixed rate loans are available with different length terms and usually, the longer the term, the lower your monthly principal and interest payment will be.

Adjustable rate loans

Many people who choose adjustable rate mortgages also qualify for fixed rate loans. However, the lower initial interest rate of adjustable rate mortgages and the opportunity to take advantage of lower monthly principal and interest payments have made home ownership more accessible to more people. With most adjustable rate mortgages, your interest rate is fixed for a set period of time and then begins to adjust for the rest of the loan's term.

Getting the right loan

Mortgage professionals suggest you keep a few key tips in mind when navigating the various mortgage product choices.

First things first. People looking for a home tend to focus on finding a home before they think about what kind of mortgage they'll get. That could be a mistake, says Tony Meola, executive vice president of home loans production for Washington Mutual. "Many people look at the mortgage as secondary in the home buying process, when that's really where they should start," he says. "A mortgage professional can tell homebuyers how much home they can afford before they start shopping." That, says Meola, can save both time and heartache by making sure homebuyers don't fall in love with a house they can't really afford.

The low-down on down payments. Meola says that the amount of money a buyer needs to put down on a home in order to buy it is one of the most misunderstood concepts in home buying. "Some people think they need to make a down payment of 50 percent of the home's price," he says. "But most loans are based on a 20 percent down payment."

Check the amortization schedule. How long will it take to own the home? Home buyers can discover a lot about a loan by reviewing its amortization schedule, which tells you exactly how much of each mortgage payment is going towards interest and how much is going towards principal.

Affordability. Be sure to keep in mind both your mortgage payment amount immediately after buying the home and what it might be in the future. Of course, if you choose a fixed rate loan, the principal and interest payment never changes. But if you choose an adjustable rate loan, you need to ask yourself if you will be able to afford the payments in the future.

Understand negative amortization. Some home loans offer attractive monthly mortgage payments but at times those low payments don't cover the interest portion of the loan. When that happens, part of the principal amount is deducted, resulting in what lenders call "negative amortization." Simply put, it means you are losing equity in your home.

Playing the Fuel Price Yo-Yo Game Has Truck Owners Looking at Ways to Boost MPG (553 words, US, CAN)

(MS) - For vehicle owners, a hot-button issue for much of the last 12 months has been the state of fuel prices. With prices fluctuating on a daily basis, many vehicle owners are hedging their bets every day: should they fill up the gas tank today or wait until tomorrow when prices might take a slight drop? Perhaps no group of drivers is more at the mercy of this dilemma than light truck owners.

The average miles per gallon (MPG) for a model year 2005 light-duty truck is approximately 21 miles per gallon, about 10 percent below the average MPG for a 2005 compact car. As a result, light truck owners are constantly seeking ways to make fuel go even further, ranging from adjustments under the hood to ways to reduce drag co-efficiency. What is so important about reducing the drag co-efficiency? In simple terms, the larger the drag on a vehicle, the more your vehicle must work to push against the air through which it is driving. As a result, the increased workload means your vehicle, be it a car or truck, burns more fuel just to keep moving.

An easy solution is to install a tonneau cover (cover that is attached over your truck bed) to enhance fuel economy. In an article for the August 2001 issue of Auto Trim and Restyling News titled "Tailgate Talk -- Does Removing a Tailgate Affect Fuel Economy," a Ford Motor Company executive claimed that by leaving the tailgate of an F-150 up and covering the truck bed with an aftermarket tonneau cover fuel costs were reduced by 8 to 10 percent. At highway speeds, the estimate was cited at around 5 percent.

Using the various industry gas-mileage-saving estimates that are attributed to the use of tonneau covers, A.R.E., a leading fiberglass truck cap and tonneau manufacturer, has developed a gas savings calculator to help truck owners determine their savings based on the cost of gas and the average number of miles they drive monthly. This calculator is available at www.4are.com/fuel.php.

For example, using the gas price of $2.75 per gallon for 1,200 miles a month, here's what a truck owner could expect to save over the course of:

- 3 years: an approximate savings of $550
- 5 years: an approximate savings of $900
- 10 years: an approximate savings of $1,800

It's good to note, too, that the savings experienced over a five-year period will have paid for the fiberglass tonneau cover with some money left over.

By visiting the A.R.E. Web site at www.4are.com, truck owners can also find an area dealer location where trained personnel can assist in the selection of the ideal cap or cover for their vehicle model. Or for more information call (800) 649-4ARE.

With the state of fuel prices in constant flux, every bit of assistance a truck owner can get to make each tank of gas go further is welcome relief from a difficult dilemma.

Tips for first time classic car restorers: Do your research

Classic car restoration projects can be very rewarding, giving restorers a chance to bring life to an old car that might once have appeared beyond repair. Though trial and error is an integral part of the vehicle restoration process, there are steps first time restorers can take to avoid some of the many pitfalls that can pop up when trying to get that '57 Chevy or '41 Buick back up and running and ready to hit the road.

• Do your research and take your time. You must first do your research so you can choose a vehicle wisely and ensure you get exactly what you're looking for. If you're not quite sure of what you want, several publications, such as Hemmings Motor News, can act as strong resources that can help you make a decision. Also, before choosing your car, go online and see what the car might look like once you're finished. If possible, ask others you know who restored the same model what you can expect to pay. Restoring classic cars is not a hobby for those with tight purses, so knowing a ballpark list of expenses beforehand is a good idea.

• Know from whom you're buying. Weekend classified sections in newspapers are filled with antique autos for sale, which both increase your chances of finding a car and getting ripped off. Similar to most other big-ticket expenses or jobs that will require you to invest lots of time and money, getting a referral is a great way to go, even if it is difficult to find. Oftentimes, sellers will tell you only the great things about a car and regale you with tales of how much money their car can save you on restoration expenses.

• Don't be afraid to ask questions. A large investment earns you the right to ask however many questions you want. Make sure you ask if the car runs, if the brakes work, if anything is leaking, as well as other questions you might have pertaining to the vehicle's condition.

One very important question to ask is how long the seller has owned the car. Beware of any seller who is selling a car after only owning it for a brief period of time. This likely means the seller has decided the car is more trouble than it's worth, or finding parts for it is too problematic. Asking why the seller is selling the car is good, too, as his response can help you gauge how well he took care of it while he owned it. If the car runs, ask to take it out for a drive.

• Be prepared to spend just to get it home. If the car runs, this shouldn't be a problem, as most states will issue you temporary tags if the car is not registered. The fee for such tags is typically not very large. Where you can expect to pay a steeper price is if the car doesn't run at all.

Medical students at Rosalind Franklin University in North Chicago celebrate "Match Day," the day when students find out their hospital of residency. The students will graduate on June 20.

The perfect match

By REBECCA KLUGIEWICZ
rklugiewicz@nwnewsgroup.com

When Nail Paloian walked into school at Rosalind Franklin University in North Chicago last week, he knew his life would change forever.
He was nervous and excited.

"It's definitely the culmination of the four years of medical school. This is much more important than graduation," he said.

It was Match Day.

For medical students around the country, the most important moment of their lives occurred at noon EST on March 16.

Match Day is the day in which medical students find out where they will go for residency. For most, it's bigger than graduation. Although they're not officially doctors yet, Match Day is when they find out where they will begin their lives as doctors.

North Chicago VA and Naval Hospital Great Lakes join to expand health care services for women veterans

By W. Woollard
news@nwnewsgroup

"Wear Red Day for Heart Health Month," a joint undertaking of the North Chicago VA Medical Center and Naval Hospital Great Lakes, was held early last month at North Chicago VAMC - the first in many joint educational offerings from the women's clinics at both hospitals. On February 3, more than 30 women attended a tea to honor women veterans and active duty military women. Sheila Maliekal, M.D., North Chicago VA Section Chief, and Jennifer L. Thompson, CHES, Naval Hospital Great Lakes, spoke to the group about the benefits of a heart healthy diet and lifestyle. This and other educational offerings are facilitated by special funding provided by the Veterans Affairs and Department of Defense Health Executive Council.

The special joint incentive funding will result not only in ongoing educational opportunities for beneficiaries, but also for specialty services. The Women's Wellness Clinic at the North Chicago Veterans Affairs Medical Center and Naval Hospital Great Lakes Women's Health Program have been actively integrating services for a planned federal joint venture facility for the past several months, including Mammography, and referrals to Naval Hospital Great Lakes Breast Clinic, and gynecology surgical services.

"We are excited and proud to partner with the Naval Hospital in providing expanded services for women," notes Ms. Katherine Dong, Women Veterans Program Manager at the VA. "Our goal is to become leaders in preventive health and patient education."

The North Chicago VAMC provides highly personalized primary care and women's health services to women veterans in the Women's Wellness Clinic, Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. These services range from primary care management and preventive screening to bone mineral density testing, osteoporosis management, sonohysterograms, menopause management, contraceptive counseling and management, PAP testing, STD screening, breast screening, and infertility management.

Around the clock emergency services are provided through the North Chicago VAMC Emergency Department, and week-end on-call services for gynecology problems are also available in emergencies. The North Chicago VAMC has been providing Women's Wellness and specialty services for women for more than 15 years, and was one of the first programs of its kind in the Department of Veterans Affairs. Comprehensive primary care services are provided to women veterans by Debbie Safron, MSN, Certified Family Nurse Practitioner, who has been a primary care provider in the Women's Clinic for more than a decade. Dr. Theresa Kopic, M.D., assistant professor at Chicago Medical School, has served as a consultant gynecologist for eight years. Ahmad Taheri, M.D., joined the Women's Wellness clinic from Stroger Hospital in Chicago with a medical staff appointment at both North Chicago VAMC and Naval Hospital Great Lakes last month.

Petty officer's son murdered at Great Lakes

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

GREAT LAKES — Approximately 30 grief counselors from Fleet and Family Services visited with children Saturday in the neighborhoods surrounding Great Lakes Naval Station in North Chicago following Friday's stabbing death of a child.

Families living in Forrestal Village were shocked at the news that the child of a Naval Petty Officer was murdered in his home in the 3100 block of Meridan Drive.

Eight-year-old Jesse Thomas was pronounced dead at 8 a.m. Friday at the Condell Medical Center in Libertyville.

Ken Cronk, Navy Regional Midwest deputy public affairs officer at Great Lakes, said the case will be prosecuted by Lake County, though the results of the investigation by Naval Criminal Investigative Service have not been released.

Lebert D. Black, 42, of Jacksonville, Fla., was charged last week for allegedly stabbing Thomas. He is believed to be the ex-boyfriend of the petty officer.

Black was admitted to Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan following the incident, with unspecified wounds. He is being held without bond in the Lake County Jail in Waukegan and has been scheduled for a Thursday, April 6 court date.

Our View

Citizens love bright lights

It hurts but is hardly surprising that Americans know more "The Simpsons" cartoon characters than First Amendment rights, a cornerstone of democracy.

About 70 percent of people can list free speech as a First Amendment right, but only a quarter can cite freedom of religion. Freedom of the press and assembly hover at about 10 percent. Petition government? One percent.

The results were reported earlier this month in a survey conducted by the McCormick Tribune Freedom Museum in Chicago.

The First Amendment ensures free access to the workings of government. Gaining it has been a fight, with federal and state legislation needed to keep government meetings and records open to the public. The courts also have kept their feet in the doors.

The news media have been at the forefront in the fight to protect and preserve First Amendment rights. People rely on news organizations to report what government is up to.

But open meetings and records are essential to any

American who is concerned about actions of government - from building residential subdivisions to finding information about toxic waste to conducting the war against terrorism.

National Freedom of Information Day is March 16, the birthday of James Madison, Father of the Constitution and author of the First Amendment.

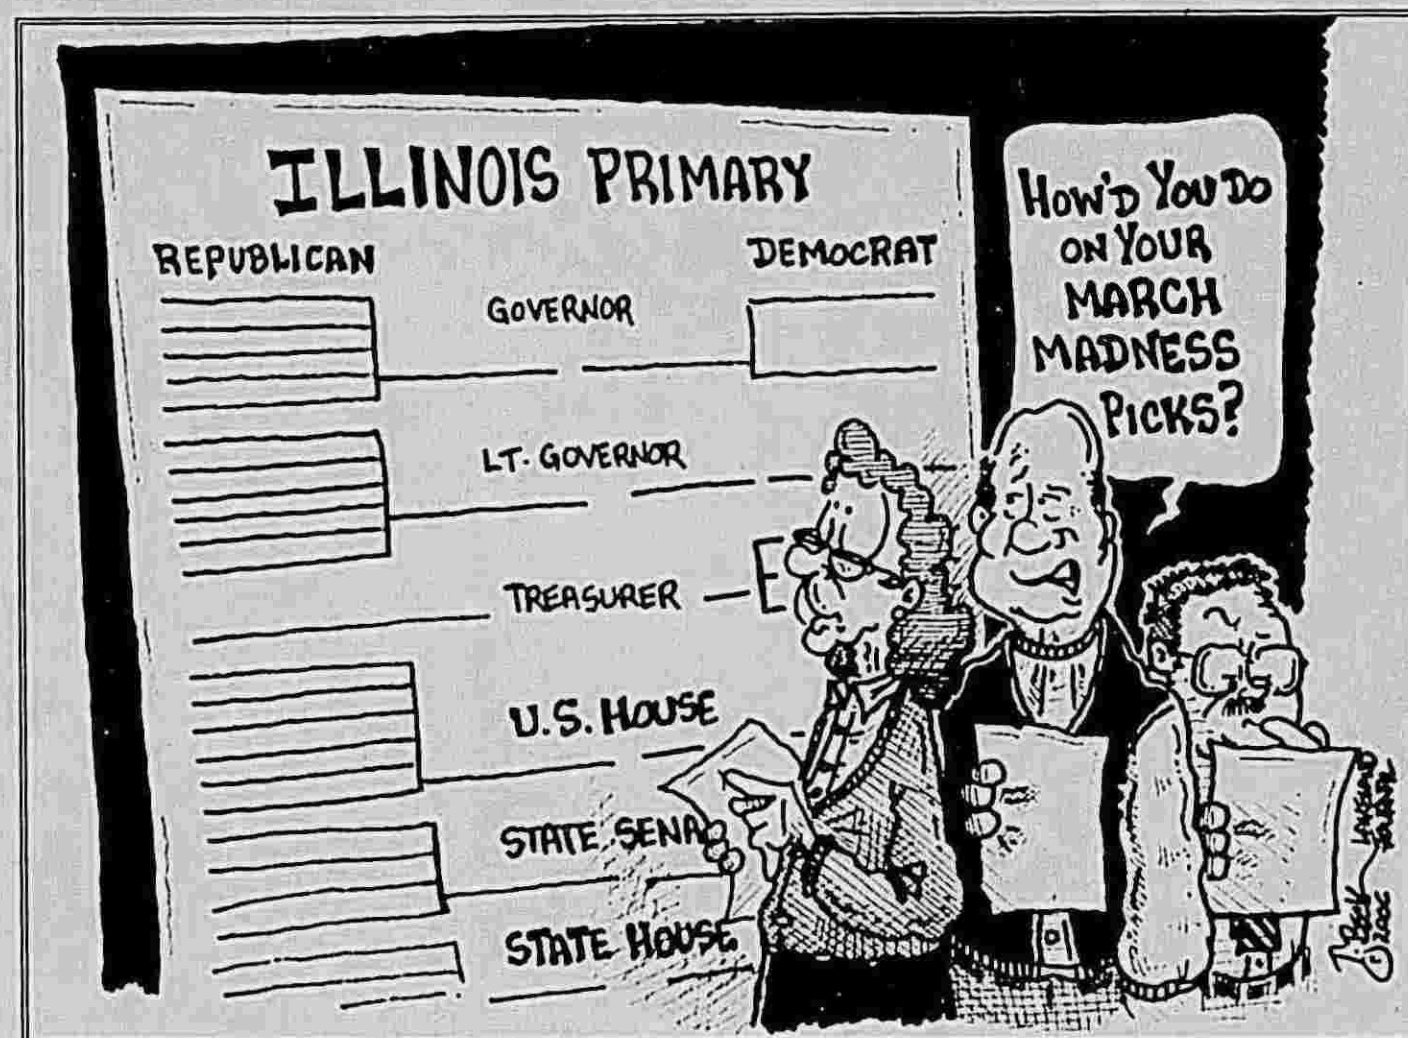

It is the highlight of Sunshine Week, a new observance to draw attention to government's propensity toward secrecy. This is the 40th anniversary of the door-opening federal Freedom of Information Act. Illinois was among the last states to adopt its own, enacting it in 1984.

"Sunlight is said to be the best of disinfectants; electric light the most efficient policeman," Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis said in 1933.

Government officials and agencies must be accountable to the public. And freedom-of-information and open-meetings laws help make them so.

President Lincoln's government "of the people, by the people and for the people" can thrive only in sunlight.

Sketch View

Seeing It Through

Public is searching for truth from Washington

Every day seems to bring bad news from Washington. Whether its Iraq, Katrina, endless scandals, the vice-president shooting his hunting partner, job losses going out of the country, and more, the crises keep piling on. It's been said that when things get so bad, they're bound to get better, but if you can see a light at the end of this tunnel of despair you are an eternal optimist because all signs that I can see are that we are mired in a sea of incompetence.

The problem that I have is that when we are told from Washington about the bad news, the powers-that-be sugar coat everything, almost seem to downright lie to us, overloading us with political spin.

By now, those speaking for the Bush administration, as well as the president himself, ought to know that when you dig yourself into a hole, its time to stop digging. But, they are relentless in trying to deceive the public.

I guess that is why I was a Harry Truman fan because he told it like it was, and let the chips fall where they might. The best leaders have been those who put their trust with the people. If you give people the facts, and don't deviate or spin the facts, you can trust the American people with the facts. As long as a leader is honest with the people, they will understand when things are going wrong.

That is the problem nowa-

days. Things are going real bad, yet the large majority of the public believe that they are not getting the facts. You name the issue, or bad news, and the story, or headline, is the same. The administration makes an end-run around the facts.

If we could only get there, the light at the end of the tunnel would be absolute transparency in government. Let the light shine in.

What I am talking about is credibility. We've lost it. The tragic thing is that our loss of credibility has spread to where we are losing our preeminence in the free world.

We had better start thinking about repairing our own democracy instead of thinking of ways to impose our will onto all parts of the world.

Seals unveils bill for senior citizen rights

Democratic congressional candidate Dan Seals unveiled his Bill of Rights for Seniors, which addresses the critical needs of all senior citizens and ensures that government entitlement programs will remain solvent and accessible for every senior citizen.

The cornerstone of Seals' plan includes reforming Medicare Prescription Drug Plan.

"George Bush and Mark Kirk have left our seniors out in the cold," said Seals in a statement. "Rather than take care of the generation that took care of us, Bush and Kirk undermined support for them. I think it is time that we develop policies that actually work for seniors—they deserve nothing less."

Sizing things up

While the Waukegan City Council took another step toward approving Carter Crossing, a Habitat for Humanity development at the corner of 12th Street and Washington Park, Alderman Larry TenPas, 6th Ward, expressed problems with the plan.

The council voted 7-2 at its

March 20 meeting to approve rezoning that would allow Habitat to build duplexes on the site. TenPas, and Alderman Sam Cunningham, 1st Ward, both voted against the change in favor of single-family homes.

"[Habitat] took three 50-foot lots and made two 75-foot lots," he said. "There is a common wall, do I paint half and [the neighbor] paints the other half? Do I put up half the roof and they put up the other half? Give those people single-family homes on 50-foot lots with a little yard room and a little elbow room."

Alderman John Balen, 2nd Ward, who represents the area in which the duplexes would be built, chastised TenPas for criticizing the Carter Crossing plan, saying the homes would improve the area.

"I object to what you're saying," Balen said. "All you're doing is hassling this operation altogether...It's been 10 years and we're getting the job done and now you're going to argue about lot size."

Hatchery transfer OK'd

Sportsmen who would like to use a long-time fish hatchery to their benefit may soon get that chance.

State Rep. Jack Franks, D, Woodstock, announced that Senate Bill 2711 passed out of the Agriculture and Conservation Committee by a vote of 13-1. It passed the full House of Representatives later on March 15 in Springfield. The land would be transferred to the village of Spring Grove for the sale price of one dollar.

The 91-year-old hatchery was closed in January 2005 when IDNR personnel were laid off in reaction to budget cuts approved by Gov. Rod Blagojevich. Pam Althoff, R-McHenry, and Franks have worked nearly a year with village officials, the Army Corps of Engineers, area conservation groups and the IDNR to negotiate terms of the transfer from IDNR to the village of Spring Grove.

"This transfer of property is an excellent example of our local government working with our state government to protect the needs of our communities," Franks said. "I am very happy we were able to bring all the parties together and come to a reasonable solution for our citizens."

Pending annexation

Antioch's board of trustees voted Monday to tentatively approve annexing nearly nine acres of land to the village. The site, at 22101 W. Route 173, holds Antioch Tire.

Tony LaVelle, owner of the business, hopes to renovate the building and expand to compete with Walmart across the street.

Trustees voted for the case to go to the planning and zoning committee to discuss possible changes with LaVelle. If the committee gives the OK, the case will go to the village board for final approval.

Forest School demolition ends an era

Those who see the buildings on a daily basis viewed the tearing down of Forest and Glen schools in Fox Lake as a needed step in progress but with some bittersweet memories.

The school sites were closed after a referendum was approved and Fox Lake District 114 sold the site, after approval of the construction of the new Lotus School in 2000.

"It is good for everyone. It has looked the same all these years. It will be good for the community," said Gordy Kiesgen, whose insurance office is nearby.

Exceed Development, of Antioch, is proposing a 12-story condominium and retail project called Savanna Grand for the site.

"If it brings in jobs, it will be a good thing. The development should hire local people. Everything changes," said Kathy Albert from the KRA Construction office across the street.

Guy Tromblee stopped his vehicle and looked at Forest School as the rear of the building was beginning to be torn away.

"I believe that the change will help the town," Tromblee said, adding that his son graduated from Forest.

Washington to obtain $26,000 Grant to build greenhouses

State Rep. Eddie Washington, D-Waukegan, at his constituent service office in Waukegan.

"As your public servant, educating our young people and finding the funds to do so will always be one of my top priorities," said Washington. "Agriculture is one of the most important areas of job growth across Illinois and I am proud to help introduce our students to that opportunity. The staffs of Thomas Jefferson and Neal Math and Science Academy deserve a round of applause for their dedication and vision. I would also like to thank Com Ed for generously contributing to the education of our students."

The donation will be devoted to the construction of greenhouses at Thomas Jefferson Middle School in Waukegan and Neal Math and Science Academy in North Chicago. The Neal Math and Science Academy and the Thomas Jefferson Middle School are both seeking to start academic horticulture programs stemming from the greenhouses. The greenhouses will be incorporated into currently existing curriculums of science and math.

According to the Department of Agriculture, agriculture contributes more than $9 billion to the Illinois economy.

Instead of stumbling through political divisiveness and engaging in creating social divides that spawn hatred, we will become stronger only when we get people together in believing that government is forthright with them in all matters that concern them.

I wish that I could see a leader in my political party, or either political party who will take the "bull by the horns" and be straight with us on every issue, instead of just "spreading the bull." We have had enough of that.

It has been the history of America that at the critical juncture of time, we have produced a leader who carried the mantle of responsibility to its highest level and our democracy has prospered. More than ever; our country, our democracy, and the American people, need someone with the vision and fortitude to carry us to the next level during these critical times. We can wallow no more.

Good sportsmanship needed

I attended the sectional semi-final game between Warren and Waukegan. Before the game started, the public address announcer reminded everyone that sportsmanship was to be shown throughout by everyone—fans, coaches, officials and players. In the first quarter on the back ends of two sets of free throws which he missed, Ricky Miller gave the finger to the Warren student section.

In the second half of the game, Rasneesh Omar, in a fit of temper went after a Warren player to start a fight, but thankfully the referees stepped in.

All respect to Warren for playing with class and winning grace and good sportsmanship. Waukegan—shame on you. Your players disgraced your school, your community, your coaches and themselves. They brought shame on the purple, green and gold they represent.

Coach Colbert may have taught Waukegan the skills which helped get them to four sectionals but he neglected to teach them about sportsmanship—the very first thing he should have instilled when he became coach of Waukegan.

Proposed 'Preschool for All'

As police chief, my first priority is the safety of the public. That's why law enforcement leaders and I from across the state are calling on the Legislature to pass the proposed Preschool for All initiative.

In my many years of crime fighting, I've seen at-risk kids beat the odds and reject crime, in part because of the discipline and skills they learned as preschoolers. Fight crime: Invest in kids Illinois, an organization of 192 law enforcement leaders, has done studies that clearly shows that preschool reduces the risk of future crime.

A study of Chicago's publicly funded Child-Parent Centers found that at-risk kids who did not attend the preschool were 70 percent more likely to be arrested for a violent crime by the age 18 than similar kids who attended the school. The preschool cut crime, welfare, and other costs so much that taxpayers saved $7 for every $1 invested.

Here in Lake County we've got good pre-schools and devoted families, but despite steady gains over the last few years, over half the at-risk 3 and 4-year olds in Lake County are not in preschool. It's time to give all our families the preschool option. The research shows it will ultimately save tax dollars and make our communities safer.

Auxiliary of Good Shepherd Hospital Chef Fest

The Auxiliary of Good Shepherd Hospital's Chef Fest committee is very grateful to area restaurants and caterers who provided a wonderful variety of foods that made our Chef Fest successful.

Four hundred guests were treated to tasty dishes which ranged from Ahi Tuna Sashimi, Asian spiced pork tenderloin, pot roast, chicken, pasta to marvelous desserts.

Thank you also to the business and individual donors to the "super size" silent auction.

Our special thanks go to our media sponsor, Northwest Herald in Crystal Lake.

Proceeds aided the Auxiliary to meet its over one million dollar pledge to the new cardiac service and other commitments to Good Shepherd Hospital. Thanks to our guest sand to all who helped make the evening one of fun.

Loves the Journal format

I know the history of the Round Lake Journal, owned by Signe West. As a sophomore at Grayslake High, there was a P.A. announcement that "the first person to the newspaper office gets a job..." And, I won the footrace. That was April, 1958, and that version of the Round Lake Journal was located on Seymour Street, where Lakes News now has offices.

Later that summer, I got a job as a printer's devil at The Grayslake Times. (45 cents an hour, I might add.)

I swept the floor, "fled" the press, poured molten lead pigs and delivered The Grayslake Times to the news stands.

In 1962, I came to work full time and soon thereafter became Lakeland Publisher's ad manager at the age of 20. So, in a way, I hate to see the historic name and roots of the Grayslake Times go, too.

I think they used to call that progress. But, for one who has worked for the original Round Lake Journal and was part of the Grayslake Times History I say, "Good luck in the new generation." I like what I see so far.

JuiceZone serves up healthy alternatives

Libertyville resident Pete Phagan's new career is a lot different from the one he had been a part of for the past 13 years.

Until last year, Phagan was a broker on the floor of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, a job in which he said "he screamed and yelled all day." But with the computer industry eliminating several jobs there, he decided it was time to try something new.

"I've lived here since '89 and ever since I've lived here I've wanted to open something up in the community," Phagan said.

That dream was realized on Oct. 1, 2005. When he opened the doors to the JuiceZone Fresh and Healthy Café, at 536 N.

Milwaukee Ave. in downtown Libertyville. The restaurant specializes in smoothies, but also offers a variety of wraps and sandwiches.

The restaurant is a chain that originated in Canada, with Phagan's being the first in Illinois. But he is quick to point out that the business venture was not all his idea.

He credits his 12-year-old daughter, Cassidy, with making the initial business proposal last winter when he picked her up from dance lessons and she asked him to take her to a local smoothie shop. On the way home way home, she suggested that he open a similar restaurant in downtown Libertyville.

"So with my daughter giving me the idea, it kind of pushed me in a direction," He said. "I got on the internet Feb. 5th and from then on, doors just kept opening."

He found information about JuiceZone online and decided to buy into the franchise. Soon after that, he found a prime location in downtown Libertyville that had recently been vacated.

The restaurant offers everything from breakfast wraps and veggie burgers to freshly squeezed juices and a wide array of different smoothies.

"A lot of people ask me if it is stressful running a retail place," He said with a laugh. "I just say 'are you crazy?' There's no stress that is going to amount to what I used to do."

8 Oral Health-Care Tips

Maintaining good dental hygiene goes beyond just brushing and flossing and visiting the dentist once a year. In order to keep your teeth, gums and mouth as healthy as possible, you have to develop an oral health-care routine and stick to it daily.

With the help of your dentist and these tips from Majestic Drug Co., Inc., a leading manufacturer of oral healthcare products, you will be well on your way to keeping your teeth healthy and in optimal condition for years to come.

1. Understand your own oral-health needs.

Everyone's mouth is different. Talk to your dentist or dental hygienist about special conditions in your mouth and how your general health affects it.

2. Commit to a daily oral-health routine. Based on discussions with your dentist or dental hygienist, devise an effective oral-health routine that's easy to follow and specific to your situation.

3. Use fluoride. Everyone can benefit from fluoride mouth rinses or toothpastes. Fluoride strengthens developing teeth and helps prevent decay in children and adults. Toothpastes and mouthwashes are good sources of fluoride.

4. Brush and floss to remove plaque. Everyone should brush and floss at least once a day (preferably twice or after every meal) to help remove plaque, the bacteria that constantly forms on your teeth. If plaque isn't removed every day, it can combine with sugars to form acids that lead to tooth decay, gingivitis and other periodontal diseases.

5. Make other oral-care products part of your routine. For example, Dentool(TM) is a new, revolutionary 4-in-1 oral-care instrument that helps whiten teeth, increase tooth and gum health, remove plaque and tartar, and fight gingivitis. It consists of an explorer pick, scaling device, polishing cup and interdental brush. Available nationwide, the product has easy-to-use removable ends that conveniently reverse to allow access to each of the four attachments.

6. Use water-irrigation devices. These appliances spray a high-pressure water stream to dislodge food particles from teeth and gums. They benefit people with braces or other types of orthodontics who need extra help in removing food from between their teeth.

7. Examine your mouth regularly. Even if you visit your dentist regularly, you are in the best position to notice changes in your mouth. Your dentist sees you only a few times a year, but you can examine your mouth weekly for changes such as swollen gums, chipped teeth, discolored teeth or sores or lesions on your gums, cheeks or tongue.

8. Visit the dental office regularly. You and your dentist should talk about the frequency of your visits. Some people need to visit their dentist more frequently than others.

Adhering to a daily oral health-care routine will keep your teeth in optimal condition for years to come.

Avoiding the travel bug nobody wants

Travelers love to bring home lasting memories of their trips, but the flu isn't one of them. Getting sick far away from the comforts of home can ruin an entire vacation or business trip. Since travel often requires close contact with a large number of people, commuters are more susceptible to germs and flu than ever before.

"Confined to smaller spaces, breathing recycled air, and touching more common surfaces, travelers have increased risk of infection," said Dr. Robert Schiller, chairman of Family Medicine at Beth Israel Medical Center in New York City.

"The proximity of passengers and high occupancy in airplanes, buses, trains and even cruise ships increases the chance of coming into contact with someone with the flu. The anxiety of traveling, lack of exercise and sleep, and limited food choices associated with travel can take a toll on your health."

Since flu is often transmitted hand-to-hand, travelers should wash their hands often and avoid rubbing their eyes or nose. Schiller also advises travelers to avoid putting their faces directly on airline-supplied pillows or blankets that haven't been cleaned. Another general rule for air passengers is to drink at least 4 to 8 ounces of water for every hour of flight time, which keeps the body hydrated and lessens the chance of catching a virus.

For those unfortunate enough to get sick while traveling, many doctors recommend homeopathic medicine to combat the first signs of flu and symptoms like fever, chills, body aches and pains.

"I recommend homeopathic medicines like Oscillococcinum as a first course of treatment for everyone — from children age two and older to seniors," said Schiller. "In general, homeopathic medicines are free of side effects and don't interact with other drugs."

They don't mask symptoms so parents and doctors can detect and respond faster if a more serious condition should arise."

Since homeopathic medicines can also be used in conjunction with other medications, they are safe for special-needs travelers like seniors and high-risk patients with heart disease or liver problems.

"Travel should be an enjoyable, stress-free experience for all involved," Schiller said. "Those who take to the roads, rails and skies should take any precautions they can to ensure they are healthy enough to enjoy their time away."

There are many things one can do to avoid the bug during traveling.

A difficult decision made easier

Arbor View Nursing & Rehabilitation Center (formerly Crowne Manor) has served residents in the Northern suburbs for nearly 40 years.

Although we have undergone ownership changes in recent years, our commitment to care giving, and many of our caregivers, has remained consistent. Our professional staff has experience in providing skilled nursing care and rehabilitation to adults over the age of 18, specializing in geriatric care.

While we serve as a home away from home for many residents, we specialize in rehabilitation to help short-term residents return to their own homes to lead active and productive lives.

Because of its small size, Arbor View Nursing & Rehabilitation Center offers a family-like atmosphere that is unique to the area.

Our staff members get to know residents as individuals and it is our desire that our residents feel safe and comfortable while at home with us.

Pay attention to portion sizes

It's hard to turn down a super-size, and extra-large portion at a restaurant. You tell yourself a few extra fries here or a large soda there isn't a big deal. Or maybe it's a salad and you convince yourself it's still healthy, even if you eat a dinner-size portion at lunchtime. It won't do any harm, right?

It's important to eat small portion sizes to stay healthy and ward off obesity. But how do you even know what the right size is? To help you visualize better, here's what normal portion sizes look like, according to the American Heart Association (AHA):

Portion Sizes

- 1 ounce of meat: size of a matchbox
- 3 ounces of meat: size of deck of cards or bar of soap
- 8 ounces of meat: size of thin paperback book
- 3 ounces of fish: size of checkbook
- 1 ounce cheese: size of four dice
- 2 tablespoons peanut butter: size of ping-pong ball
- 1 cup pasta: size of tennis ball
- regular bagel: size of hockey puck
- medium apple or orange: size of tennis ball
- cup of lettuce: four leaves
- 1 cup chopped raw vegetables or fruit: size of baseball

PORTION SIZE OPTIONS

Sure, it may sound easy to judge portion size according to common household items, but how do you stay on track? Here are some ideas to help you control portion size, courtesy of the AHA:

Salads are healthy but too much of something good is never good for you. Be sure to watch portion sizes with whatever you eat.

INSTEAD OF: Scarfing down a large fast-food hamburger

TRY: Consuming a regular fast-food hamburger

INSTEAD OF: Supersize fast-food fries

TRY: Small fast-food fries

INSTEAD OF: Ordering a large soda

TRY: Sipping on a small soda

INSTEAD OF: Getting your own entree

TRY: Sharing one with a friend

INSTEAD OF: Using cream cheese on your bagel

TRY: A low-fat cream cheese or use half the amount you usually do

INSTEAD OF: Eating your entire meal at once

TRY: Saving the other half for lunch the next day

It's never too late to get in shape

According to The National Institute on Aging, less than one-third of Americans over 55 are physically active. But those who have adopted a regular exercise program are living longer and enjoying their years to the fullest.

In fact, regardless of age or state of health, older adults can significantly slow the deterioration of both body and mind by engaging in regular cardiovascular exercise and strength training. Research shows that older adults who exercise have a lower risk of coronary heart disease; lower risk of hypertension; decreased blood pressure; control of late-onset diabetes; relief for arthritis pain; increased bone density; reduced risk of fractured bones; better balance; ability to avoid accidental injuries; maintenance of personal independence; and can engage in active activities such as skiing, running and cycling.

Trainer and track competitor Bill Collins is proof that an active lifestyle promotes good health throughout your life. At age 53, Collins holds the world age group record in the USA Masters Outdoor Track and Field Championships as well as the 200-meter record in three different age groups.

Help for weekend warriors

There are all types of "weekend warriors." Perhaps you overdid it raking the leaves or cleaning up the garden. Maybe you played flag football with the family. Or you decided this is the time to finally start getting in shape. Any increase in activity or tackling a new one, can lead to aches and pains.

Usually these twinges and twangs don't signal serious problems. But they can be seriously aggravating. Here are some tips on how to avoid (and if necessary), treat weekend warrior woes.

* Ease into activities. If you haven't exercised for a few months or longer, start slowly and build up to longer, more strenuous activities.

* Take household projects step by step. Trying to till an entire garden or chop a winter's worth of wood in one weekend is sure to result in sore muscles. Plan ahead so you have time to spread household tasks over a few weekends if necessary.

* Use the right equipment. For yard work, look for ergonomically designed tools. Make sure your exercise gear is right for you - do your running shoes fit properly, is your bike the right size?

* Take a break. If you feel like you're overexerting yourself, stop and take a break, or quit the activity for the day.

* If you overdo it, cold therapy is recommended for muscle inflammation.

Your choices for cold therapy are ice packs or topical pain relief. But keeping an ice pack on a sore elbow during daily activities isn't always practical, and topical pain relief formulas often have a medicinal smell and produce extreme sensations of cold, which many consumers do not like.

A new topical pain reliever called Medic Ice provides four hours or more of relief, with no medicinal smell. "It was developed with input from athletes, arthritis sufferers, chiropractors, physical therapists, patients and acupuncturists," says Devon Katzev, president of Straight Arrow Products Inc., the company that manufactures Medic Ice. "Their input has allowed us to formulate a proprietary blend of healing ingredients, natural herbals, essential oils and key minerals combined in a hydrogel based formula," he explains.

Medic Ice targets pain receptors and soothes aching muscles. The gentle, calming formula has a pleasant menthol and lavender scent, glides on easily and is quickly absorbed. "You get a soothing sense of relief, instead of a jolt of cold," says Katzev. It is available in multiple sizes, including a new, unique hands free applicator. Since hands stay clean and dry, you apply it before physical activity so muscles are relaxed and less prone to injury.

"Straight Arrow Products is a family-owned company that started out in 1970," notes Katzev. "My father invented Mineral Ice, and I have always been interested in developing the next generation of topical pain relief. I have drawn on my family's experience to do that with Medic Ice."

No matter what kind of weekend warrior you are, Medic Ice can help soothe tired, sore muscles and provide relief from aches and pains. For more information, visit www.medicice.com; you can purchase Medic Ice through your local professional practitioners' office.

Varicose veins are progressive.

If left untreated, varicose veins and spider veins will only get worse, making future treatment more extensive. Over time, they can cause additional complications, such as venous leg ulcers. Fortunately, today's non-surgical procedures are highly effective in treating the source of the disease. These procedures are safe and don't require hospitalization - and they can be covered by Medicare and most insurance plans. To learn more, call 1-800-660-VEIN or visit veinclinics.com.

Did you know?

While snoring affects many people and is, for the majority of people who snore, essentially harmless, for certain people snoring could be a telltale sign of sleep apnea, a very dangerous condition where people actually stop breathing for extended periods of time while sleeping. According to the American Sleep Apnea Association, sufferers of sleep apnea can stop breathing hundreds of times throughout a typical night, with stoppages lasting up to a minute or longer. The most common form of sleep apnea is Obstructive Sleep Apnea (OSA), which is caused by a blockage of the airway that results when soft tissue in the rear of the throat collapses and closes during sleep. These pauses in breathing reduce blood oxygen levels, causing strains on the heart and the cardiovascular system, increasing the likelihood of cardiovascular disease as a result. Someone who is suffering from sleep apnea will awaken several times per night gasping for breath. Also, those with sleep apnea will frequently feel sleepy during the daytime. Overweight men above the age of 40 are most susceptible to sleep apnea, but ultimately anyone can suffer from the disorder. While treatments for apnea are available, underestimating this potentially fatal disorder and writing it off as just plain old snoring have resulted in a number of cases going undiagnosed, oftentimes until it is too late.

Soda, Caffeine and Kids No Match

Sit down and watch television with your children and you might notice a common advertising trend during some of your child's favorite programs: the prevalence of soft drink providers. Pop stars and famous athletes, people children look up to, have long been used to help sell more soda. In fact, take a stroll through your nearest elementary or high school and you'll likely find hallways and cafeterias littered with soft drink vending machines. But these ad campaigns and the products they promote can be equally as dangerous as they are prevalent, as the main ingredients in most soft drinks, such as caffeine, sugar and phosphoric acid, can be very damaging to children.

In a 2001 report examining the previous 50 years of soda consumption, the United States Department of Agriculture reported that the consumption of soft drinks had increased 500 percent, an astonishing number that likely plays a significant role in the country's current obesity epidemic. To gain a better understanding of just how damaging soda can be to a child, here's a look at some of the main ingredients of most sodas and the negative side effects that accompany those ingredients.

• Caffeine. Among the many negative side effects of too much caffeine (and for children too much is oftentimes any at all) are insomnia, high blood pressure, irregular heartbeat and jitters. Also, children who develop a bad habit such as too much soda drinking when they're young are more likely to continue such a habit into adulthood, further elevating their cholesterol levels and leading to vitamin and mineral depletion. Those consequences greatly increase a person's chance of becoming diabetic.

• Phosphoric Acid. A potentially dangerous ingredient in sodas, phosphoric acid can interfere with a body's ability to use calcium, something that is especially damaging to children who spend lots of time playing and exercising. With limited use of calcium, a child is more open to softening of the bones (not to mention teeth). This means children who play and exercise a lot, and even those that don't, are more susceptible to broken bones because their bones will not be as strong as they should be. Digestive problems can also arise from too much phosphoric acid as phosphoric acid neutralizes your stomach's hydrochloric acid, making it difficult for your body to digest nutrients.

• Sugar. Too much sugar is a bad thing for anyone, much less children. Sugar increases a body's insulin levels, leading to high cholesterol levels, high blood pressure, heart disease and diabetes. Add sugar with caffeine, and your child's risk of diabetes is increasing greatly. It's important to note as well that the majority of sodas include more than 100 percent of the recommended daily value of sugar.

• Aspartame. Soda manufacturers answer their critics by saying they offer diet sodas with aspartame, a sugar substitute. However, by replacing sugar with aspartame you're simply replacing one set of negative side effects with another. Regular aspartame consumption, such as that from people who regularly drink diet sodas, can lead to brain tumors, birth defects, epilepsy and diabetes. Also, when stored for long periods of time in warm areas (something many people who stock up on sodas when on sale or at bulk stores do), aspartame changes to methanol, a damaging alcohol that converts to formaldehyde and formic acid, both of which are carcinogens.

• Tap water. Believe it or not, the chief ingredient in soda is tap water. Most people don't drink water straight from their own sinks, so why drink it straight from a soda manufacturer's? The reasons why you shouldn't are numerous. The presence of chemicals is perhaps the greatest. Chlorine, lead and cadmium have been known to find their way into tap water, as have a variety of organic pollutants. Again, you might use a water filter at home on your faucets, but many soda manufacturers do not.

Quality Healthcare Consultant's meet health care needs

Quality Healthcare Consultants (QHC) is a team of experienced health care professionals dedicated to customer satisfaction. The company was formed in 1995 by Lorie Evans, a Physician Assistant.

Lorie Evans, who had worked several years in the field of medicine, had become dissatisfied with the amount of time wasted by clients sitting in their physicians waiting rooms and in local hospitals. Determined to return a quality of life back to her clients, she formed Quality Healthcare Consultants.

Could someone you know be suffering from a neurological disorder?

Is your child showing some signs that his motor skills are not up to par with his peers? Perhaps he's a bit uncoordinated — tripping and falling regularly while playing with friends. Is he walking on his toes or complaining of leg pain? While these symptoms could be the result of a number of conditions, you may want to ask your physician about an inherited neurological disorder known as CMT.

Charcot-Marie-Tooth (CMT) disease, an hereditary neuropathy, is a close cousin to the better known muscular dystrophy. It was named for the three physicians who discovered the disease in 1886. CMT is the most commonly inherited form of hereditary neuropathy — a condition where extreme muscle weakness may occur, and ultimately can rob sufferers from normal use of their legs, feet, arms and hands. Many people have the disease and don't even know it.

"Although CMT is the most commonly inherited neuropathy, very few people have heard of it, even within the medical community," says Allison Moore, who has CMT and is the founder of the Hereditary Neuropathy Foundation (HNF).

HEALTH GUIDE

Nutrients can help you handle stress and overeating

Stress no longer has to take its toll on your life. Vitamins and nutrients can help control stress. Nutrients make it easier to deal with life's crises, contribute to a healthier heart and help prevent comfort eating.

According to Dr. Richard Podell, clinical professor at New Jersey's Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, stress results in elevated homocysteine, a toxic amino acid. When homocysteine is too high, people tend to feel anxious and depressed. He says you can address this issue nutritionally with TMG, vitamins B6, B12 and folic acid. TMG protects DNA and helps prevent certain liver disorders. TMG has also demonstrated the ability to increase glutathione, an important antioxidant.

Other nutrients can help address health concerns. Podell advises that to lower blood pressure, ingest omega 3, which is found in fish oils. Omega oils, also known as essential fatty acids (EFAs), are involved with energy production. They aid in transferring oxygen and hemoglobin products, and help control the flow of nutrients through cell membranes. They also prevent comfort eating since people may overeat when looking for more nutrients.

You can get your doses of TMG and omega oils with vitamin supplements. The Green Turtle Bay Vitamin Co. offers Sunnie™, which combines TMG, B vitamins with St. John's Wort and Ginkgo Biloba along with several powerful antioxidants for a stress-relieving, heart-healthy formula. Signal 369™ provides the optimal blend of omegas 3, 6 and 9 for optimal brain functioning and lowering fats in the blood.

Lake Forest Hospital named
#1 Consumer Choice
in Lake and Kenosha Counties.

People say we're the best.
Lake Forest Hospital

Based on an independent study by National Research Corporation, Lake Forest Hospital is the #1 Consumer Choice in Lake and Kenosha counties. People here say Lake Forest Hospital is #1 for Best Doctors, #1 for Best Nurses, and #1 for Best Overall Quality. Every hospital in the area was considered, and no other hospital was rated half so highly.

Lake Forest Hospital named #1 consumer choice in Lake, Kenosha Counties

A recent consumer survey by National Research Corporation (NRC) names Lake Forest Hospital "Lake-Kenosha's Most Preferred Hospital: Overall Quality & Image" for 2005/06. This #1 Consumer Choice award is based on the responses of 626 people in Lake and Kenosha counties who rated Lake Forest Hospital:

- best overall quality
- best doctors
- best nurses
- best image/reputation

"This is a tremendous honor for us," President Bill Ries said. "It reflects the quality of our medical staff, nurses and all of the support team working together for our patients."

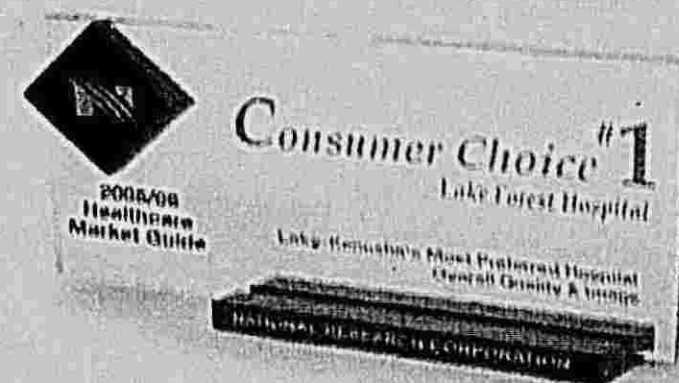

The award identifies hospitals that health-care consumers have chosen as having the highest quality and image in 180 markets throughout the United States. The 2005/06 NRC Healthcare Market Guide study surveyed more than 200,000 households representing 400,000 consumers in the contiguous 48 states and the District of Columbia.

• Lake Forest Hospital won the award in the first year the National Research Corporation survey – the nation's largest and most comprehensive consumer assessment of the health-care industry – could be done in the Lake/Kenosha market. Other 2005/06 Consumer Choice award winners include Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago, Froedtert Memorial Hospital in Milwaukee and Swedish American Hospital in Rockford, Ill.

"Consumers play an increasing role in selecting their health-care facilities and services," said NRC Chief Executive Officer Michael D. Hays. "As more quality health-care information is made available, we expect this trend to increase. Consumer Choice award winners are selected by residents of the communities they serve. We are pleased to honor these facilities for their leadership in the delivery of quality health care."

National Research Corporation is an industry leader with more than two decades of experience in health-care performance measurement and improvement. This is the 10th year the firm has awarded hospitals whose consumers have recognized them for providing quality health-care services.

The NRC study has a margin of error of + or - 0.2 percent at a national level.

Lake Forest Hospital is a fully licensed and accredited 215-bed community hospital offering a complete range of services that are staffed by nearly 600 physicians, with offices conveniently located throughout Lake County. For information about the hospital, call (847) 234-5600; for a physician referral call (847) 535-6171.

Get a break from chronic pain

When the FDA withdrew popular prescription pain killers from the market last year, many chronic pain sufferers were undoubtedly concerned. How would they be able to manage the daily pain that interrupts their lives? What other viable options would be available that were not only effective, but safe as well?

Chronic pain is a serious issue and is a difficult burden to carry. It can affect all facets of your life, including your job, marriage, daily activities and relationships. It leads many people on a quest to find any way possible to keep pain at bay.

All pain is caused by inflammation and can be a hallmark of many conditions. Some common culprits are: fibromyalgia, nerve damage, neuropathy, arthritis, sciatica and joint stiffness. When American Idol judge and celebrity, Paula Abdul, announced that for the past 25 years she has been battling a rare and often misdiagnosed medical condition called complex regional pain syndrome (CRPS), she helped validate that pain is a very real and serious problem that most people and doctors just don't understand.

Understanding pain

Chronic pain can be a very isolating experience because doctors often view pain as a mere 'byproduct' of an inflammatory condition you are battling like arthritis or physical conditions, rather than as a serious health issue. Plus, there are very few doctors trained to just treat and address chronic pain sufferers.

Unfortunately, there is no distinct "cure" for pain. Rather, there is a series of treatments geared towards "managing" pain. These treatments often involve taking strong prescription painkillers that have the potential of being very addictive, or you may become physically dependent upon them.

Examples of drugs that can cause physical dependence include corticosteroids and beta blockers. Addictive drugs are mainly opiodis, a family of drugs that has effects similar to that of opium or morphine. In fact, popular political commentator Rush Limbaugh, is just one of many people who've admitted addiction to painkillers.

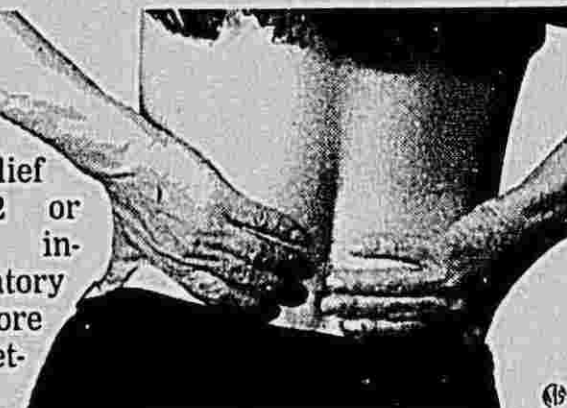

A natural alternative

One of the leading pain specialists, Dennis H. Harris, M.D., founder of the Southwest Pain Control Center and former Director of the Department of Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation at Mesa Lutheran Hospital, says, "One in three people suffer from chronic and debilitating pain every day." Dr. Harris has dedicated his 35-year career towards the study and treatment of pain, and developed a natural, safe and effective formula to manage his patients' chronic pain.

Dr. Harris and a team of researchers have developed an all-natural, holistic pain relief system with no side effects. Dr. Harris' Pain Relief System (800) 827-1282 or www.painsystem.com involves an anti-inflammatory regimen shown to be more effective than aspirin, acetaminophen or ibuprofen, and safer than common prescription drugs. Its patented formula is designed to repair and restore nerve damage — there is no other formula like this on the market.

A combination of three potent formulas — Nerve Health capsules that target nerve damage and other nerve-related issues; ETAForce capsules that contain a powerful, natural anti-inflammatory component designed to immediately reduce inflammation and promote healing; and ETAForce Gel, a soothing, fast-acting topical pain relief gel that is massaged directly into troublesome aches and pains — is part of this system. The three-part attack on your pain is comprised of all-natural ingredients proven to naturally and safely manage your pain and bring you relief. Currently, there are over 50,000 satisfied users of Dr. Harris' revolutionary pain relief system.

While pain is not something that can be totally eradicated, relief can be realized for the many who suffer from chronic conditions.

To Whom It May Concern:

Our office would like to thank you for all the extra effort and time afforded many of our patients in their hour of need. Such was the case when one of our patients needed to be cared for early on Friday evening. Joel Crabtree went out of his way to make sure that our patient had a safe place to stay and be taken care of while his wife was admitted to the hospital. These extra efforts are certainly not taken for granted. Once again, thank you for caring so deeply for the elderly.

HEALTH GUIDE

Women: Do More for Your Health This Season ...

Avoid the 'Heat,' and Help Heart, Bone, Breast Health, and More

Spring, the season of new beginnings, is an ideal time to take stock of your health.

For women, particularly those age 45 and older, a health inventory will likely include menopause. Side effects that may occur during this natural stage of life can be uncomfortable and embarrassing. More important, the physical changes behind those symptoms may leave you at risk of long-term negative health effects.

As you tackle spring cleaning and begin the year's house projects, don't neglect your own "preventive maintenance." Explore the different menopause treatment options that are available today. The information you have and the choices you make can have important effects on current symptoms and future health outcomes.

HOW DO I KNOW IF MENOPAUSE HAS BEGUN?

More than 5,000 women a day enter menopause, according to Susan Wysocki, RNC, NP, FAANP, president and CEO, National Association of Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health. Menopause is a process resulting from the gradual decrease in your body's estrogen production. The entire process may take two or more years and has officially occurred when you haven't had a period for 12 consecutive months. Recognizing changes in your period and the way your body feels are the best indicators that menopause has begun — more accurate than a blood test, since hormone levels can go up and down very often during this process.

WHAT ARE THE SYMPTOMS?

Many women have been regaled with tales of others' menopause misfortune. The truth is, every woman is different in the scope of symptoms felt. In many cases hot flashes, night sweats, sleeplessness and irritability can occur. However, without taking action to alleviate and take care of your body properly during this time of change, more critical and potential long-term effects of menopause may begin to take hold, including bone loss and increased risk of cardiovascular disease.

Part of menopause treatment is finding time to relax and nurture your body.

CHANGE YOUR LIFESTYLE

To combat the symptoms of menopause and to improve general well being, there are several steps you can take. Together with a group of physicians, Wysocki has developed a medical algorithm, which is a step-by-step methodology to help doctors, nurse practitioners and women to consider treatment of menopause symptoms in a way that meets individual needs.

The algorithm represents the first time that scientists have agreed that, for many women, nutritional supplements like Promensil and changes in lifestyle should be among the first lines of defense in treating the symptoms of menopause. In addition, numerous clinical studies have demonstrated Promensil is safe and effective in not only alleviating the number and severity of menopause symptoms, but also in promoting bone, cardiovascular and even breast health, all critical areas of health at this stage of life.

NUTRITIONAL AND LIFESTYLE CHANGES

• Supplements: Calcium is essential for healthy bones and preventing osteoporosis. The recommended daily intake is 800 to 1000 mg for women. This equates to 2 to 3 servings of dairy food per day or supplementing with a calcium product. For women over 45, consider taking a supplement like Promensil or Promensil Post-Menopause, both of which contain isoflavones derived from the Red Clover plant.

• Exercise: Aim for at least 20 minutes of moderate weight-bearing exercise each day. This not only is good for the body — strengthening muscles and improving bone health — but it can be a way to beat stress and uplift your mood. Take advantage of the warmer weather and exercise outdoors.

• Relax: Make some time for yourself, whether that's enjoying a good book while lying in a hammock, engaging in a hobby or sharing a backyard barbecue with friends.

• Limit hot flash triggers: Hot flashes are a feeling of intense heat, sweating and a rapid heart beat. Hot flashes may cause a visible blush to the skin, typically on the neck and face. Avoid common triggers such as overheated rooms, spicy foods, alcohol and caffeine. You can also dress in layers to quickly cool down if you feel a hot flash coming on. Also, rely on Promensil to reduce the number and intensity of hot flashes. In studies conducted, 73 percent of women experience a significant benefit within six weeks of use.

Amid the bustle of spring clean up and repair work, make time to also renew your health — now and for the long term. For more information on a menopause treatment program that's right for you, speak with your doctor or nurse practitioner and visit www.promensil.com.

Did You Know?

The term "20/20 vision" does not translate to perfect vision. Rather, the term was coined by eye doctors and refers to what a normal person should be able to see from 20 feet away. According to the online medical resource WebMd (www.webmd.com), people with 20/40 vision, then, can see at 20 feet away what a normal person can see from 40 feet away. It is also possible to have vision that is better than the norm. People with 20/10 vision, for example, can see from 20 feet away what a normal person can see from 10 feet away. On the opposite end of the spectrum, the cutoff for legal blindness in the United States is 20/200 vision, meaning you can see at 20 feet away what a normal person can see from 200 feet away.

Numbness, stiffness could point to spine problems

"How healthy is your spine?" asks Dr. Herbert Engelhard, MD, PhD, FACS, program director of Vista Neuroscience Center of Excellence. Time can take its toll on your spine. For example, as we age, the discs between bones (vertebrae) shrink and lose the ability to cushion or absorb shock. Injuries, tumors, cysts or infections can also affect your spine, but you may not notice a problem for years. Many people are surprised to learn that their numbness, pain, dizziness, bladder problems, difficulty swallowing, morning stiffness, imbalance or other complaints can be traced to an unhealthy spine. They are often relieved to learn that, in most cases, a spine specialist can help them restore their spine to health in six or eight weeks. Studies show that even patients over 80 years of age have benefited from spinal treatment.

Now, those with back pain, chronic headaches, multiple sclerosis, tumors, seizures, stroke and other brain or spinal disorders no longer need to go to Chicago to get comprehensive care. Dr. Herbert Engelhard, who is also an Associate Professor and Chief of Neuro-Oncology Section of the Department of Neurosurgery at the University of Illinois at Chicago, contributes to studies in Neuroscience and brings his expertise to Lake County. "Vista's Health's partnership with the Department of Neurosurgery at the University of Illinois brings world-class, comprehensive treatment and care to Lake County," says Barbara J. Martin, President and CEO of Vista Health. Dr. Engelhard sees patients at the Vista Neuroscience Center of Excellence in Gurnee at 200 South Greenleaf. Patients and physicians may contact the office at (847) 244-5660.

Baby Boomers:

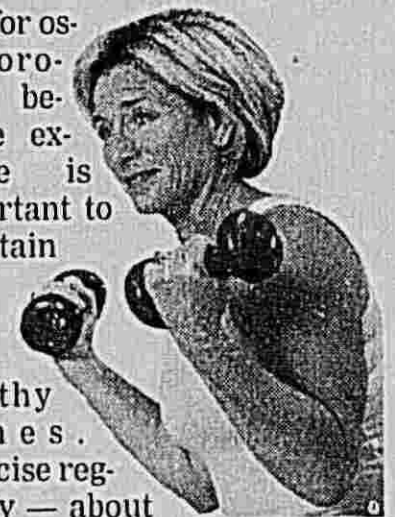

Learn about osteoporosis

Until recently, no one gave much thought to the topic of bone health. Occasionally you would hear of someone who broke a hip and was never the same again. As more and more research is being conducted, doctors are passing on the word to patients that it is vital to take preventative measures to ensure bone health, to preserve quality of life and increase life expectancy.

risk for osteoporosis because exercise is important to maintain healthy bones. Exercise regularly — about 30 minutes per day — and include weight-bearing exercises in your fitness routine to improve strength and balance.

Recognizing the disease

Osteoporosis affects both men and women and is not just a "grandmother's disease." It is a condition characterized by a decrease in bone mass and density, causing bones to become fragile. Those suffering from osteoporosis are much more likely than others to break bones following even minor bumps and falls. The disease can limit mobility and lead to a downward spiral in physical health and the quality of life.

The ability to walk, stand up or take care of oneself may be lost following an osteoporotic fracture. According to a National Institute of Health report, one in five patients dies within a year after sustaining an osteoporotic hip fracture. Therefore, detecting osteoporosis and charting a course of treatment is crucial.

Preventative measures

There are many steps you can take to ensure bone health. Here are a few recommendations from the Surgeon General and Wallach Surgical, the distributors of Sunlight Omnisense, an ultrasound-based osteoporosis testing device:

- Eat a diet high in calcium and Vitamin D. Calcium can be found in dairy products like milk, cheeses and yogurt, and in green leafy vegetables and soybeans. Vitamin D is produced in the skin by exposure to the sun, but can also be found in fortified milk and other foods. Supplements may also be beneficial to boost calcium and Vitamin D intake.
- Inactive individuals are at

Osteoporosis screenings

Your physician should regularly look for the warning signs of osteoporosis, including low-trauma bone fractures and back pain from undetected vertebral fractures. A bone-density test with a device approved for bone monitoring should be performed regularly. It is not advisable to wait until age 65 for such testing since every year left untreated increases the risk.

Screenings can typically be done in the privacy of your doctor's office. Diagnostic instruments such as the Omnisense bone sonometer are non-invasive, involving only a small ultrasound device that sends a soundwave across the bones in your wrist or finger. The speed of the ultrasound wave indicates bone strength and your osteoporosis status. No radiation is present, and the procedure is painless.

Your doctor will be able to view a full-color report and share the results with you within 10 minutes at a cost of $40 to $50 for those under 65. If you are over 65, the procedure is covered by Medicare in most cases. With the treatment options available today, your doctor can set you on a path to improve your bone strength. It's a small price to pay for adding years of healthy bones to your life.

Strong Job Market expected for Lake County this year

Lake County employers expect to hire at a healthy pace during the second quarter of 2006, according to the Manpower Employment Outlook Survey.

From April to June, 33 percent of the companies interviewed plan to hire more employees, while 3 percent expect to reduce their payrolls, according to Manpower spokesperson Anne Edmunds. Another 61 percent expect to maintain their current staff levels and 3 percent are not certain of their hiring plans.

"In Lake County, employers expect considerably more hiring activity than in the first quarter when 20 percent of the companies interviewed intended to increase headcount, and 13 percent planned to decrease it," said Edmunds. "Employers are also much more optimistic about hiring than they were a year ago when 20 percent of companies surveyed thought employment increases were likely and 10 percent intended to cut back."

For the coming quarter, job prospects appear best in Durable and Non-Durable Goods Manufacturing, Wholesale/Retail Trade, Services and Public Administration. Employers in Construction plan to reduce staffing levels. Hiring in Transportation/Public Utilities, Finance/Insurance/Real Estate and Education is expected to remain unchanged.

According to the national seasonally adjusted results of the Manpower Employment Outlook Survey, U.S. employers show no signs of changing their healthy hiring pace in the second quarter.

Of the 16,000 U.S. employers surveyed, 30 percent foresee an increase in hiring activity for the second quarter of 2006, while 6 percent expect a reduction in payrolls. Fifty-eight percent report no change in hiring plans, and 6 percent have yet to determine their staffing needs. The seasonally adjusted Net Employment Outlook for April to June 21.

County Spelling Bee winners

In February, the last of three sectional Spelling Bees for Lake County students in grades 4 through 8 was held in conjunction with the 2006 Scripps-Howard National Spelling Bee, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune and the Lake County Regional Office of Education. This is the 24th year that the Lake County Regional Office of Education has offered this meaningful academic activity to students in Lake County.

South Park School, Deerfield School District 109, hosted the Section 1 competition on Feb. 28. The winner, Theodore Yuan, is an 8th grade student at Daniel Wright Junior High, Lincolnshire-Prairie View School District 103. The runner-up for Section 1, Lauren Bilow, is an 8th grade student at Shepard Middle School, Deerfield School District 109.

Marjorie P. Hart Elementary School, North Chicago, Unit School District 187, hosted the Section 2 competition on Feb. 22. Winner, Michael Duong, is a 5th grade student at Little Fort Elementary School, Waukegan Unit School District 60. Section 2 runner-up, Magdalena Cychowski, is a 6th grade student at Viking Middle School, Gurnee school District 56.

Antioch upper Grade School, Antioch C.C. School District 34, hosted the Section 3 competition on Feb. 21. Winner, Kacie Griffith, is a 6th grade student at B.J. Hooper School, Lake Villa C.C. School District 41. Section 3 runner-up, Nicholas Ezyk, is a 6th grade student at St. Joseph School in Round Lake.

The Chicagoland Spelling Bee finals will be held at McAninch Arts Center (MAC), College of DuPage, 425 Fawell Boulevard, Glen Ellyn, at 6:15 p.m. on March 29. The top speller from the city of Chicago and the top speller from a Chicagoland suburb, along with their parents, will travel to Washington, D.C. late in May to compete in the National Spelling Bee. All expenses will be paid by the Chicago Tribune,

At the North Chicago school, students gathered early for brunch and graduation information before heading into the lobby of the university just before 11 a.m. The students gathered in four groups based on a randomly assigned color and anxiously awaited their fates. At 11 a.m. sharp, names were called out. They grabbed their envelopes and opened them. The paper had a few sentences with the location and program of the residency.

Paloian, 26, was relieved when he received his match. It was the Mundelein resident's top choice: Pediatrics at the University of Minnesota. It was what he was expecting. Others didn't receive their first choice.

"There are always surprises, so I was very relieved," he said.

After graduation on June 2, he will pack up and move to Minneapolis. There, he will begin life as Dr. Paloian, pediatric resident. He plans to apply for a fellowship in pediatric nephrology after his three years of general residency.

Neil Paloian

Paloian became interested in nephrology, the study of kidneys, his own kidney problems and visits to nephrologists as a kid.

"When I was a kid, I kind of got interested in what was going on, so I did my own research," he said.

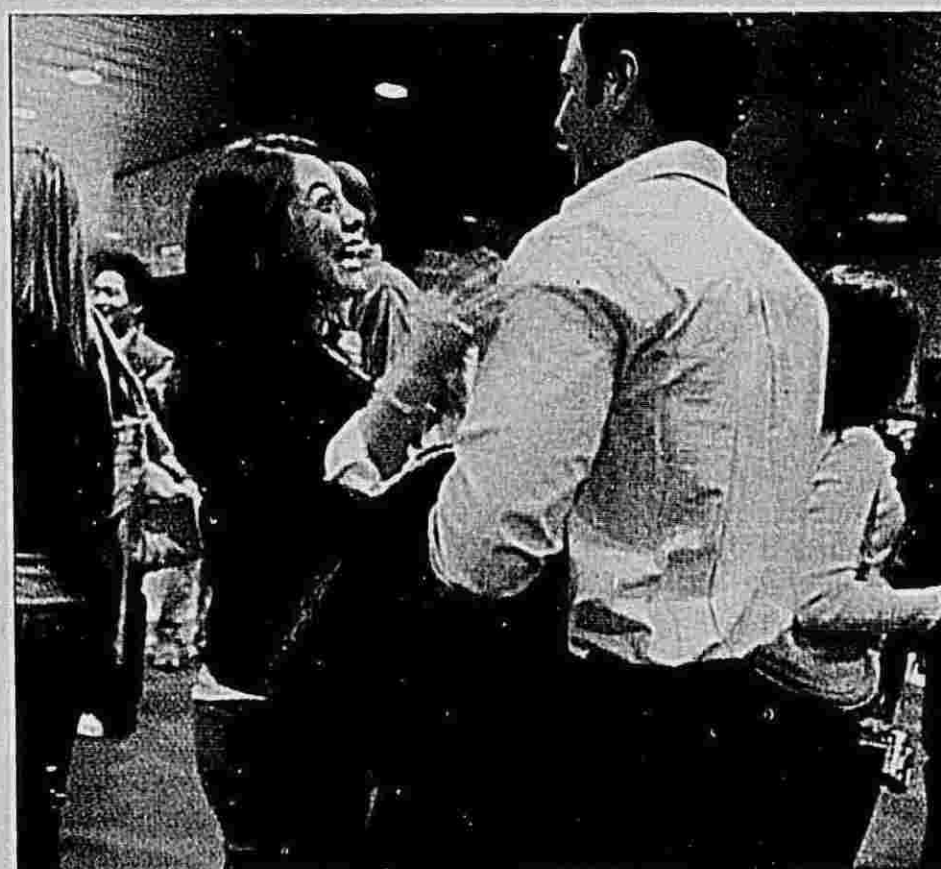

It was his doctor, Ken Miller, who guided and inspired him to enter nephrology. The fact that the University of Minnesota has a "very strong nephrology fellowship" influenced his decision to make that his top choice.

Although he is sure of his decision to become a doctor now, he didn't always know what he wanted to do. He attended the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana as an undergraduate, majoring in bioengineering. After a summer engineering internship, he realized it wasn't the field for him.

That's what sparked him to enter the Chicago Medical School at Rosalind Franklin University. Now, four years later, he can hardly wait to begin his residency.

Excited medical students celebrate after receiving their residency placements.

Great Lakes' Captains' manager Bud Beebe and shipmate Joe Ferro were cast as extras in Feb. 28 television broadcast of Twentieth Century Fox's "Prison Break."

A tip about the casting opportunity was posted on the Midwest Suburban League's Web site that advertised the television show was looking for fans to serve as cast members to portray players on the 1976 Chicago Cubs ball club.

The troupe of fans and baseball players was scheduled to gather at the Cubby Bear Lounge on Clark and Addison for costume, hair, makeup, and paperwork that needed to be filled out before filming started at 6:30 a.m. in Wrigley Field.

"I had to do this ... playing on Wrigley Field in a Cub's uniform, it's a dream come true," said Beebe.

Though neither were cast to actually show off their athletic talents on the Wrigley infield, they did get a chance to build an acting resume. Ferro was given direction to look tough in the dugout while Beebe signed autographs for children in the stands.

Despite the below-freezing early-morning temperatures that the cast and crew endured that Tuesday morning, both Ferro and Beebe agree that it was a great opportunity.

"Even though I never got a chance to play, just being there was awesome ... [those were] the best seats at Wrigley I'll ever [have]," said Ferro.

The second-season series premier episode of "Prison Break" will be aired in the fall on Fox, and is currently broadcast on Mondays at 7 p.m.

Car shopping: Knowing your credit score can help put you in the driver's seat

If you're in the market for a new set of wheels, you need to know much more than the make and model of your dream car or truck. Whether you buy or lease, it's important to walk into the dealership knowing your credit score and the interest rate you're likely to receive. This information can help put you in the driver's seat when negotiating a car loan.

One of the driving factors in determining loan interest rates is this three digit number ranging from 300 to 850 commonly known as your FICO credit score. Lenders frequently use this number as a benchmark to estimate their risk; if you'll pay off your loans and whether you'll pay on time. For today's car shoppers, understanding your credit score and how lenders view your credit history can be indispensable in helping you negotiate the best deal possible.

With this in mind, here are few credit management tips to help car shoppers take control of the buying process:

Do your credit homework

Understanding your credit is the first step in the car buying process. Equifax recommends that you get a copy of your credit report several times a year, especially before you approach a lender. This allows you to familiarize yourself with your credit history and ensure that the information on your file is up-to-date. Reviewing your credit report in advance enables you to address any outstanding balances and note late payments which could cost you money in interest charges. It pays to know.

Know your credit score

In the world of car financing, educated consumers who know their FICO credit score are empowered to make more informed buying decisions. Higher scores typically signal a lower credit risk and can help position you for more favorable interest rates. Securing a lower annual percentage interest rate can save you thousands of dollars over the life of a loan.

Consumers can purchase their FICO score online through a number of resources, including equifax.com. Equifax is the only credit reporting company that allows consumers to see the average interest rates that are associated to credit score ranges for various loan packages. Through the Score Watch product, consumers can choose to view an auto loan, new or used with different repayment lengths. Knowing your score and interest rate that you could get will help save money and determine the best time to buy.

Monitor your credit status

Don't wait — be proactive and keep a close watch on your credit score. Continual credit monitoring will help keep you informed of any changes in your credit file. Tools such as Score Watch are designed to monitor and alert users when there is a meaningful change to their credit score that may affect an ideal interest rate. Consumers who take advantage of these credit management tools and do their credit homework will be well positioned to obtain the best loan rates relative to their financial situation.

Three of six referendums pass

STAFF REPORTS

While referendums are historically difficult to pass in the areas that would be affected, three were successful in the March 21 primary.

Below is a brief look at each referendum vote and what it means to the respective communities in which they were proposed.

Landslide win

The $22 million bond referendum in Fremont School District 79 passed by a landslide on Election Day.

Nearly 71 percent of the 3,448 voters approved the referendum, which will allow the district to sell bonds to pay for the construction of a new elementary school, an addition to the existing elementary school and renovations to the middle school.

The district, in unincorporated Mundelein, currently houses about 275 students in mobile classrooms. Construction will begin this summer, with the new school set to open for the 2007-2008 school year.

Officials are pleased with the results. Superintendent Rick Taylor said the margin by which the referendum passed is overwhelming.

"The bottom line on this referendum is that the community is investing in [its] children," he said.

Hard work pays off

Dennis Stonewall and his sidekick Walter "Wally" Korpan looked like a pair of tired and not-so-successful Vaudeville comedians last week.

Stonewall, chief executive officer, and Korpan, chief financial officer of District 116 had been making all the rounds, hitting all the governmental hot spots trying to get the word out about the District 116 building referendum.

All their efforts were rewarded Tuesday night as the referendum passed.

Unofficial election results as of Wednesday show that 1,756 voters went to the polls on the issue. The "yes" vote came in at 975 and the "no" at 781.

With the referendum's passage, approximately $11 million of the bond monies would go towards the demolition of Magee Middle School, a 40,000 square foot facility that would be rebuilt.

The other $6 million of the $17 million figure will provide a common space at the high school and provide all of the elementary facilities in the district with new air conditioning and boiler heating units.

D34 referendum defeated

School District 34's referendum asking taxpayers to help fund two new schools failed by a margin of 600 to 700 votes.

The district hasn't decided yet whether to put the referendum back on November or Spring 2007 ballots, said Scott Thompson, district superintendent.

Officials had no alternative to the $45.6 million building project. If the referendum had been approved, it would have hiked the tax rate by 20 cents. For a home with a value of $200,000, it would have added $123 a year to that homeowner's taxes.

'A tough sell'

Warren-Newport Public Library District will not annex unincorporated Newport Township into its territory after voters in the unincorporated area voted down a referendum that proposed the move.

Voters in the current district and potential new territory had to approve the referendum, which appeared on the ballot for primary elections March 21.

Sixty-six percent of voters within the district approved the referendum, whereas 20 percent of those from unincorporated Newport Township voted "yes."

Stephen Bero, library director at WNPL, said that the library's staff is disappointed, but not surprised.

a tough sell," he said. "They've lived without library services for such a long time."

Dist. 114 children to benefit

Quality education programs will continue at their present level in Fox Lake School District 114 due to the passage of a referendum.

District officials and representatives of CARE, the pro-referendum group, celebrated the passage of a .25 cents per $100 of assessed value referendum on the March 21 ballot. This will raise the Working Cash Fund rate for six years.

"We had a wonderful, fantastic group," said Jane Ferrigan-Wilson, co-chairman of CARE 114, or Community advocates for the Referendum Supporting Education.

The unofficial final total was 843 yes to 681 no.

The owner of a home with a market value of $250,000 will see an annual increase of $208.33, or about $17.36 per month. The measure will generate $3.75 million for the district.

Narrow defeat

Just 103 votes on Election Day marked the defeat of Mundelein High School District 120's referendum regarding a proposed educational tax rate increase.

Slightly more than 49 percent of the 5,323 votes were cast to pass the referendum. The opposition barely defeated the measure with slightly less than 51 percent of the votes.

The referendum would not have raised taxes for district residents. It called for an increase in the maximum annual educational tax rate, which is scheduled to drop 40 cents. The referendum sought to keep the tax rate at the current $2.20 rather than allowing it to decrease to $1.80.

LLV Chamber offers 'Springfest'

The Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce and Lakes Community High School Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) school program will host a "Springfest" business expo at Lakes Community High School, located at the intersections of Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads, on Saturday and Sunday, April 1-2 from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Lake Villa. The theme will be "Saluting Our Community" through different not-for-profit organizations.

Lakes Community High School is located at 1600 Eagle Way Dr. in Lake Villa. For more information, call the chamber office at (847) 356-8446, or visit www.llvchamber.com.

COMMUNITY

After 27 years, Geo-Karis bows out

By ESTHER J. CEPEDA
news@lakelandmedia.com

Despite a very public outpouring of support for incumbent State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), the privacy of the voting booth took its toll on the Grand Dame of Lake County Politics' in the State Senate District 31 Republican primary.

Geo-Karis earned 44 percent of the vote on March 21, which was not enough to defeat Warren Township Supervisor Sue Simpson, who garnered 55 percent.

Geo-Karis' campaign headquarters had been a buzz of activity and had initially smelled victory during the early hours of the poll counts.

The Chicagoland media outlets were on hand early on Election Day to see whether the longest standing senate member would be able to withstand the pressure from her hand-picked protégé.

Despite her disappointing loss, Geo-Karis, 87, was vibrant and in good spirits the entire evening, even as early tallies showed a growing Simpson lead.

By 8:30 pm the high spirits were flagging and revelers at the Geo-Karis camp started realizing that her unprecedented 27-year senate reign was coming to an end. Geo-Karis was, as always, perfectly coiffed, dressed to the nines, dignified and ready with her trademark smile and words of encouragement.

"I believe we did our best," she said. "We ran a positive campaign with no attacks and no sleaze. I attacked issues, I didn't attack people. I was attacked many times but that's OK. I gave it a worthwhile shot honorably."

Geo-Karis happily told her legion of supporters, "I'm still the senator in office until January and I'll keep working hard for you as I always have."

Geo-Karis was to board a plane Wednesday morning headed for Springfield to get back to work.

After the loss, Geo-Karis looked toward the future.

"There are several people who are interested in writing my memoirs and I think I'll be doing that," she said, adding that she has not ruled out continuing her mission of public service.

As State Senator Terry Link, Chairman of the Lake County Democratic Party and his wife Susie arrived to greet Geo-Karis with hugs and teary eyes, and extend their continued support, many in the crowd openly floated the idea of turning toward the Democratic Party, with whom Geo-Karis has long had a strong relationship.

"I've always served people," she said. "I don't know where or how, but I will continue to serve the people of Lake County."

Early in the evening a cautious Suzanne Simpson, current Warren Township Supervisor, had already fielded a slew of congratulatory phone calls.

"I had told everyone to meet for the party at 8 o'clock but by then so many of the votes were in, I was feeling very anxiously happy," Simpson said. "At one point I was leading by 1,000 votes but I told my campaign manager don't tell me anymore until we're sure I've won."

It didn't take long to see a clear victory.

"It was an exciting evening," Simpson said. "I thank the good Lord and the good people of the 31st district for having so much confidence in me"

Simpson will now face a Woodland School District 50 board member, Democrat Michael Bond of Grayslake, in the November election.

"I'm looking forward to campaigning, it'll be a grueling fight in the fall but I have my team in place and we'll be moving forward," Simpson said.

In the immediate future, an exhausted Simpson will be taking a short break to visit friends in Virginia. Upon her return, she said she has plans to honor her good friend Geo-Karis.

"She was extremely gracious," Simpson said. "She called to congratulate me and wish me luck. I anticipate honoring her and paying homage to her decades of service to Lake County."

BURNING ISSUES

► Someone asked the great David Pearson about the fact that NASCAR accepted corporate support for three decades from R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and now gladly works with Nicorette on smoking cessation. "What that proves," said Pearson, "is that NASCAR will do anything for money."

► Pearson, who won 105 races, quit smoking many years ago. Six great names from the past — Pearson, Richard Petty, Ned Jarrett, Benny Parsons, Buddy Baker and Donnie Allison — served as grand marshals for the Nicorette 300 Busch Series event.

► Atlanta Motor Speedway has been the site of the last two Cup rainouts. The fall race in 2003 was postponed to the following day.

► Holiday Inn, which will sponsor Jeff Burton in selected Busch Series races, eventually plans to move up to Nextel Cup sponsorship.

► Burton ended a long dry spell by winning the Nicorette 300. He hadn't won a Busch Series race since October 2002, when he won at Lowe's Motor Speedway.

► Rivals Tony Stewart and Kyle Busch seem to be meeting in the motor-coach lot every week. After his driving tactics drew Stewart's fire in Las Vegas, the two met for the third week in a row prior to the Atlanta event.

► Ryan Newman came oh, so close to winning his seventh consecutive pole at Atlanta Motor Speedway. It was another Dodge driver, Kasey Kahne, who turned a lap that was 2/1,000ths of a second faster than Newman's.

► Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s qualifying woes continued at Atlanta. He's started 18th, 42nd and 27th in the past three races.

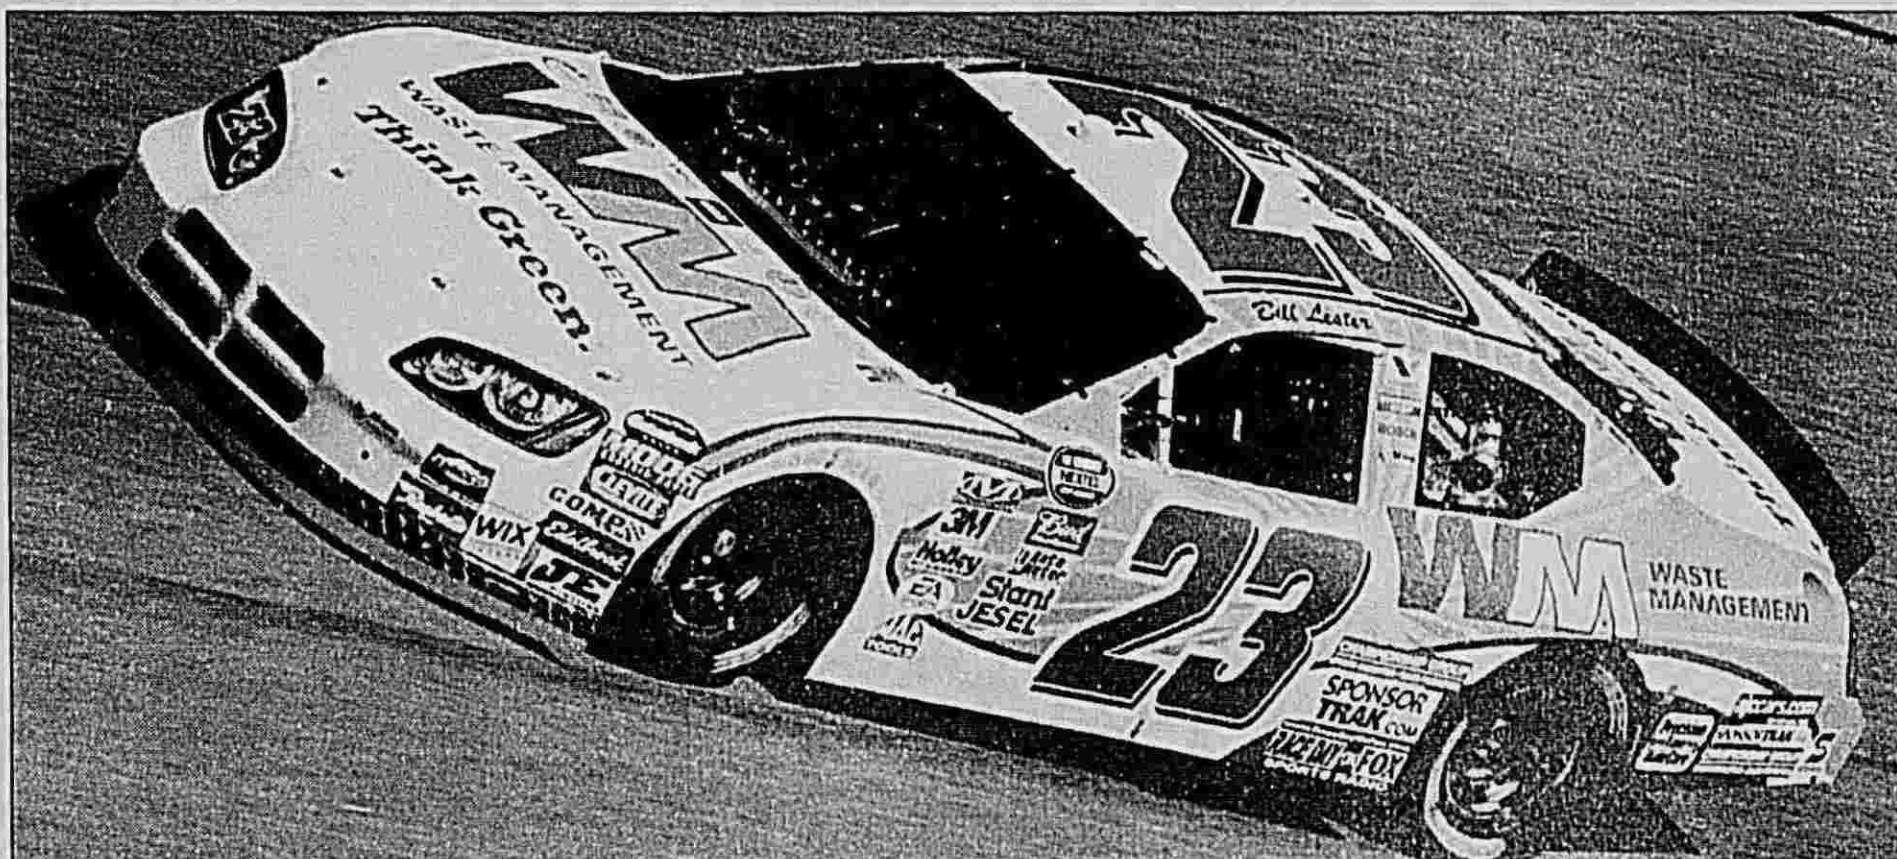

► Georgia has a hardworking citizenry, which was reflected in how few of them laid out of work to attend the race postponed until Monday at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

BILL LESTER

NEXTEL CUP SERIES

No. 23 WASTE MANAGEMENT DODGE

Special to NASCAR This Week

Bill Lester qualified 18th for the Nextel Cup race in Atlanta, becoming the first black racer to qualify for NASCAR's premier series since 1986.

Breaking Barriers

After 106 starts in Trucks, Lester breaks through in Nextel Cup

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

HAMPTON, Ga. — In spite of all the attention inherent in being the first black driver to compete in a major NASCAR race in nearly 20 years, Bill Lester says he just wants to race.

When he qualified 19th for the Golden Corral 500, Lester crossed a barrier last achieved by Willy T. Ribbs. Ribbs competed in three races in 1986, never qualifying better than 29th and never finishing better than 22nd.

Though a bit uncomfortable with the attention, Lester said he was willing to bear the responsibility that came with the territory.

"I'm just trying to make the most of it," said Lester, who finished 38th in Monday's race. "If this is what I have to do, this is fine."

Lester doesn't look it, but he's 45 years old. Being black isn't the only trend he's bucking. He never drove in his first race until he was in his 20s. He began as a road racer, and it was 1999 before he ever found himself drawn to NASCAR.

"I got that taste," he said, "and that's when I knew NASCAR was where I wanted to go."

Lester is unlikely to become a star at the Nextel Cup level. He came along too late. On March 17, he made his 106th start in the Craftsman Truck Series, and for the 106th time in a row, failed to win. NASCAR has always been dominated by the white, but now it's also dominated by the young. Many young drivers bring the advantage of wealth and privilege. Tough kids from the wrong side of the tracks don't reach the big time much anymore. Nowadays the obstacle to Lester and other minority drivers is more economic than racial.

"It's a matter of exposure and opportunity," said Lester. "You have to have money. Kids in urban areas, whether black or Hispanic or white, have mostly been exposed to stick-and-ball sports."

"It takes a lot of money. That's why so many of today's young guns come from affluent families. There are exceptions, though. I'm one of the exceptions. I wasn't exposed to the sport at a young age. I'm just an anomaly."

He hopes to compete in Nextel Cup full-time next year. That, however, will depend on his ability to prove he belongs and to convince sponsors of that fact.

"I hope this (competing in Monday's race) will shake the branches of corporate America," said Lester. "I wish I could've been here 20 years ago. Who knows how long my career will last?"

GUARD - MATT BEHM
GRANT

You've got to have a nickname when you're this good. Matt "Behm Machine" Behm was an absolute machine, logging 19.6 points and 6 rebounds per game despite being relatively undersized and working through a difficult ankle injury in the middle of the season.

FORWARD - MARCUS LEWIS
WARREN

He may not have the numbers that usually qualify for all-area teams, (13 points, 4 rebounds per game) but Lewis was the best scorer in an extremely talented Blue Devil lineup that went to the Super Sectional.

GUARD - ELIAS WASHINGTON
GRAYSLAKE CENTRAL

Washington was part of one of the most prolific one-two punches in the area basketball scene with fellow Ram senior Travis Guy. Despite sharing the limelight, Washington averaged 15 points per game with a mix between 3-point skill (25 treys) and slashing speed that kept defenders guessing.

LIBERTYVILLE

Point guards aren't typically known for scoring, but Matt Hogan can shoot with the best, knocking down 50 treys over the course of the season. When it was all said and done, Hogan averaged 16.2 points and 4 assists per game.

CENTER - RICKY MILLER WAUKEGAN

Miller might not be one for words, but 18 points and 12 rebounds a game speaks plenty about Waukegan's 6-foot-6 big man. He was a big part of a Waukegan roster that went to its third straight sectional appearance, averaging 19.3 points in the Bulldog postseason.

Fabulous Fives

GRAYSLAKE CENTRAL

The Ming dynasty is alive and well in Grayslake after the departure of Kayla Ming. Kara, Kayla's younger sister, has made the Rams proud, leading the team with 15 points per game. Ming also has an ability to rise to the occasion, logging more than half of her team's points in Grayslake's one and only postseason appearance.

GUARD - SHARA SWAGER MUNDELEIN

Despite playing for the varsity squad from her freshman season, she was put into a supporting role until this season when she finally had a chance to shine. Swager led the Mustangs, scoring 13 points per game and led the team to 15 wins despite the Mustangs' "rebuilding" label.

FORWARD - ASHLEY ARFF
GRANT

Bulldog problems have been well documented this season, but through it all stood Arff. The forward led her team with 12.5 points, 5.5 rebounds and 3 steals per game en route to 22 wins despite dealing with major team injuries all season long.

FORWARD - CAROL KRUCKMAN
LIBERTYVILLE

"You wouldn't hit a guy with glasses, would ya?" That's a classic defense for bespectacled people, yet Kruckman hits her opponents with a solid game, leading her team, averaging 14 points and 7 boards per contest. What's the best thing about her for Wildcat coach Amy Holtsford? She'll be back next year.

CENTER - SARAH BOOTHE
WARREN

She's only a sophomore, yet she's already one of the most highly-touted athletes to come from the area in years. Standing at 6-foot-5, Boothe averaged 16.5 points, 8.6 rebounds and 2.5 blocks per game in 2006. She logged the first of many triple-doubles early into the season.

Performing in the clutch

Boys

1. CHUCK KEMPF, Lakes - 23 points 60-59 to Zion-Benton March 1

The Eagles certainly had an inaugural season to be proud of thanks in large part to Lakes dynamic duo Kempf and Sean Hertz. Unfortunately for Lakes fans, the whole team's coming back for next season.

2. (tie) JAQUAN GLOVER, Round Lake - 22 points 67-60 Feb. 27

The Panthers were firing on all cylinders for their first postseason win in the Mark Petrynek era by logging the biggest upset in the Waukegan Sectional bracket thanks to Glover's efforts.

2. (tie) RICKY MILLER, Waukegan - 22 points 72-52 win over Round Lake Feb. 28

Miller proved his worth as a big center, inspiring his team to eventually log the big 20-point victory. Miller proved to be this year's most dangerous playoff scorer, averaging 19.3 points per game in three postseason appearances.

2. (tie) TRAVIS GUY, Grayslake Central - 22 points 46-37 win over Prairie Ridge March 3

What a Guy! Man, that never gets old. Guy and fellow Ram Elias Washington led Grayslake Central to an impressive sectional berth thanks to their senior leadership.

5. ELIAS WASHINGTON, Grayslake Central - 21 points 60-46 Waukegan Sectional Semi-Final loss to Johnsburg March 8

How perfect is it to have Guy and Washington side-by-side, as they have been all season long, leading Grayslake to a 20-8 season. Washington got to 21 points thanks to his explosive speed and shooting skills which makes him a real handful to deal with on the court despite Johnsburg's defensive prowess. When it's do or die time on the basketball court, it can bring out the best in players, or it can intimidate with the thought of an entire season of work resting on one individual game. These were the best individual scoring efforts from a sensational 2006 IHSA playoff season.

Girls

1. STACEY LEACH, Warren - 23 points 76-44 win over Mundelein Feb. 16

Unlike the more balanced boys offensive attack, the Blue Devil girls relied heavily on Leach and sophomore Sarah Boothe for a majority of their offensive punch.

2. (tie) KARA MING, Grayslake Central - 22 points 53-39 loss to Grant Feb. 14

Ming's 22 points made up 56-percent of Grayslake's total offense as the Rams could only muster 39 against a suffocating Bulldog defense.

2. (tie) JAMIE SWANSON, Grant - 22 points 45-43 loss to Cary-Grove Feb. 16

Swanson and the rest of her Bulldogs went through a lot this season, but the senior was bound and determined not to see it all end in their own regional championship game.

4. SHARA SWAGER, Mundelein - 18 points 76-44 loss to Warren in Mundelein Regional Championship Feb. 16

Swager, who was consigned to a support role for her freshman through junior seasons due to Mundelein's excellent 2005 class truly shined as a senior.

5. (tie) SIERRA SHIPLEY, Waukegan - 17 points 53-48 win against Wauconda Feb. 13

While Shipley's scoring output was matched by Blue Devils Sarah Boothe and Stacey Leach in the Warren Sectional Championship game, Shipley's performance was marked as a sign of things to come by Bulldogs girls coach Rommel Drake.

Lakeland newspapers salutes some of the greatest performers in the '05-'06 basketball season

dpatrik@nwnewsgroup.com

Another prep basketball season has come and gone and like many former high school ballers, I couldn't help but shed a tear. But, retrospect provides a chance to look at the great events in the 2005-2006 Lake County basketball season.

Best program — Warren Township High School

Without a doubt, this was the year of the Blue Devil in Lake County. Between both the girls and boys teams, Warren came away with single-digit loss totals with a combined record of 55-9 in the '05-'06 season.

Big wins were also in the cards for Warren as both teams also took home their respective regional and sectional titles. The secret to success for veteran coaches John Stanczykiewicz and Chuck Ramsey was simple — talent.

On the boys side, not only did the starting five (Jordan Dalton, Marvin Bemby, Ceola Clark, Marcus Lewis and Mitchell Moore) make the All-North Suburban Conference list, the sixth man did too as Logan Derrick made the all-conference honorable mention list.

The girls were just as stacked with sophomore sensation Sarah Boothe along with the veteran presence of Giuleana Lopez, Stacey Leach (15 points per game), Jessica Bollinger (9.3 ppg) and Melanie Duplessis. Forget that Boothe's 6-foot-5, she already possesses a wicked jump hook from both hands and can be deadly with a 10- to 15-foot set shot.

Best surprise — Wauconda boys basketball

The Bulldogs boys basketball program seems to hearken back to another era as many on the roster are traditional multi-sport athletes. Without the specialization that athletes at other schools have, Wauconda has rarely enjoyed winning boys basketball programs.

That all changed this year. The Bulldogs burst onto the scene with a 7-1 record early that resulted in a 18-win season for one of the most impressive marks in years.

Thanks to impressive play from multi-faceted veterans Tim Schwarz, Kris Gehrke and Steve Bilisko, Wauconda has finally made a name for itself in the NSC-Prairie.

Schwarz was a beast this year, averaging 18 points and 5 rebounds a game en route to the best season in years for Bulldogs basketball.

Best comeback — Grant girls basketball

Lakeland readers have heard plenty of the hardships the Grant girls basketball team has been forced to overcome this season. However, "overcome" is simply too weak of a verb for what the Lady Bulldogs did this year. Perhaps "annihilate" would be better.

Despite losing promising young center Becka Gonyo to illness before the season and watching each of his stars Kaela Munster and Lauren Liles to injury over the course of the season, coach Tom Oeffling and Ashley Arff led the team to a 22-8 season.

Grant's comeback to prominence was so inspiring, a song could be written about it — oh wait, that's been done.

Best playoff game — Antioch Regional Semi-Final

Antioch 53, North Chicago 52
Huge crowds and obnoxious signs aren't always needed for a basketball classic as the unheralded Antioch girls basketball team showed a few weeks ago.

Sure the game wasn't on the biggest stage in just the opening round of the Antioch Regional. However, the Sequoits showed that they could defend their turf in style by logging the only upset in the entire WTHS sectional bracket.

It wasn't the stage, it wasn't the upset, heck, it wasn't even the one-point final difference, it was the way Antioch did it.

Facing a 12-point deficit early in the fourth quarter, no. 9 Antioch had no choice but to turn it on against No. 7 North Chicago. The Sequoits proceeded to erase the deficit by scoring timely baskets and kept the opponent's rock out of the hole, as Antioch senior Megan McCarthy scored all five of the game's final points for the dramatic 1-point win.

There you have it, another basketball season in the books. While there are certainly other facets of the season to explore, 2005-2006 definitely had its fair share of wonderful memories.

New pro basketball team coming to Lake County

Beware Lake County basketball fans, there's a new face in town as the Lake County Lakers, owned by College of Lake County men's basketball coach Shawn Chism, is returning to play this season. The Lakers are an affiliate team of the International Basketball League (IBL). The league has announced the expansion of eleven teams for the upcoming season, Lake County, Illinois being one of the select 11.

The week after Sarah was diagnosed, she finished a marathon. Then the real race began.

Sarah Cooper, breast cancer survivor

Even after she was diagnosed, Sarah continued, finishing a marathon the very next week. So when her hometown doctor told her she would have to wait three weeks to begin treatment, she wasn't content to lose precious time.

"I came to CTCA for a second opinion, and I got right in," she said. "When I arrived I was lost, bewildered. But the staff and the other patients helped me find my way. I left with an overwhelming feeling of, 'okay, we can take care of this.'"

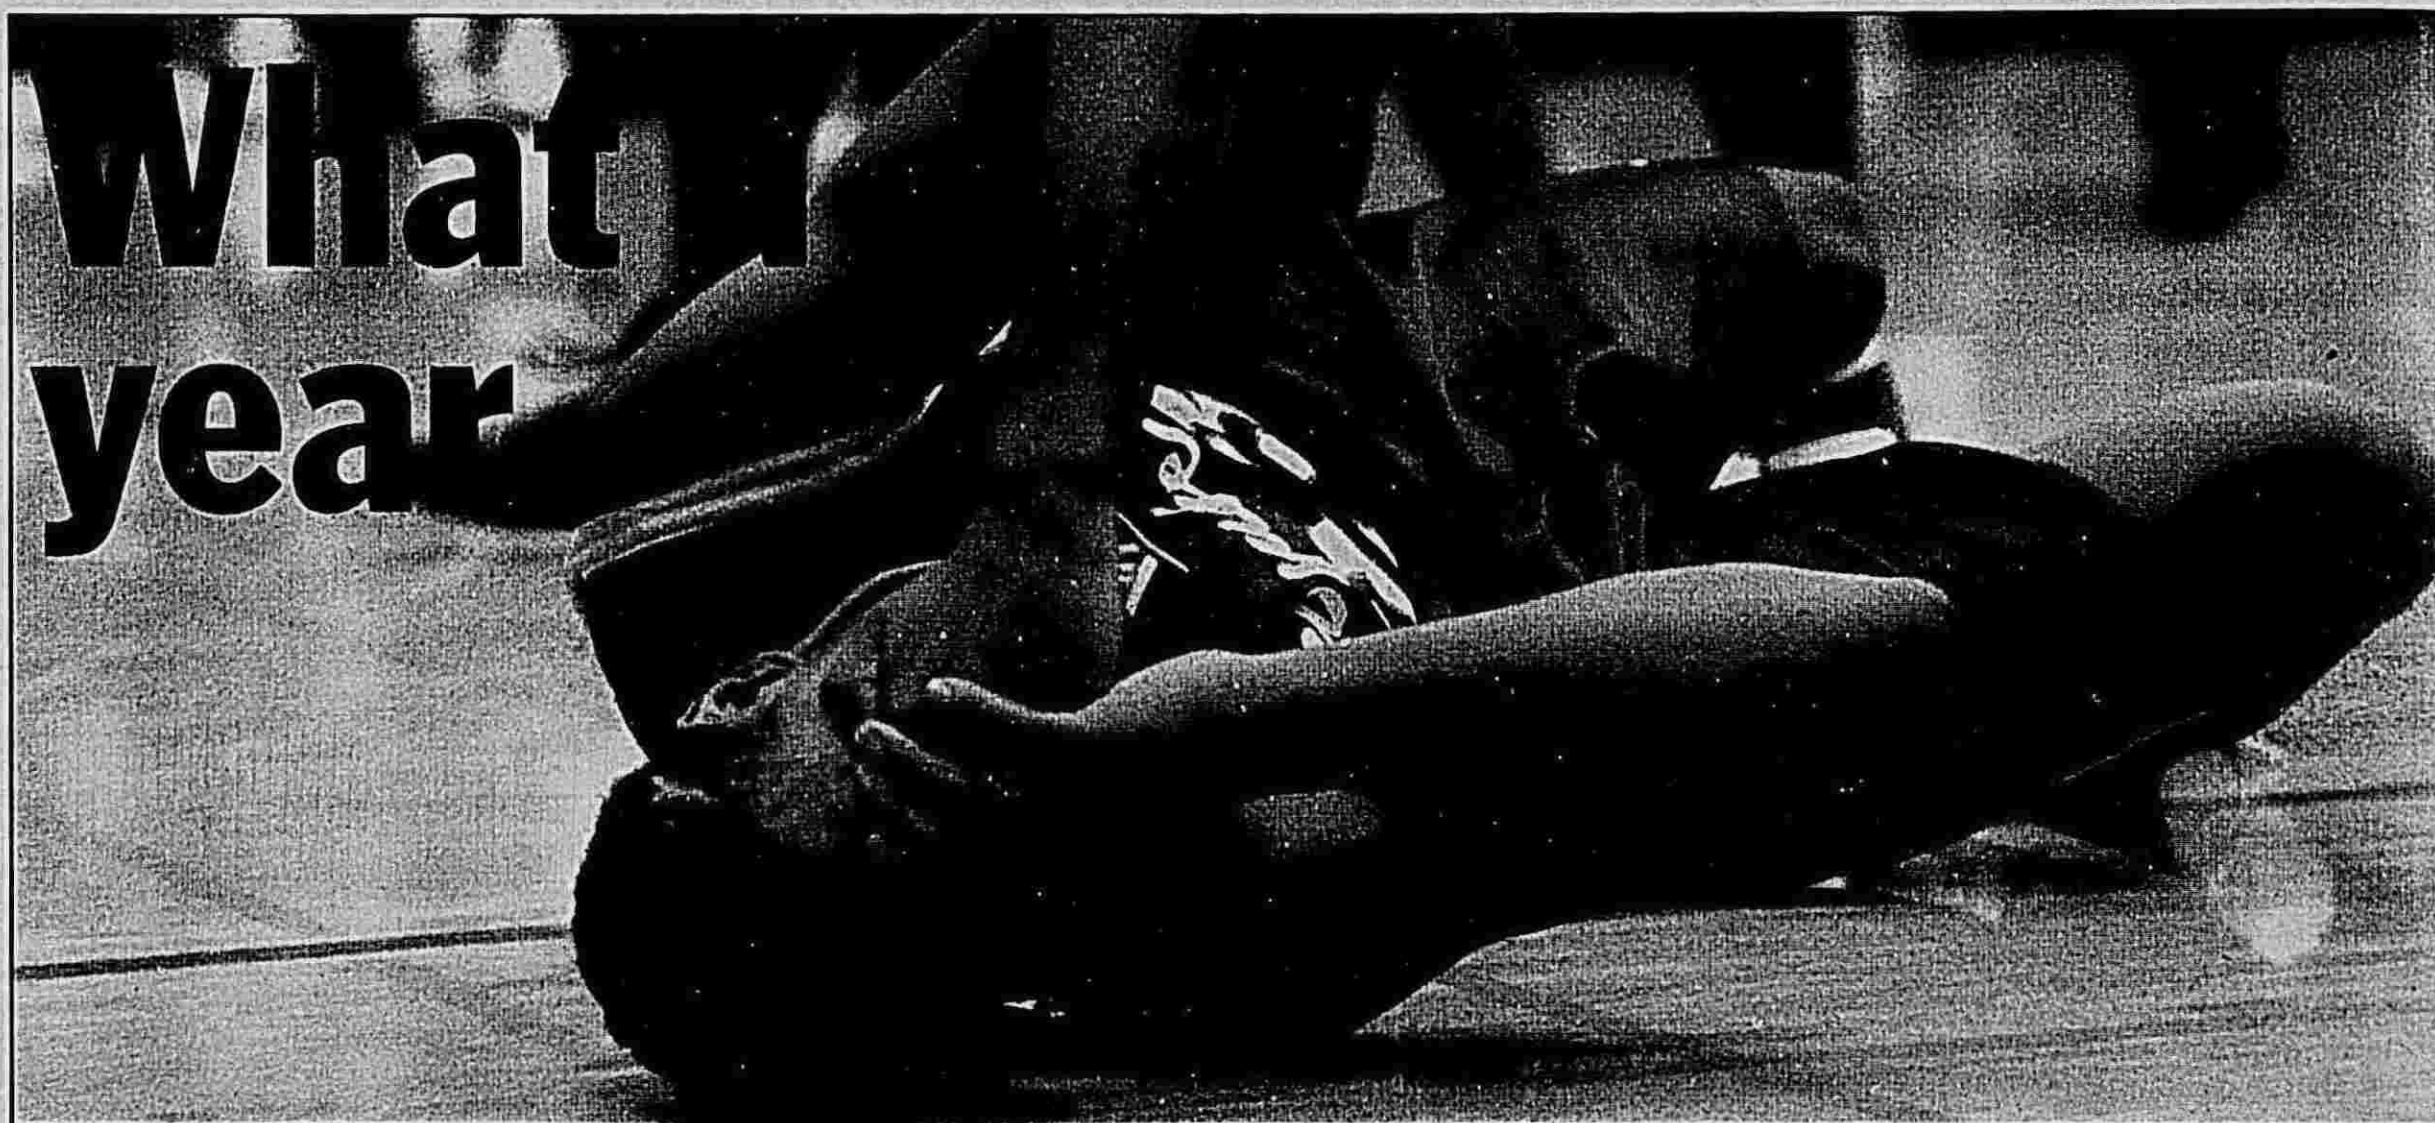

She did take care of it, crossing the finish line with a victory over breast cancer. Call CTCA today for information about winning your race.

Sherman carries Wauconda racing pride to new level

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

A new hobby is catching on in Wauconda that will continue, backers hope, until just before Thanksgiving.

That is, gather around the big-screen TV and watch local hero Brent Sherman vie for national honors in NASCAR racing. The effort is underway, as Sherman's friends gathered at the Wauconda Moose Lodge to watch car No. 49 compete in the prestigious Daytona 500. Sherman finished in No. 22 spot, third among rookies.

John Doran knows not to expect to see much of his neighbor until this year's holidays.

"He gets home from a race on Monday and by Wednesday or Thursday he is off to the next stop. We try and get together and relax on Bangs Lake. It's awesome (Sherman's NASCAR status)," Doran said.

Duran has become a racing fan and now that the neighbor is among those going up against Dale Earnhardt Jr. and other name drivers, other family members are following the interest.

Many sported T-shirts with Sherman's No. 49 and the hall was decked in the blue and gold colors of the team. Sherman is part of the BAM Racing team. It is a North Carolina based team led by owner Bethann and Tony Morgenthau. Serta Mattress is the chief sponsor.

Moose Lodge 1969 members said Sherman has done much for them, as he is a member. He appeared during the off-season as a student's "show and tell" day project at Robert Crown School in Wauconda.

"He is good to us. We're a racing driven lodge," said Jerry Geltner of Wauconda.

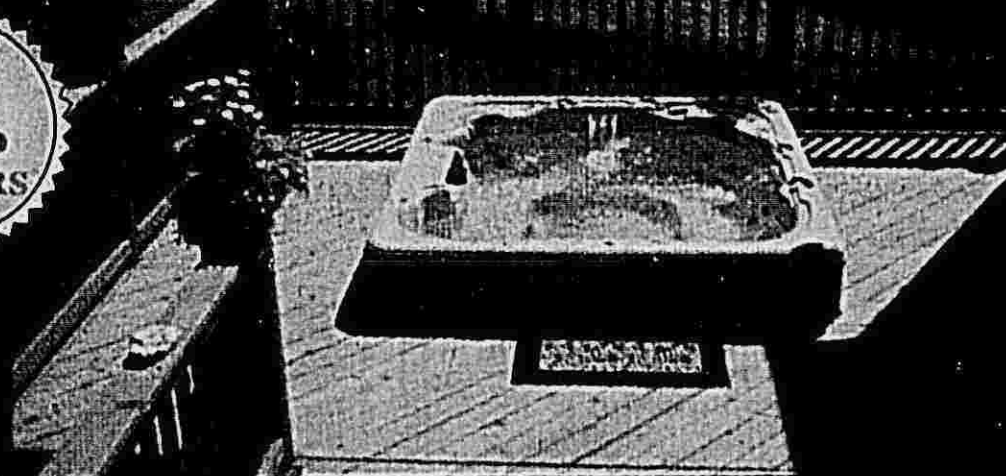

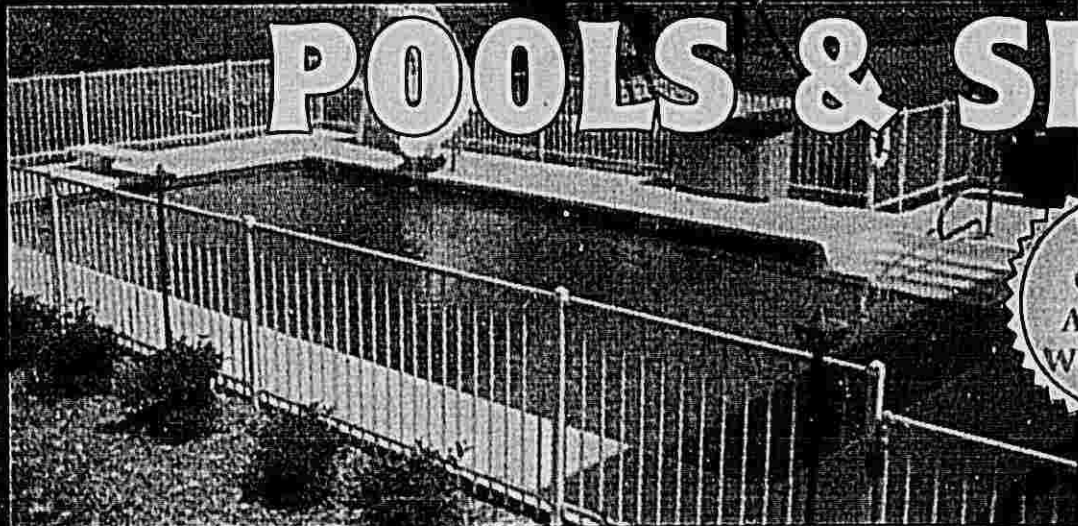

Geltner described the race from Daytona as "the Super Bowl of racing. The Super Bowl of football and the World Series are at the end of the season, but in racing, it is at the beginning," Geltner said.

"We'll do all we can for him. He

David Mamet's 'A Life in the Theater' looks behind the scenes

By TOM WITOM

Critics, agents and fellow actors all get their knuckles rapped in "A Life in the Theater," an early David Mamet play getting a superb revival at Chicago's Goodman Theater under the sharp direction of Robert Falls.

But the one thing agreed on by the two characters featured in this 80-minute production about the complex relationship between actors and their craft is how acting brings them a sense of fulfillment.

In "A Life in the Theater," Robert, a lonely, aging veteran played by David Darlow, initially serves as a role model for a talented young actor, John (Matt Schwader).

The dynamics subtly shift, however, and it becomes apparent that John's star is on the ascendancy. He's certainly the one getting all the congratulatory flowers.

Both are members of the same repertory company, and the scenes mostly take place behind the curtain in the dressing room or green room as the characters discuss acting style and technique, compare notes on each other's performance and critique a female lead. One hilarious play-within-a-play scene finds the pair hamming for audience attention while crammed in a rocky boat debating the likelihood of a downpour while in another scene they are in the trenches during World War I right before the armistice.

Robert, senses that he is at the top of his game, but recognizes that is about to change. He is sensitive about every facet of his performance and objects vehemently to one-upmanship or any efforts that might draw the limelight away from him onstage. When he flubs a line or misses a cue, he seeks solace in alcohol with increasing frequency.

There's a poignant scene toward the end in which the master-pupil relationship is fully reversed as an envious Robert hides in the wings observing John rehearse to an otherwise empty theater. Later, the circle closes during an operating room scene that's both hilarious and heard-wrenching.

Darlow does a fine job as the old pro who is slowly losing his grip. In one scene, he enters with a bloody towel around his wrist and explains matter-of-factly, "My razor slipped." Meanwhile, Schwader connects with his role as the young generation ready to take success in stride.

Mark Wendland's realistic all-in-one cutaway set, Birgit Rattenborg-Wise's dandy costumes and Michael Philippi's careful lighting all enhanced the production.

"A Life in the Theater," which premiered at the Goodman in 1977 when Mamet was only 30 years old, is but one of several plays that the theater will showcase during a seven-week tribute to the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright. They range from 1972's "The Duck Variations" to his most recent farce, "Romance" (2005).

'N*W*C*' - The Race Show to be presented at CLC

Hip-hop, slam poetry, stand-up comedy and theater collide to tell the unlikely, uplifting and hilarious true story of three people from different walks who beat the odds and became best friends. "N*W*C*," the smash comedy with the name nobody wants to say, is coming to the College of Lake County Mainstage Theatre on Wednesday, April 5 at 7 p.m.

In their own original style, three former UCLA students, Rafael Agustin, Allan Axibal and Miles Gregley, take on the issue of race with good humor, talent and theatre smarts.

"The result is a show that uses laughs to comment on cross-cultural relations, the impact of race on individual identity and more," said Gwethalyn Bronner, director of the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts. "The underlying message of tolerance and personal growth makes this production a must-see for the entire community. I think our presentation of "N*W*C*" is timely, relevant and in a format that young adults will receive well." In addition to the performance, the cast and directors will hold workshops with CLC students on April 4.

National Public Radio host Tavis Smiley has called "N*W*C*" "A very funny play, and a very important one as well." The UCLA Bruin described the show as "A powerhouse of political theater? an urgent call for racial harmony and an end to bigotry and ignorance." In 2003, the show won the award for best play from the American Readers Theater Association. Co-writers Steven T. Seagle and Liesel Reinhart also direct the show, which is a production of Speak Theater Arts. To learn more about the production, visit www.speak-theaterarts.com or www.speak-theaterarts.com.

"N*W*C*" will be presented in the Mainstage Theatre at the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts on the CLC Grayslake campus, 19351 W. Washington St. Tickets are $25 for the general public and $15 for CLC students, staff, CLC Alumni Association. Tickets can be purchased by calling the CLC Box Office at (847) 543-2300, or online at www.clcillinois.edu/tickets or www.clcillinois.edu/tickets. This event is sponsored in part by a grant from the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

CLC Theatre Department presents 'A Midsummer Night's Dream'

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" by William Shakespeare will be presented by the College of Lake County Theatre Department April 7 to 9 and April 13 to 15 in the Studio Theatre of the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts.

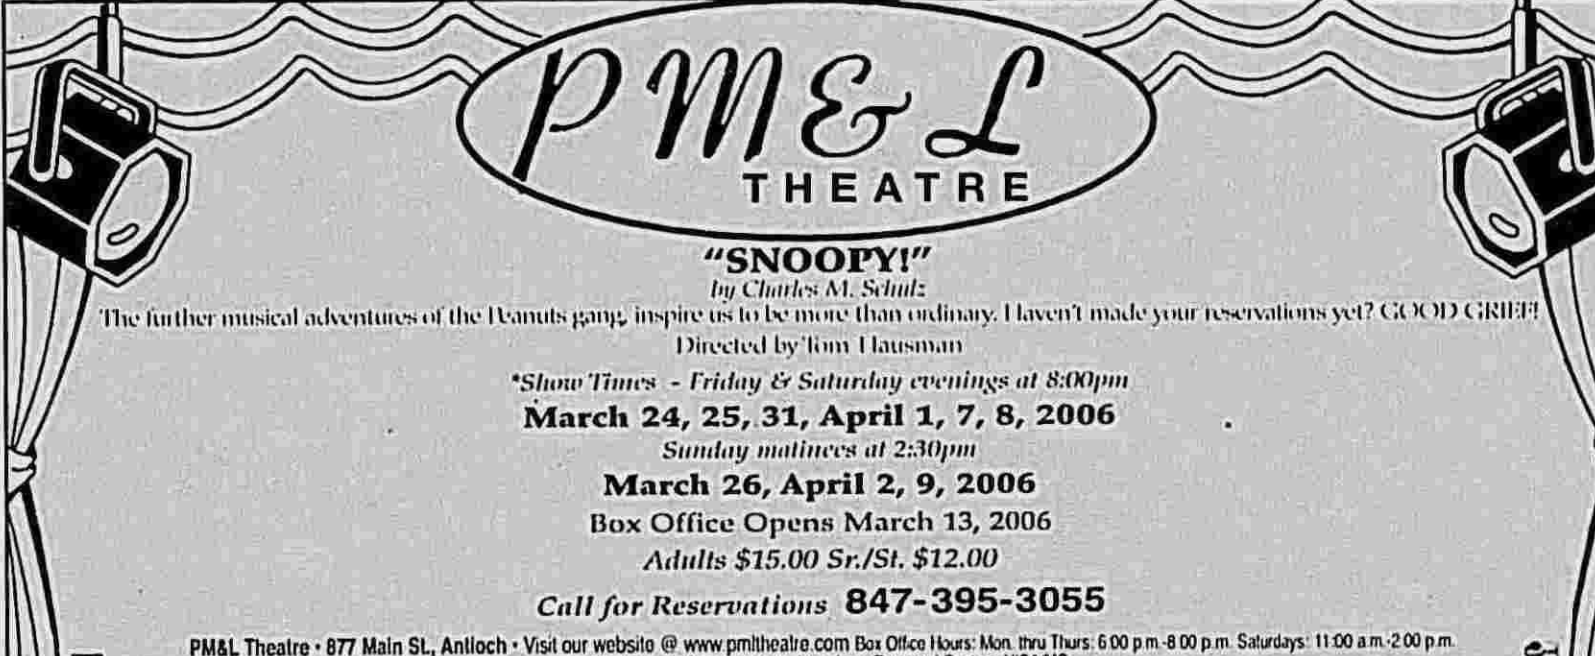

As one of Shakespeare's most imaginative and delightful creations, this beloved comedy centers on a quartet of lovers -- Helena, Demetrius, Hermia and Lysander -- who get wrapped up in a whirlwind of parental disapproval, mistaken identity and an escape to a surreal moonlit forest inhabited by actors and magical fairies, all with unexpected and outrageous results.

The show is directed by Craig Rich, with sets and lighting designed by Thomas Mitchell. Tickets are $9 for the general public and $7 for CLC students, staff, members of the Alumni Association and seniors 65 and over. Performance times are at 7:30 p.m. on April 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 and 2 p.m. on April 9.

For tickets, call (847) 543-2300 or visit www.clcillinois.edu/tickets or www.clcillinois.edu/tickets. The James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts is located on the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington Ave.

Yuja Wang to make Symphony Center debut

Symphony Center recently announced that pianist Yuja Wang has graciously agreed to replace Murray Perahia for the Sara Lee Piano Series concert on Sunday, March 26 at 3 p.m. The 19-year-old pianist, winner of the prestigious 2006 Gilmore Young Artist Award, will make her Symphony Center debut with a recital program to include music by Scarlatti, Chopin, Rachmaninov, Mendelssohn, Behr, Brahms and Ravel. As previously announced, Ms. Wang will make her debut as soloist with the Chicago Symphony in March 2007, performing Prokofiev's Piano Concerto No. 2 under the baton of Charles Dutoit.

Yuja Wang
Pianist

Ms. Wang's March 26 piano recital includes Scarlatti's Sonata in D major, K. 491 and Sonata in D minor, K. 141; Chopin's Sonata No. 2 in B-flat minor, op. 35, (Funeral March);

Rachmaninov's Vocalise, op. 34, no. 14 as arranged by Alan Richardson; Mendelssohn's Scherzo from A Midsummer Night's Dream as arranged by Rachmaninov; Behr's polka de W.R., de Lachtaubchen, op. 303 as arranged by Rachmaninov; Brahms' Three Intermezzos, op. 117; and Ravel's Jeux d'eau, Alborada del gracioso, and La valse.

Born in Beijing in 1987, Yuja Wang made her debut with the Tonhalle Orchestra in Zurich, Switzerland under the baton of David Zinman in September 2003. In February 2005, she dazzled National Arts Centre Orchestra audiences in Ottawa, Canada when she stepped in on short notice to replace acclaimed piano veteran Radu Lupu. For the past three years, Ms. Wang has attended The Curtis Institute in Philadelphia as a student of Gary Graffman.

Tickets are $18 - $40 and can be purchased by calling PhoneCharge at (312) 294-3000 or (800) 223-7114, or by visiting either the CSO's Website at www.cso.org or at the Symphony Center Box Office at 220 S. Michigan Ave. in Chicago.

Sharing the spotlight at the Hemmens

Chris Korblein, critically acclaimed European guitar sensation, scheduled to perform his unique style of romantic jazz at the Hemmens Theatre in Elgin on March 24 looks to surprise his audience with a special treat. Chris will invite young local musicians to join him on stage, jamming on a song or two. "About a year and half ago I realized what a great forum I had to introduce young local talent to playing on a big stage."

Korblein is looking for young electric guitarists, 12 to 19 years old, who would like to jam with a group of world-class musicians in front of an audience of several hundred people. "It's really exciting because you never know what will happen," Chris declares, but is quick to add that it is not likely to be risky for the newcomer; "Of course we do what we can to make him or her look good musically. It's not a competition."

Chris Korblein
Guitarist

"Since we started the Sharing to Spotlight segment it has become one of my favorites," he continues. "My first time on stage happened the same way: a local act in my hometown pulled me up on stage and put me in the spotlight. Of course

I was horrified but when I heard the applause after the song I realized that I had probably had more fun than ever before in my life. I am sure this moment was a big influence on my decision to get into this business."

For more information and information on how to be selected to perform with Chris at the Hemmens, please go to www.korblein.com/spotlight.

Tickets for this show are on sale now. Tickets are $40 (Golden Circle, $25 (Main Floor) and $15 (Balcony). Orders can be taken via phone on the 24-hour charge it line (847) 931-5900, on-line at www.hemmens.org, or through the Box Office located in the Hemmens lobby at 45 Symphony Way in Elgin.

Skokie Valley Symphony Orchestra presents Rhythms of America

The Skokie Valley Symphony Orchestra is proud to announce Rhythms of America as the third program of its 44th season providing outstanding classical music to the Chicago-area community. Under the direction of Daniel Boico, Conductor and Musical Director, the excitement and diversity of American music is celebrated through the genius of composers George Gershwin and Steven Gerber. Rhythms of America takes place on Sunday, March 26 at 4 p.m. at the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie.

Featuring guest soloist Aviram Reichert, a medallist of the 1997 Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, Rhythms of America draws from folk music, blues and jazz rhythms. The program includes a heartwarming rendition of George Gershwin's "Piano Concerto in F" performed by Reichert and Gershwin's electrifying "Catfish Row Suite" from Porgy and Bess. The orchestra is also honored to present the premiere of Steven Gerber's Symphony No. 2 "Elegies and Fanfares."

"We are celebrating the melting pot of what constitutes American music," says Conductor Boico. "Reichert's artistry is demonstrated in the way he moves between notes and creates phrases."

Steven Gerber, highly recognized in Eastern Europe, especially Russia, composed Symphony No. 2 in response to the events of September 11th and dedicated the score to longtime friend Boico. Gerber says, "I know my music will come across in the emotionally powerful way I intended it to. The combination of Maestro Boico's experience with my music, and his ability to draw the best from his musicians is a guarantee."

Internationally-acclaimed Javier Perianes performs in Ravinia's Rising Stars Series

Award-winning pianist Javier Perianes makes his debut in Ravinia Festival's Rising Stars series on Friday, March 24 with an 8 p.m. performance in Bennett Gordon Hall in the John D. Harza Building on the festival grounds. Designed to provide young musicians with the opportunity to refine their performing skills, this unique program encourages audiences to experience and support new talent while presenting musicians with the chance to perform before perceptive audiences in an intimate setting.

The program will include Schubert's Four Impromptus, D. 899; Chopin's Ballade in F Minor, Op. 52; and Chopin's Sonata in B Minor, Op. 6.

A native of Huelva, Spain, Perianes claimed victory at the 43rd International Piano Competition at Jaen, Spain, in April 2001, one of the most prestigious and challenging contests of its kind in the world. Known for the depth and poetry of his magisterial performances, he has studied at the Upper Conservatory in Seville and the Royal Conservatory of Music in Madrid. Perianes was one of two top prize winners in the 2001 Vianna da Motta International Piano Competition in Lisbon. He made his North American debut with the Symphonic Orchestra of Mexico in 2002 and has recorded the music of Beethoven, Schubert and Debussy among others.

All Rising Stars concerts begin at 8 p.m. in Bennett Gordon Hall, Ravinia's acoustically perfect 450-seat recital hall located in the John D. Harza Building on the festival's grounds.

The Ravinia Festival is located on Lake Cook and Green Bay Roads in Highland Park. Tickets for Rising Star concerts are $15. For information or to order tickets with any major credit card, please call the box office at (847) 266-5100.

Kraft Family Matinee Series concludes with selection from Mozart's The Magic Flute

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra's 2005-2006 Kraft Family Matinee series concludes on Saturday, April 8 at 11 a.m. and 12:45 p.m. with a performance of selections from Mozart's beloved opera The Magic Flute. Led by guest conductor Edwin Outwater and featuring the CSO and soloists from the Chicago Symphony Chorus, this performance is part of Symphony Center's season-long celebration of Mozart's 250th birthday. Kraft Family

Matinee series concerts are recommended for families with children ages 5 to 9.

Audience members will experience a behind-the-scenes look at how a great composer uses the many colors of sound present in the instruments of the orchestra and in the human voice, as Mr. Outwater takes apart and reconstructs The Magic Flute, one of Mozart's most famous operas. This brilliant comic masterpiece tells the story of Prince Tamino and Princess Pamina, young lovers who use the powers of a magic flute to battle the forces of evil that threatens to keep them apart. Chicago area soloists showcase the original instrument that each of us carries with us every day, the human voice.

Tickets are $7 to $32 and can be purchased by calling PhoneCharge at (312) 294-3000 or (800) 223-7114 or at the Symphony Center Box Office at 220 S. Michigan Ave. in Chicago.

The Civic Orchestra of Chicago and Mexican Fine Arts Center Museum to present Musical Adventures class

The Civic Orchestra of Chicago and the Mexican Fine Arts Center Museum will present Musical Adventures, a five-week course on the instrument families of the orchestra for children 8 to 12, beginning on Friday, March 31. The registration fee for Musical Adventures is $5 and is payable on the first day of class.

Musical Adventures, part of the Chicago Symphony

Orchestra's Armonia residency program, kicks off on Friday, March 31 at 3:30 p.m. at the Mexican Fine Arts Center Museum's Art Studio and Auditorium, 1852 W. 19th St. in Chicago. At each Friday afternoon session, teaching artist Cari Dinglasan will begin with hands-on musical activities. During the second half of the class, musicians from the Civic Orchestra of Chicago, will take students on a journey through the instrument families of an orchestra - strings, woodwinds, brass and percussion. After four sessions, students will attend a concert at Pilsen's Cristo Rey High School by the full Civic Orchestra of Chicago, led by conductor Emmanuel Villaume, on Saturday, April 29 at 6:30 p.m. To register for Musical Adventures, please call Jose Torres at (312) 294-3803. The Civic Orchestra concert on Saturday, April 29 is free and open to the public.

It's hard out there for a lobbyist

Nick Naylor (Aaron Eckhart) is a lobbyist for the fictional Academy of Tobacco Studies, a stand in for the recently defunct Tobacco Institute that bit the dust in 1998 as part of a settlement for smoking lawsuits brought by various states. Nick's young son, Joey, invites him to speak to his class on "what your parents do for a living" day. We know Nick's a clever sleaze bag when a 9-year-old mentions her mother says that smoking is harmful and he asks if her mother is a doctor. "No," answers the girl, and Nick's response is "then she's hardly an expert."

Nick figures that the way to increase cigarette sales is to make it cool once again. So his handler BR, (J.K. Simmons), gets him connected to hot shot Hollywood agent Jeff Megall (Robert Lowe). The plan is to have some name stars to smoke in their movies, to get the message across. As BR says, since the product is addictive, half

Thank You for Smoking

Directed by Jason Reitman.
Comedy satire
Rated R for language and some sexual content Running time: 92 minutes

the work is done for us!

The satire here is as subtle as the smoke filled room where Nick meets the Captain (Robert Duvall), a tobacco titan who is the ultimate member of the old boys' club. Nick is on the fast track, the rails greased by his smooth talk. On the "Joan Lunden Show," he even manages to put a positive spin on a boy dying of cancer from second hand smoke. If there was any doubt of his ability to sell ice to Eskimos, that is resolved when he slam dunks Senator Finistirre by making the cholesterol in cheese (a big product in Finistirre's home state) seem as bad as the harmful effects of smoking.

The comeuppance for Nick comes from his relationship with Heather Holloway (Katie Holmes), a reporter with morals on par with his own. She elevates talking out of school to such a level that it may say more about the state of investigative journalism than about lobbyists. The sexual chemistry between Eckhart and Holmes is uncomfortably realistic, enough to make you squirm as you ask, "why are they doing this?"

If you don't think that what the film espouses is true satire, consider the following in the March 20th issue of Business Week: "lobbyists are relentlessly opportunistic. During the 2004 Presidential campaign, Senator John Kerry's handlers may have thought putting their candidate on TV with a shotgun and hunting gear would show voters that the candidate was a red-blooded American. The National Rifle Association (NRA) immediately smelled blood—and a way to push its agenda and favored candidate, President George W. Bush. Within 30 minutes of Kerry's foray into a goose pit in Ohio, Chris W. Cox, NRAs chief lobbyist, was on a plane to the state, where he held a press conference, blasting the senator for posing with a shotgun that would have been banned by legislation the lawmaker had supported in Congress." We will resist comment on Kerry and the Democratic Party.

This hilariously funny mockumentary about the industry (and often the folly) of the business of lobbying, uses tobacco as the whipping boy to great effect. The sin industries of alcohol, tobacco and firearms have as their cardinal rule, "Never blurt out the truth. Stick to the script." When you are trying to put the best face on an industry that kills the equivalent of two jumbo jets of people each day, you've got to be good. These men and women are so good, that they make Karl Rove look like an amateur when it comes to spin. Some of our politicians and corporate leaders are indeed scary in how they can skew capitalism and turn so many positive things upside down.

● New Releases

These films are currently playing at local theaters. An average of six new reviews a week as well as recent releases can be found under Now Playing at www.reelmoviecritic.com.

Inside Man: A tough cop matches wits with a resourceful bank robber who takes hostages while attempting to pull off the perfect heist. Denzel Washington stars as street-smart, New York police detective Keith Miller, who's fighting for a promotion while trying to live down accusations of misconduct connected to his last case. When he and his partner are dispatched to the scene of an in-progress bank robbery and hostage crisis, Miller must face-off against a well-educated criminal (Clive Owen of "Sin City") masterminding a precisely plotted operation.

As negotiations grow more strained, a powerful lawyer with mysterious ties (Jodi Foster) becomes involved in the crisis, and Miller slowly begins to realize that in this ultimate game of cat and mouse, rules are arbitrary. All roles are up for grabs and the black-and-white of right and wrong has blurred to a shadowy landscape of gray. Willem Dafoe plays the role of a police captain while Chiwetel Ejiofor ("Melinda and Melinda," "Dirty Pretty Things") is a detective.

Spike Lee directs this big budget film with marquee stars, which will appeal to a broad base audience. With Denzel, Foster and Owen, this drama should have intensity with an edge. We do not have a popcorn box rating because the studio did not screen for the press until after our deadline. (Rated R for language and some violent images)

Mulholland Drive: The release of a haunting, disturbing and brilliant film noir about a female amnesia victim who tries to find out about her forgotten past. She discovers that she is at the center of a sinister web of murder and intrigue.

The film's mood is totally intoxicating. It's impossible not to get swept up in the thick atmosphere of foreboding and menace. This is one of the few recent films that transport the viewer into a completely different world.

"Mulholland Drive" is arguably the most compelling and outstanding American film of the decade. Directed by David Lynch, it is the work of a mature and confident cinematic master at the top of his game. Stars Naomi Watts, in what is a breakout performance on par with if not better than "21 Grams."

It was originally released in 2001, but it will play again at the Music Box at midnight on March 24 and 25. This is the perfect movie in which to walk out of the theater at 2 a.m. Review provided by Vittorio J. Carli for Reel Movie Critic. (Rated R for violence, language and some strong sexuality)

● New to DVD

Chicken Little (G): Voiced by Zach Braff, "Chicken Little" is a terrific and insightful animated film from Disney that features great saturated colors and style. Chicken Little alarms the quiet town of Oakey Oaks with his now famous ranting that "the sky is falling." The townspeople decide that what he saw was a falling acorn, and his reputation becomes that he's a little touched in the head!

Clearly for the "rugrat" set,

"Chicken Little" features great fun and a look at what true friendship means.

The Squid and the Whale (R): Jeff Daniels portrays the father in an eccentric and elitist Brooklyn family, who once had great success with one novel in his younger days, and is now quasi-comfortable in his university teaching job, which seems to have hit a plateau. When his wife (Laura Linney) blossoms in her writing career, with major publicity and a contract that he feels only he should have, it's splitsville.

In the wake of the extramarital affairs of both Daniels and Linney their two loved but somewhat neglected teenage sons, played by Jesse Eisenberg and Owen Kline, need support and direction. Linney's character begins dating her younger son's tennis coach (William Baldwin). Meanwhile, Daniels' character has an affair with the student his older son is pursuing (Anna Paquin).

Knowing that there is always plenty of footage left on the editing floor, we don't think we are being too nit-picky when we get irritated with films that have a major event occur during the day and in the next scene it's late at night, which occurred here. It's particularly noticeable when a 911 call is made for an ambulance that arrives in daylight and it takes until nightfall to get the person into the vehicle.

A thought provoking, honest, contemporary family film that garnered Oscar attention.

Modern recipes give butter a new flavor dimension

By Tom Witom

"Flavored Butters" (Chronicle), by food writer and consultant Offerico Maoz, puts a new spin on a kitchen staple.

His 65 recipes, seductively photographed, cover the waterfront, from savory to spicy to sweet. Maoz also offers preparation and important storage instructions.

"Tarragon Butter" imparts a subtle anise flavor; use only fresh or frozen tarragon, never dried. Meanwhile, "Buttery Avocado Spread" has a melt-in-your-mouth quality. Unlike butter, the fat in this recipe is mostly unsaturated: a plus for the health conscious.

Tarragon Butter

(Preparation time: 10 minutes, plus 40 minutes chilling)

4 to 5 sprigs tarragon
1 cup unsalted butter, softened
1 clove garlic, crushed
One-half tsp. salt

Separate the tarragon leaves from their stems and discard the stems. Using a very sharp knife, gently chop the tarragon, taking care not to overchop it or it will become limp.

In a mixing bowl, combine the butter, tarragon, garlic and salt and mix well with a wooden spoon.

Roll the butter into a cylinder using waxed paper or plastic wrap. Refrigerate for at least 40 minutes before serving.

Serving suggestions: To add mouth-watering flavor to roast chicken, preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Massage softened tarragon butter into the skin, then roast until the flesh is tender and the skin is crispy (about 20 minutes per pound).

Buttery Avocado Spread

(Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes, plus 2 hours chilling)

4 ripe but firm avocados, skinned and seeded
2 scallions, green parts only, roughly chopped
1 Tbl. freshly squeezed lime (or lemon) juice
1 Tbl. olive oil (optional)
1 Tbl. chopped fresh cilantro
One-eighth tsp. ground cumin
One-half tsp. salt
Pinch of sugar

In a food processor fitted with a metal blade, combine all the ingredients and process until very smooth. Taste and adjust the seasoning, if necessary.

Transfer the spread to a non-reactive bowl and cover with a piece of plastic wrap laid right on the surface of the spread to prevent browning. Refrigerate for at least two hours to allow the flavors to develop. Serve chilled.

This butter spread will keep in the refrigerator for up to three days, if covered as instructed. After that, it will begin to turn black and lose its fresh flavor. So eat up!

Variation: Spice it up a little by adding one-eighth teaspoon chili powder.

Celebrate spring with a delicious brunch

Tomato-Bacon Quiche

1 Pillsbury Pet-Ritz frozen deep-dish pie crust
6 slices bacon, cooked, crumbled
4 medium green onions, sliced
3 medium plum tomatoes, seeded, chopped
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup half-and-half
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 eggs
1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese (2 oz.)
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese (2 oz.)

Place cookie sheet on oven rack. Heat oven to 375° F. Remove crust from freezer; let stand 1 minute. Prick crust with fork. Bake on cookie sheet 9 to 11 minutes or until very light golden brown.

Sprinkle bacon, green onions, tomatoes, salt and pepper in crust. In medium bowl, stir together half-and-half, flour and eggs. Stir in cheeses. Pour over tomato mixture.

Bake on cookie sheet 25 to 30 minutes longer or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. 6 servings.

High Altitude (3500-6500 ft): Increase second bake time to 33 to 38 minutes.

(serves 8)

2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons olive oil
11/2 tablespoons all purpose flour
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup plain soy milk
1 cup vegetable stock or chicken stock
2 green (spring) onions, including tender green tops, sliced
1/2 cup dry-packed sun-dried tomatoes, soaked in water to rehydrate, drained and chopped
10 oz fresh cremini or shiitake mushrooms, sliced
1 shallot, minced
1 tablespoon chopped flat-leaf (Italian) parsley
2 1/4 teaspoon salt
6 cups baby spinach leaves, chopped

3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 egg white
12 no-boil spinach lasagna sheets, about 7 by 3 1/2 inches
1 tablespoon fresh basil, chopped

In a saucepan, heat the 2 tablespoons olive oil over medium-high heat. Whisk in the flour and cook for 1-2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add the garlic and continue to whisk until the garlic is fragrant, about 30 seconds. Whisk in the soy milk and stock all at once. Cook and stir until slightly thickened. Remove from the heat and stir in the green onions and sun-dried tomatoes. Set the sauce aside.

In a large non-stick frying pan, heat 1 teaspoon of the olive oil over medium-high heat. Add the mushrooms and shallot and sauté until lightly browned about 10 minutes. Stir in the parsley and salt. Transfer to a bowl and set aside to cool.

In the same pan, heat the remaining 1 teaspoon olive oil over medium-high heat. Add the spinach and stir quickly until the spinach is wilted but still bright green. Remove from the heat. Let cool slightly.

In a large bowl, beat together the ricotta, 1/2 cup of the Parmesan, and the egg white. Stir in the spinach and set aside.

Preheat the oven to 375°F. Lightly coat a 9-by-13-inch baking dish with cooking spray. Spread 1/2 cup of the sauce in the dish and cover with 3 sheets of pasta. Spoon half of the spinach mixture onto the pasta and spread gently. Cover with 3 more pasta sheets. Top with another 1/2 cup of the sauce. Spread the mushroom mixture on top and cover with another 1/2 cup of sauce, then another layer of pasta. Spoon in the remaining spinach filling and top with the last 3 pasta sheets. Add the remaining sauce and the remaining 1/4 cup Parmesan. Cover loosely with foil and bake for 25 minutes. Remove the foil and bake until golden, about 10 minutes longer. Let stand for 10 minutes before serving. Garnish with the basil.

Bistro Cooking I-2-3

Ahhh. The neighborhood bistro. That small café where the aromas of wonderful home cooking — rustic salads, simmering soups, bubbling gratins and savory soufflés — make your mouth water.

Feel like the chef in your own home bistro, even on a busy weeknight, when you make dishes with bold, passionate flavors and that unmistakable taste of “homemade.” To save time, let the grocery store be your sous chef. Buy pre-washed and bagged salad greens, packaged diced ham, crispy cooked bacon and chopped vegetables from the salad bar, and shredded natural cheese blends that already contain great bistro-style ingredients such as roasted garlic, minced herbs, jalapeño peppers or sun-dried tomatoes.

Start with a classic bistro recipe — an easy three-step cheese sauce simply made in minutes from butter, flour, milk and shredded cheese. This sauce becomes the basis for a brunch soufflé, a savory chowder, a hearty pasta dish and many other meals — from macaroni and cheese to a special topper for steamed vegetables. Second helpings, anyone?

Chicken Alfredo Primavera

Preparation Time: 15 minutes • Cooking Time: 15 minutes

Serves: 4

- 8 ounces linguini pasta, broken in half
- 1 cup frozen baby peas, thawed
- 1 red bell pepper, cut into short, thin strips
- 1 cup cut fresh asparagus spears (1 inch pieces)
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1-1/2 cups 1% milk
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1-3/4 cups (7 ounces) Sargento Bistro Blends Mozzarella Cheese with Sun-Dried Tomatoes & Basil Shredded Cheese, divided
- 2 cups chopped cooked chicken or turkey
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh basil or parsley (optional)

1. Cook linguini according to package directions adding peas, bell pepper and asparagus to cooking water during last 3 minutes of cooking.

2. Meanwhile, melt butter in medium saucepan over medium heat. Add flour; cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Gradually stir in milk; bring to simmer, stirring frequently. Stir in salt and pepper. Stir in 1-1/4 cups cheese until melted.

3. Drain linguini and vegetables; return to pot over low heat. Add cheese sauce and chicken; mix well. Transfer to serving plates; top with remaining 1/2 cup cheese and, if desired, basil. Serve with freshly ground black pepper.

Creamy Ham, Spinach & Cheese Chowder

Preparation Time: 10 minutes • Cooking Time: 15 minutes

Serves: 4 to 6

- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 4 cups 1% milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes or 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1 cup diced ham
- 3 cups packed baby or torn spinach leaves
- 1-3/4 cups (7 ounces) Sargento Bistro Blends Mozzarella & Asiago with Roasted Garlic Shredded Cheese, divided
- 1/2 cup herb or garlic croutons

1. Melt butter in large saucepan over medium heat. Add flour; cook 1 minute, stirring constantly.

2. Gradually stir in milk; bring to simmer, stirring frequently. Stir in salt and pepper flakes; simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in ham; heat through. Stir in spinach until wilted, about 2 minutes.

3. Stir in 1-1/4 cups cheese until melted; ladle into shallow soup bowls. Top with remaining 1/2 cup cheese and croutons.

Southwestern Brunch Soufflé

Preparation Time: 25 minutes • Baking Time: 40 minutes

Serves: 6

- 1 tablespoon plus 1/4 cup butter, divided
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1-1/2 cups 1% milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1-3/4 cups (7 ounces) Sargento Bistro Blends Cheddar & Monterey Jack with Tomato & Jalapeño Peppers Shredded Cheese
- 1/2 cup crumbled crisply cooked bacon
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced green onions
- 6 large eggs, separated

Optional garnish:

- 1/2 cup salsa
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro

1. Coat bottom and sides of 2-1/2-quart round soufflé dish with 1 tablespoon softened butter.

2. Melt 1/4 cup butter in medium saucepan. Add flour; cook and stir over medium heat 1 minute. Stir in milk and salt; bring to simmer, stirring frequently. Simmer 2 minutes (mixture will be thick). Remove from heat; stir in cheese until melted. Stir in bacon and green onions.

3. Beat egg yolks with wooden spoon; stir into cheese sauce. Beat egg whites in electric mixer until stiff peaks form. Gently fold 1/3 egg whites at a time into cheese sauce using rubber spatula. Pour into prepared dish. Bake in pre-heated 350°F oven 40 minutes or until puffed and deep golden brown. Serve immediately. If desired, combine salsa and cilantro to garnish; serve with soufflé.

Police provide chili reception

Cook-off brings community together

By HELEN MANSFIELD

hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ROUND LAKE BEACH — A long row of 15 sinister-looking crock pots lined two folding tables inside the Round Lake Beach Police Department training room last Friday.

Each was numbered like it was participant in a suspect line-up.

There were bowls of crackers, sour cream and cheese everywhere.

It was St. Patrick's Day.

Things weren't adding up.

Round Lake Police Chief Douglas Larsson invited members of the Round Lake Beach Government and village employees to participate in the third annual chili contest. Fortunately for all the judges, the chief did not make good on his threat to create an Irish-themed chili with corned beef.

Larsson said the event started as a way to bring people together again after the long, bone-chilling weather of winter has started to wane.

This year, members of Round Lake Beach clergy and news media were invited to participate as judges in an effort to extend "fair reporting and heavenly help."

Some crock pots had signs designating whether the chili contents were hot or mild, but others held various surprises for the taste buds.

One pot suffered from technical difficulties. The chili inside was stone-cold, so a number of judges passed it in favor of warmer fare. Another pot, that was not labeled as hot, looked like a molten concoction of beef and beans and had an acidiclayer of oil sitting on top of it.

It was enough to melt your molars and your digestive system.

Most consisted of your basic beef and bean mixture. Some had a delightful hint of barbecue sauce, beer, along with large chunks of onion, tomato and various peppers.

Larsson said the contest resulted in a tie between Jeanne Messineo, an employee of Round Lake Beach Village Hall and Nemesio "Pancho" Villa, a foreman at the Round Lake Beach Public Works.

Villa's chili had a sign on the front with a skull and crossbones. The main ingredients were pork, jalapeños and some seasonings that shouldn't be legal in this country. One swallow and you really couldn't taste the others.

This, I believe, was the reason he won.

Chris Padgett - cpadgett@nwnewsgroup.com

Racing team owned by only female

comes to our Day at the Races each September. There are 36 races in NASCAR and his big goal is to finish all of them. It is rough, especially for a rookie, because the veterans don't want to work with you," Dave Sifro of McHenry said. "The first race drew 200,000, with a staff of 5,000. That is like half the town of Wauconda working at an event."

Another challenge for Sherman, in addition to being a newcomer, is he is a one-person team. But if anyone can do it, he can, backers say.

Brian Wilson noted Sherman's rise from driving school and it was good that someone close to his age is doing well nationally.

Sherman spent the early laps of the 200-lap race in about the No. 30 standing, then moved up to 24, dropped back, before finishing strong. Jimmie Johnson, in car No. 48, won the race, the first in the NASCAR Nextel Race for the Cup.

Sherman's racing team is believed to be the only team owned by a female. "Sherman is considered to have a tremendous amount of potential," according to the BAM Web site.

In 2004, Sherman competed in the ARCA ReMax Series, gaining six top five and 11 top 10 finishes. He gained two second place finishes, at Kansas and Berlin Raceways and is a Reed Cams Most Improved Driver of the Year Winner.

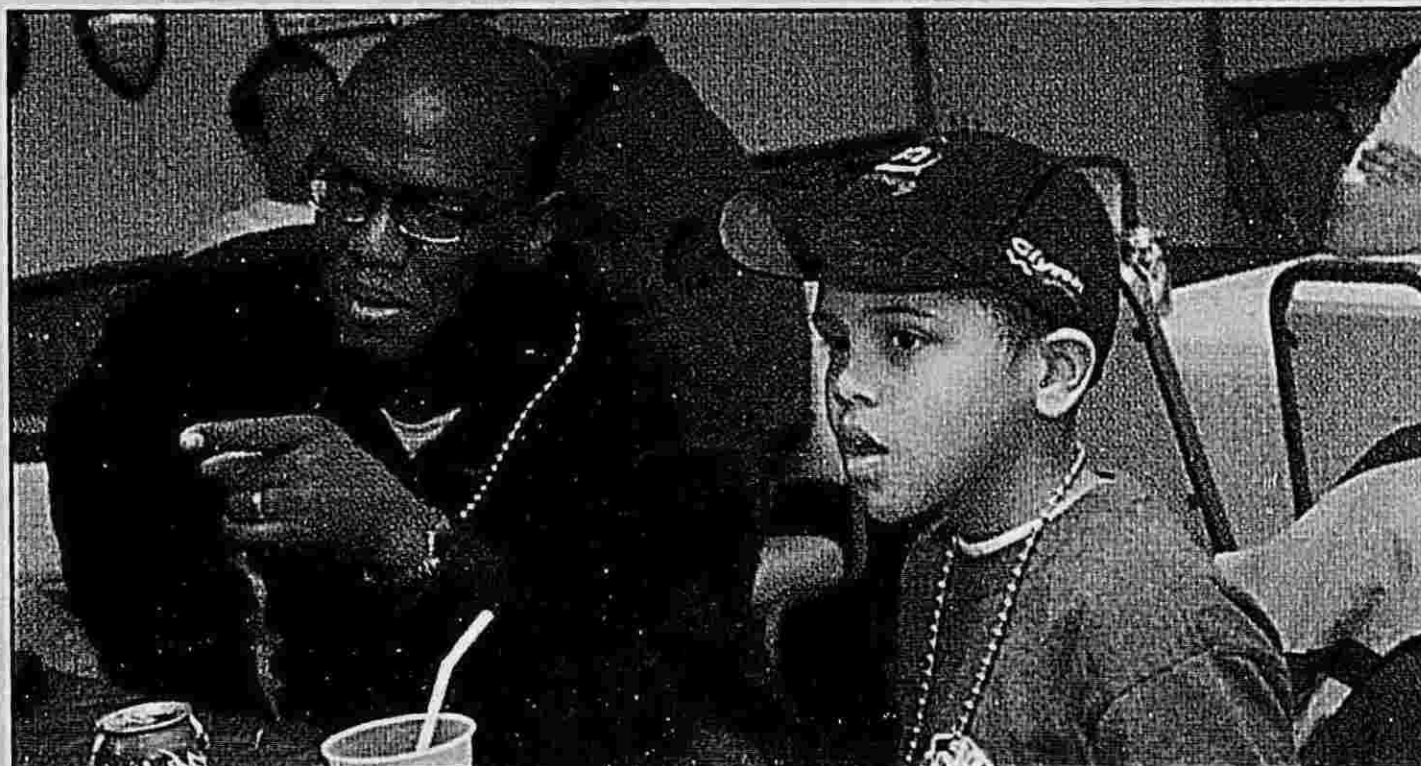

In 2003, he was in fourth place in the ARCA series. With six top five finishes, he was in the top 10 11 times.

Sherman, who moved to Wauconda recently, has won the Bill Francis Triple Crown award.

In 2002, he was in the ARCA series, with a fifth and eighth-place finish. He was fourth at Nashville and sixth at Pocono and ninth at Lowe's.

It all started back in 1999 with a go-kart series for Sherman.

Horoscopes

ARIES -
Mar 21/Apr 20

Nosy neighbors try your patience, Aries. Be civil; you don't want to cause any battles. Talk over your concerns in a calm but direct way. You may find the problem disappears.

TAURUS -
Apr 21/May 21

Your supervisor has spoken to you about a disciplinary issue. Rather than take offense, heed the advice and use the conversatin as a way to better your work at the company.

GEMINI -
May 22/Jun 21

A confrontation at home catches you off guard, Gemini. Rather than plan your defense, listen carefully to what this person has to say and voice your opinion rationally.

CANCER -
Jun 22/Jul 22

You've finally made the decision to uproot and move, Cancer. With spring around the corner, this is a good time to dabble in the real estate market. Spend time working on home curb appeal.

LEO -
Jul 23/Aug 23

A friend in need is weary about confronting you for advice. Give off signals that you're open and willing to be a "shoulder to cry on." Good fortune arrives on Thursday.

VIRGO -
Aug 24/Sept 22

Stop beating yourself up about a project you weren't able to master, Virgo. You excel in plenty of other things. Set your sights on a new challenge and you'll be pleasantly surprised.

LIBRA -
Sept 23/Oct 23

Fights at home have gotten out of control, Libra. You have to learn how to grow up and respect others' feelings. By throwing temper tantrums you'll just make more enemies.

SCORPIO -
Oct 24/Nov 22

It's been difficult balancing work and family life lately, Scorpio. You may have to make the decision that one will win out over the other. This is the time for deep thinking.

SAGITTARIUS -
Nov 23/Dec 21

You can't be everyone's friend all of the time, Sagittarius, so stop trying. Focus on those people who genuinely respect you for the person you are.

CAPRICORN -
Dec 22/Jan 20

Confrontations with Pisces leave you frazzled and at your wits' end. However, you don't have the luxury of making a quick escape. You'll have to ride this one out.

AQUARIUS -
Jan 21/Feb 18

Projects at home keep you busy for a few days, Aquarius. Just think them through before acting or else you might end up with half-finished work or a big mess.

PISCES -
Feb 19/Mar 20

Take a more assertive role at work, Pisces. Establish that you can be relied upon and get the job done in a satisfactory manner.

Animal Education and Rescue offers new program for kids

Animal Education and Rescue (AEAR) has a very new and exciting program just for kids. Kids ages 10 to 17 are invited to join the AEAR Kids Klub. The Kids Klub will meet once a month and be in charge of organizing their own volunteer effort and fundraisers. It's a great way for kids to learn leadership skills, team building and make a huge difference in the community.

Animal Education and Rescue (AEAR) is a not-for-profit organization providing educational programs, pet therapy, humane investigators and rescues and re-homes homeless pets. AEAR primarily serves the Lake County communities.

Meetings will be held once a month on Sunday afternoons. The first meeting will be on Sunday, May 7, from 3 to 5 p.m. Location of the meeting will be announced.

Any interested kid should contact Sandy Kamen Wisniewski at (847) 816-0831 or at aear1@anet.com.

Brush up on your dog's dental health

Many pet owners may be surprised to learn a dog's dental health is as important to overall well-being as a daily game of fetch.

Dental problems in pets go way beyond bad breath. Periodontal disease is the most common health problem in dogs today. At least 80 percent of dogs suffer from it by age 2. Left untreated, dental problems can be very painful and affect the quality of a pet's life. Small-breed dogs under 20 pounds are at an even greater risk than larger breeds. First, small dogs have small mouths that crowd the teeth, and second, those teeth are excessively large for those small jaws.

Fortunately, small breeds don't need to suffer, says Dr. Daniel Carmichael, veterinary dental specialist with the Veterinary Medical Center in West Islip, N.Y. He recommends:

1. See your veterinarian for regular dental checkups. Work with your vet to schedule regular professional dental checkups and ask how you can maintain your pet's dental health. Monitor for bad breath, which can be a sign of a more serious dental problem.

2. Brush those canines. Daily tooth brushing is the best way to remove and prevent plaque build-up. You can try the new state-of-the-art Hartz Dental Electric Toothbrush to make brushing your dog's teeth easier. It features a vibrating brush head and, when used as directed, is clinically proven to reduce tartar by 85 percent and plaque by 28 percent after three weeks. Use toothpaste made for dogs (beef flavored paste is appealing to pets) as it's designed to be swallowed and does not foam up in the mouth.

3. Choose smart snacks for your dog. Chewing rawhide has been proven in clinical studies to help reduce plaque and tartar. Tasty beef and chicken flavors encourage your pooch to chew longer.

4. Provide toys with dental benefits. Some newer chew toys have raised tips that help remove plaque and tartar. These toys provide chewing exercise to strengthen gums and help relieve anxiety and boredom.

Balance in your Environment. Booths will be open. Ten percent of all sales will be donated to I-PLUS. Cost is $30. Hours are 6 to 9 p.m. Call I-PLUS office for more information at (847) 689-4290.

Annual Oregon Antique Show slated

In 1951, the Oregon Woman's Club hosted its first antique show. It started as an antique and hobby show with a handful of area dealers and local individuals who shared some of their collections with the public. Since then it has grown, into one of Northern Illinois oldest and best annual antique shows.

This year it will be held on March 25 and 26 at the Blackhawk Center, located on the Oregon school district campus. The facility offers ample free parking, handicap accessibility, rest rooms, snack bar and a large area for dealer displays.

The show will be hosting over 40 antique dealers offering a wide variety of furniture, glass, china, pottery, silver and much more. On Sunday appraisals will be offered to show visitors, for a nominal fee. They ask that you bring only small items, or good quality photos of larger items.

Show times are Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donation is $4 per person. Tickets for appraisals will be $10. The Blackhawk Center is at 10th St. in Oregon. For additional information, call (815) 732-2219

Gardeners of Central Lake County hosting program

"Shrubs by Laury Lewis" will be the program hosted by the Gardeners of Central Lake County on Monday, April 10 at 7 p.m.

The Gardeners meet at the Evangelical Free Church on the corner of Garfield Avenue and Austin Avenue in Libertyville. The public is invited at no charge.

Eight CLC art students' work selected for exhibit

Jason Armour of Mundelein and Feng-Hua Cheng of Gages Lake, art students at the College of Lake County, received awards, and a total of eight students were selected to exhibit their work in the 2006 Skyway Art Competition. The artwork will be on exhibit through April 3 in Gallery One, McHenry County College Atrium, Building A, located at 8900 U.S. Hwy. 14 in Crystal Lake.

A total of 40 students from the eight Skyway Conference schools were selected for the exhibit. College of Lake County student artists selected for the 2006 Skyway Exhibit are: Jason Armour, Mundelein, Shino Teapot, ceramics, received an Award of Merit; Dale Brandt, Vernon Hills, Orb/Flask, ceramics; Feng-Hua Cheng, Gages Lake, Teapot, ceramics, received an Award of Excellence; James Dabkey, Lake Villa, untitled, mixed media; Stephen Jensen, Antioch, untitled #1, photography; Corinne Kukulski, Grayslake, Roadster, stoneware; Sergio Mateos, Waukegan, untitled, graphite; Aelan Seo, Grayslake, Pipe, watercolor.

"This competition has been a great way to expand the educational horizons of our students," said Steve Jones, CLC art instructor and curator of the Community Gallery at CLC. "They see the work of students from seven other colleges, as well as learn how to present their pieces in a professional way."

Lillstreet Art Center announces two concurrent solo shows

Lillstreet Art Center, currently celebrating its 30th year as a venue for artistic growth and self expression, presents "Time Passes," a fascinating exhibition of new works by Amy Lemaire and Dana Major Kanovitz. Traditionally, the passing of time has been understood through linear narrative, however, conventional time is challenged in "Time Passes" featuring art which incorporates various mediums to address the effects of time.

Amy Lemaire's exhibition will run Saturday, March 25 to 28. Dana Major Kanovitz will run Saturday, March 25 to Tuesday, April 25. An artist's reception will be held at the Lillstreet Art Center on Saturday, March 25.

Inspired by an excerpt in Virginia Woolf's novel, To the Lighthouse, in which time is largely described through the description of a place. "Time Passes" similarly addresses the experience of a human life through the visual study of artifacts in that existence.

Lillstreet Art Center is located on the northeast corner of Montrose and Ravenswood at 4401 N. Ravenswood. Office and gallery hours are Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Family-oriented Funnyman

McKINNEY HURT

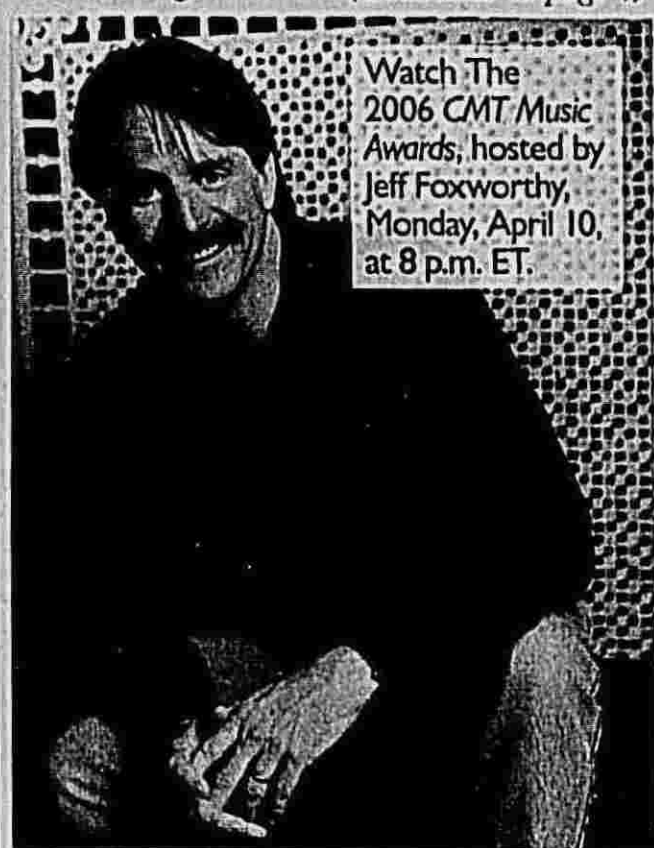

It's a Tuesday morning and comedian Jeff Foxworthy is running late. One of his duties as a parent of two has put him slightly behind schedule.

"We're the family that does the power slide into the front of the school in the mornings," he explains, providing a vivid image of his kids jumping out of the vehicle, tying shoelaces and combing hair in a last-minute rush to beat the bell.

It may not sound glamorous, but one of America's most widely recognized funnymen wouldn't want to be anywhere else. He lives in Alpharetta, Ga. (pop. 34,854), where he drives a Ford truck, shops at Home Depot and gets to be involved in the daily goings-on of his family. He's been happily married to wife Gregg for 22 years and has two daughters, ages 14 and 12.

From 1995 to 1997, Foxworthy starred in his own sitcom, The Jeff Foxworthy Show, filmed on a Hollywood soundstage next door to the shooting stages for Roseanne and Seinfeld. That period showed him the effects a Hollywood career can have on life.

"I was around some of the most wealthy people in the world—and some of the most miserable people I've ever seen," he says. "It was a blessing. It was like God showing you, 'This isn't what it's all about.' As soon as they canceled the show, we moved back to Georgia." (Continued on page 4)

When it comes to bad cholesterol— Ask your doctor if lower is better.

Getting high cholesterol down is important.

Doctors know lowering high cholesterol is important for everyone. But for some people, it's even more important. In fact, a panel of medical experts recently proposed updated guidelines suggesting many patients aim for an even lower cholesterol goal than before.*

Working with your doctor is key to helping you reach your cholesterol goal.

If, after all you've tried—including diet and exercise—your doctor believes you need to get your bad cholesterol even lower, ask whether CRESTOR might help.

Aim lower.

CRESTOR may make the difference you need. In fact, the 10-mg dose of CRESTOR, along with diet, can lower bad cholesterol by as much as 52% (vs 7% with placebo). That means your LDL-C—the bad cholesterol—could go down about half. Your results may vary.

Is CRESTOR right for you?

Get more information about CRESTOR.

To learn more about CRESTOR, or if you are without prescription coverage and can't afford your medication, AstraZeneca may be able to help. Call 800-CRESTOR or visit CRESTOR.com.

Here is important safety information about CRESTOR you need to know.

CRESTOR is prescribed along with diet for lowering high cholesterol and has not been determined to prevent heart disease, heart attacks, or strokes. CRESTOR is not right for everyone, including women who are nursing, pregnant, or who may become pregnant, or anyone with liver problems. Your doctor will do blood tests before and during treatment with CRESTOR to monitor your liver function. Unexplained muscle pain and weakness could be a sign of a rare but serious side effect and should be reported to your doctor right away. The 40-mg dose of CRESTOR is only for patients who do not reach goal on 20 mg. Be sure to tell your doctor if you Please read this summary carefully and then ask your doctor about CRESTOR. No advertisement can provide all the information needed to determine if a drug is right for you. This advertisement does not take the place of careful discussions with your doctor. Only your doctor has the training to weigh the risks and benefits of a prescription drug.

BRIEF SUMMARY: For full Prescribing Information, see package insert.

INDICATIONS AND USAGE CRESTOR is indicated: 1. as an adjunct to diet to reduce elevated total-C, LDL-C, ApoB, non-HDL-C, and TG levels and to increase HDL-C in patients with primary hypercholesterolemia (heterozygous) and mixed dyslipidemia (Fredrickson Type IIa and IIb); 2. as an adjunct to diet for the treatment of patients with elevated serum TG levels (Fredrickson Type IV); 3. to reduce LDL-C, total-C, and ApoB in patients with homozygous familial hypercholesterolemia as an adjunct to other lipid-lowering treatments (e.g., LDL apheresis) or if such treatments are unavailable. CONTRAINDICATIONS CRESTOR is contraindicated in patients with a known hypersensitivity to any component of this product. Rosuvastatin is contraindicated in patients with active liver disease or with unexplained persistent elevations of serum transaminases (see WARNINGS, Liver Enzymes). Pregnancy and Lactation: Atherosclerosis is a chronic process and discontinuation of lipid-lowering drugs during pregnancy should have little impact on the outcome of long-term therapy of primary hypercholesterolemia. Cholesterol and other products of cholesterol biosynthesis are essential components for fetal development (including synthesis of steroids and cell membranes). Since HMG-CoA reductase inhibitors decrease cholesterol synthesis and possibly the synthesis of other biologically active substances derived from cholesterol, they may cause fetal harm when administered to pregnant women. Therefore, HMG-CoA reductase inhibitors are contraindicated during pregnancy and in nursing mothers. ROSUVASTATIN SHOULD BE ADMINISTERED TO WOMEN OF CHILDBEARING AGE ONLY WHEN SUCH PATIENTS ARE HIGHLY UNLIKELY TO CONCEIVE AND HAVE BEEN INFORMED OF THE POTENTIAL HAZARDS. If the patient becomes pregnant while taking this drug, therapy should be discontinued immediately and the patient apprised of the potential hazard to the fetus.

WARNINGS Liver Enzymes HMG-CoA reductase inhibitors, like some other lipid-lowering therapies, have been associated with biochemical abnormalities of liver function. The incidence of persistent elevations (>3 times the upper limit of normal [ULN]) occurring on 2 or more consecutive occasions) in serum transaminases in fixed dose studies was 0.4, 0, 0, and 0.1% in patients who received rosuvastatin 5, 10, 20, and 40 mg, respectively. In most cases, the elevations were transient and resolved or improved on continued therapy or after a brief interruption in therapy. There were no cases of jaundice, for which a relationship to rosuvastatin therapy could not be determined, which resolved after discontinuation of therapy. There were no cases of liver failure or irreversible liver disease in these trials. It is recommended that liver function tests be performed before and at 12 weeks following both the initiation of therapy and any elevation of dose, and periodically (e.g., semiannually) thereafter. Liver enzyme changes generally occur in the first 3 months of treatment with rosuvastatin. Patients who develop increased transaminase levels should be monitored until the abnormalities have resolved. Should an increase in ALT or AST of >3 times ULN persist, reduction of dose or withdrawal of rosuvastatin is recommended. Rosuvastatin should be used with caution in patients who consume substantial quantities of alcohol and/or have a history of liver disease (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Special Populations, Hepatic Insufficiency). Active liver disease or unexplained persistent transaminase elevations are contraindications to the use of rosuvastatin (see CONTRAINDICATIONS). Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis Rare cases of rhabdomyolysis with acute renal failure secondary to myoglobinuria have been reported with rosuvastatin and with other drugs in this class. Uncomplicated myalgia has been reported in rosuvastatin-treated patients (see ADVERSE REACTIONS). Creatine kinase (CK) elevations (>10 times upper limit of normal) occurred in 0.2% to 0.4% of patients taking rosuvastatin at doses up to 40 mg in clinical studies. Treatment-related myopathy, defined as muscle aches or muscle weakness in conjunction with increases in CK values >10 times upper limit of normal, was reported in up to 0.1% of patients taking rosuvastatin doses of up to 40 mg in clinical studies. In clinical trials, the incidence of myopathy and rhabdomyolysis increased at doses of rosuvastatin above the recommended dosage range (5 to 40 mg). In postmarketing experience, effects on skeletal muscle, e.g., uncomplicated myalgia, myopathy and, rarely, rhabdomyolysis have been reported in patients treated with HMG-CoA reductase inhibitors including rosuvastatin. As with other HMG-CoA reductase inhibitors, reports of rhabdomyolysis with rosuvastatin are rare, but higher at the highest marketed dose (40 mg). Factors that may predispose patients to myopathy with HMG-CoA reductase inhibitors include advanced age (≥65 years), hypothyroidism, and renal insufficiency. Consequently: 1. Rosuvastatin should be prescribed with caution in patients with predisposing factors for myopathy, such as, renal impairment (see DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION), advanced age, and inadequately treated hypothyroidism. 2. Patients should be advised to promptly report unexplained muscle pain, tenderness, or weakness, particularly if accompanied by malaise or fever. Rosuvastatin therapy should be discontinued if markedly elevated CK levels occur or myopathy is diagnosed or suspected. 3. The 40 mg dose of rosuvastatin is reserved only for those patients who have not achieved their LDL-C goal utilizing the 20 mg dose of rosuvastatin once daily (see DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION). 4. The risk of myopathy during treatment with rosuvastatin may be increased with concurrent administration of other lipid-lowering therapies or cyclosporine. (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Drug Interactions, PRECAUTIONS, Drug Interactions, and DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION). The benefit of further alterations in lipid levels by the combined use of rosuvastatin with fibrates or niacin should be carefully weighed against the potential risks of this combination. Combination therapy with rosuvastatin and gemfibrozil should generally be avoided. (See DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION and PRECAUTIONS, Drug Interactions). 5. The risk of myopathy during treatment with rosuvastatin may be increased in circumstances which increase rosuvastatin drug levels (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Special Populations, Race and Renal Insufficiency, and PRECAUTIONS, General). 6. Rosuvastatin therapy should also be temporarily withheld in any patient with an acute, serious condition suggestive of myopathy or predisposing to the development of renal failure secondary to rhabdomyolysis (e.g., sepsis, hypotension, dehydration, major surgery, trauma, severe metabolic, endocrine, and electrolyte disorders, or uncontrolled seizures).

PRECAUTIONS General Before instituting therapy with rosuvastatin, an attempt should be made to control hypercholesterolemia with appropriate diet and exercise, weight reduction in obese patients, and treatment of underlying medical problems (see INDICATIONS AND USAGE). Administration of rosuvastatin 20 mg to patients with severe renal impairment ($CL_{CR} < 30$ mL/min/1.73 m²) resulted in a 3-fold increase in plasma concentrations of rosuvastatin compared with healthy volunteers (see WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis and DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION). The result of a large pharmacokinetic study conducted in the US demonstrated an approximate 2-fold elevation in median exposure in Asian subjects (having either Filipino, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Vietnamese or Asian Indian origin) compared with a Caucasian control group. This increase should be considered when making rosuvastatin dosing decisions for Asian patients. (See WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis; CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Special Populations, Race, and DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION) Information for Patients Patients should be advised to report promptly unexplained muscle pain, tenderness, or weakness, particularly if accompanied by malaise or fever. When taking rosuvastatin with an aluminum and magnesium hydroxide combination antacid, the antacid should be taken at least 2 hours after rosuvastatin administration (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Drug Interactions). Laboratory Tests In the rosuvastatin clinical trial program, dipstick-positive proteinuria and microscopic hematuria were observed among rosuvastatin-treated patients, predominantly in patients dosed above the recommended dose range (i.e., 80 mg). However, this finding was more frequent in patients taking rosuvastatin 40 mg, when compared to lower doses of rosuvastatin or comparator statins, though it was generally transient and was not associated with worsening renal function. Although the clinical significance of this finding is unknown, a dose reduction should be considered for patients on rosuvastatin 40 mg therapy with unexplained persistent proteinuria during routine urinalysis testing. Drug Interactions Cyclosporine: When rosuvastatin 10 mg was coadministered with cyclosporine in cardiac transplant patients, rosuvastatin mean C_{max} and mean AUC were increased 11-fold and 7-fold, respectively, compared with healthy volunteers. These increases are considered to be clinically significant and require special consideration in the dosing of rosuvastatin to patients taking concomitant cyclosporine (see WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis, and DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION). Warfarin: Coadministration of rosuvastatin to patients on stable warfarin therapy resulted in clinically significant rises in INR (>4, baseline 2-3). In patients taking coumatin anticoagulants and rosuvastatin concomitantly, INR should be determined before starting rosuvastatin and frequently enough during early therapy to ensure that no significant alteration of INR occurs. Once a stable INR has been documented, INR can be monitored at the intervals usually recommended for patients on coumatin anticoagulants. If the dose of rosuvastatin is changed, the same procedure should be repeated. Rosuvastatin therapy has not been associated with bleeding or with changes in INR in patients not taking anticoagulants. Gemfibrozil: Coadministration of a single rosuvastatin dose to healthy volunteers on gemfibrozil (600 mg twice daily) resulted in a 2.2- and 1.9 fold, respectively, increase in mean C_{max} and mean AUC of rosuvastatin (see DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION). Endocrine Function: Although clinical studies have shown that rosuvastatin alone does not reduce basal plasma cortisol concentration or impair adrenal reserve, caution should be exercised if any HMG-CoA reductase inhibitor or other agent used to lower cholesterol levels is administered concomitantly with drugs that may decrease the levels or activity of endogenous steroid hormones such as ketoconazole, spironolactone, and cimetidine. CNS Toxicity/CNS vascular lesions, characterized by perivascular hemorrhages, edema, and mononuclear cell infiltration of perivascular spaces, have been observed in dogs treated with several other members of this drug class. A chemically similar drug in this class produced dose-dependent optic nerve degeneration (Wallerian degeneration of retinogeniculate fibers) in dogs. At a dose that produced plasma drug levels about 30 times higher than the mean drug level in humans taking the highest recommended dose, edema, hemorrhage, and partial necrosis in the interstitium of the choroid plexus was observed in a female dog sacrificed moribund at day 24 at 90 mg/kg/day by oral gavage (systemic exposures 100 times the human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC comparisons). Corneal opacity was seen in dogs treated for 52 weeks at 6 mg/kg/day by oral gavage (systemic exposures 20 times the human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC comparisons). Cataracts were seen in dogs treated for 12 weeks by oral gavage at 30 mg/kg/day (systemic exposures 60 times the human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC comparisons). Retinal dysplasia and retinal loss were seen in dogs treated for 4 weeks by oral gavage at 90 mg/kg/day (systemic exposures 100 times the human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC). Doses ≤30 mg/kg/day (systemic exposures ≤60 times the human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC comparisons) following treatment up to one year, did not reveal retinal findings. Carcinogenesis, Mutagenesis, Impairment of Fertility In a 104-week carcinogenicity study in rats at dose levels of 2, 20, 60, or 80 mg/kg/day by oral gavage, the incidence of uterine stromal polyps was significantly increased in females at 80 mg/kg/day at systemic exposure 20 times the human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC. Increased incidence of polyps was not seen at lower doses. In a 107-week carcinogenicity study in mice given 10, 60, 200 mg/kg/day by oral gavage, an increased incidence of hepatocellular adenoma/carcinoma was observed at 200 mg/kg/day at systemic exposures 20 times human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC. An increased incidence of hepatocellular tumors was not seen at lower doses. Rosuvastatin was not mutagenic or clastogenic with or without metabolic activation in the Ames test with Salmonella typhimurium and Escherichia coli; the mouse lymphoma assay, and the chromosomal aberration assay in Chinese hamster lung cells. Rosuvastatin was negative in the in vivo mouse micronucleus test. In rat fertility studies with oral gavage doses of 5, 15, 50 mg/kg/day, males were treated for 9 weeks prior to and throughout mating and females were treated 2 weeks prior to mating and throughout mating until gestation day 7. No adverse effect on fertility was observed at 50 mg/kg/day (systemic exposures up to 10 times human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC comparisons). In litters of dogs treated with rosuvastatin at 30 mg/kg/day for one month, spermatid giant cells were seen. Spermatid giant cells were observed in monkeys after 6-month treatment at 30 mg/kg/day in addition to vacuolation of seminiferous tubular epithelium. Exposures in the dog were 20 times and in the monkey 10 times human exposure at 40 mg/day based on body surface area comparisons. Similar findings have been seen with other drugs in this class. Pregnancy Pregnancy Category X See CONTRAINDICATIONS. Rosuvastatin may cause fetal harm when administered to a pregnant woman. Rosuvastatin is contraindicated in women who are or may become pregnant. Safety in pregnant women has not been established. There are no adequate and well-controlled studies of rosuvastatin in pregnant women. Rosuvastatin crosses the placenta and is found in fetal tissue and amniotic fluid at 3% and 20%, respectively, of the maternal plasma concentration following a single 25 mg/kg oral gavage dose on gestation day 16 in rats. A higher fetal tissue distribution (25% maternal plasma concentration) was observed in rabbits after a single oral gavage dose of 1 mg/kg on gestation day 18. If this drug is administered to a woman with reproductive potential, the patient should be apprised of the potential hazard to a fetus. In female rats given oral gavage doses of 5, 15, 50 mg/kg/day rosuvastatin before mating and continuing through day 7 postcoitus resulted in decreased fetal body weight (female pups) and delayed ossification at the high dose (systemic exposures 10 times human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC comparisons). In pregnant rats given oral gavage doses of 2, 20, 50 mg/kg/day from gestation day 7 through lactation day 21 (weaning), decreased pup survival occurred in groups given 50 mg/kg/day, systemic exposures ≥12 times human exposure at 40 mg/day based on body surface area comparisons. In pregnant rabbits given oral gavage doses of 0.3, 1, 3 mg/kg/day from gestation day 6 to lactation day 18 (weaning), exposures equivalent to human exposure at 40 mg/day based on body surface area comparisons, decreased fetal viability and maternal mortality was observed. Rosuvastatin was not teratogenic in rats at ≤25 mg/kg/day or in rabbits at ≤3 mg/kg/day (systemic exposures equivalent to human exposure at 40 mg/day based on AUC or body surface comparison, respectively). Nursing Mothers It is not known whether rosuvastatin is excreted in human milk. Studies in lactating rats have demonstrated that rosuvastatin is secreted into breast milk at levels 3 times higher than that obtained in the plasma following oral gavage dosing. Because many drugs are excreted in human milk and because of the potential for serious adverse reactions in nursing infants from rosuvastatin, a decision should be made whether to discontinue nursing or administration of rosuvastatin taking into account the importance of the drug to the lactating woman. Pediatric Use The safety and effectiveness in pediatric patients have not been established. Treatment experience with rosuvastatin in a pediatric population is limited to 8 patients with homozygous FH. None of these patients was below 8 years of age. Geriatric Use Of the 10,275 patients in clinical studies with rosuvastatin, 3,159 (31%) were 65 years and older, and 698 (6.8%) were 75 years and older. The overall frequency of adverse events and types of adverse events were similar in patients above and below 65 years of age. (See WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis) The efficacy of rosuvastatin in the geriatric population (≥65 years of age) was comparable to the efficacy observed in the non-elderly.

ADVERSE REACTIONS Rosuvastatin is generally well tolerated. Adverse reactions have usually been mild and transient. In clinical studies of 10,275 patients, 3.7% were discontinued due to adverse experiences attributable to rosuvastatin. The most frequent adverse events thought to be related to rosuvastatin were myalgia, constipation, asthenia, abdominal pain, and nausea. Clinical Adverse Experiences Adverse experiences, regardless of causality assessment, reported in ≥2% of patients in placebo-controlled clinical studies of rosuvastatin are shown in Table 1; discontinuations due to adverse events in these studies of up to 12 weeks duration occurred in 3% of patients on rosuvastatin and 5% on placebo.

In addition, the following adverse events were reported, regardless of causality assessment, in ≥1% of 10,275 patients treated with rosuvastatin in clinical studies. The events in italics occurred in ≥2% of these patients. Body as a Whole: Abdominal pain, accidental injury, chest pain, infection, pain, pelvic pain, and neck pain. Cardiovascular System: Hypertension, angina pectoris, vasodilation, and palpitation. Digestive System: Constipation, gastroenteritis, vomiting, flatulence, periodontal abscess, and gastritis. Endocrine: Diabetes mellitus. Hemic and Lymphatic System: Anemia and ecchymosis. Metabolic and Nutritional Disorders: Peripheral edema. Musculoskeletal System: Arthritis, arthralgia, and pathological fracture. Nervous System: Dizziness, insomnia, hyperemia, paresthesia, depression anxiety, vertigo, and neuralgia. Respiratory System: Bronchitis, cough increased, dyspnea, pneumonia, and asthma. Skin and Appendages: Rash and pruritus. Laboratory Abnormalities: In the rosuvastatin clinical trial program, dipstick-positive proteinuria and microscopic hematuria were observed among rosuvastatin-treated patients, predominantly in patients dosed above the recommended dose range (i.e., 80 mg). However, this finding was more frequent in patients taking rosuvastatin 40 mg, when compared to lower doses of rosuvastatin or comparator statins, though it was generally transient and was not associated with worsening renal function. (See PRECAUTIONS, Laboratory Tests) Other abnormal laboratory values reported were elevated creatinine phosphokinase, transaminases, hyperglycemia, glutamyl transpeptidase, alkaline phosphatase, bilirubin, and thyroid function abnormalities. Other adverse events reported less frequently than 1% in the rosuvastatin clinical study program, regardless of causality assessment, included arrhythmia, hepatitis, hypersensitivity reactions (i.e., face edema, thrombocytopenia, leukopenia, vesiculobullous rash, urticaria, and angioedema), kidney failure, syncope, myasthenia, myositis, pancreatitis, photosensitivity reaction, myopathy, and rhabdomyolysis. Postmarketing Experience In addition to the events reported above, as with other drugs in this class, the following event has been reported during post-marketing experience with CRESTOR, regardless of causality assessment, very rare cases of jaundice.

OVERDOSAGE There is no specific treatment in the event of overdose. In the event of overdose, the patient should be treated symptomatically and supportive measures instituted as required. Hemodialysis does not significantly enhance clearance of rosuvastatin.

DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION The patient should be placed on a standard cholesterol-lowering diet before receiving CRESTOR and should continue on this diet during treatment. CRESTOR can be administered as a single dose at any time of day, with or without food. Hypercholesterolemia (Heterozygous Familial and Nonfamilial) and Mixed Dyslipidemia (Fredrickson Type IIa and IIb) The dose range for CRESTOR is 5 to 40 mg once daily. Therapy with CRESTOR should be individualized according to goal of therapy and response. The usual recommended starting dose of CRESTOR is 10 mg once daily. However, initiation of therapy with 5 mg once daily should be considered for patients requiring less aggressive LDL-C reductions, who have predisposing factors for myopathy, and as noted below for special populations such as patients taking cyclosporine, Asian patients, and patients with severe renal insufficiency (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Race, and Renal Insufficiency, and Drug Interactions). For patients with marked hypercholesterolemia (LDL-C >190 mg/dL) and aggressive lipid targets, a 20-mg starting dose may be considered. After initiation and/or upon titration of CRESTOR, lipid levels should be analyzed within 2 to 4 weeks and dosage adjusted accordingly. The 40-mg dose of CRESTOR is reserved only for those patients who have not achieved their LDL-C goal utilizing the 20 mg dose of CRESTOR once daily (see WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis). When initiating statin therapy or switching from another statin therapy, the appropriate CRESTOR starting dose should first be utilized, and only then titrated according to the patient's individualized goal of therapy. Homozygous Familial Hypercholesterolemia (LDL-C >190 mg/dL) The recommended starting dose of CRESTOR is 20 mg once daily in patients with homozygous FH. The maximum recommended daily dose is 40 mg. CRESTOR should be used in these patients as an adjunct to other lipid-lowering treatments (e.g., LDL apheresis) or if such treatments are unavailable. Response to therapy should be estimated from pre-apheresis LDL-C levels. Dosage in Asian Patients Initiation of CRESTOR therapy with 5 mg once daily should be considered for Asian patients. The potential for increased systemic exposures relative to Caucasians is relevant when considering escalation of dose in cases where hypercholesterolemia is not adequately controlled at doses of 5, 10, or 20 mg once daily. (See WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis; CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Special Populations, Race, and PRECAUTIONS, General) Dosage in Patients Taking Cyclosporine In patients taking cyclosporine, therapy should be limited to CRESTOR 5 mg once daily (see WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis, and PRECAUTIONS, Drug Interactions). Concomitant Lipid-Lowering Therapy The effect of CRESTOR on LDL-C and total-C may be enhanced when used in combination with a bile acid binding resin. If CRESTOR is used in combination with gemfibrozil, the dose of CRESTOR should be limited to 10 mg once daily (see WARNINGS, Myopathy/Rhabdomyolysis, and PRECAUTIONS, Drug Interactions). Dosage in Patients With Renal Insufficiency No modification of dosage is necessary for patients with mild to moderate renal insufficiency. For patients with severe renal impairment ($CL_{CR} < 30$ mL/min/1.73 m²) not on hemodialysis, dosing of CRESTOR should be started at 5 mg once daily and not to exceed 10 mg once daily (see PRECAUTIONS, General, and CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Special Populations, Renal Insufficiency).

Foxworthy has parlayed his Southern roots into a 20-year career that shows no signs of slowing. He has stand-up tour dates lined up in comedy clubs and other venues throughout 2006, hosts a weekly country countdown radio show and is working on a third Blue Collar Comedy Tour movie.

He's also planning to host the upcoming CMT Music Awards, which will air live April 10. He hosted the show in 2005 and it received record ratings for the network.

But even with one foot in the show-business fast lane, Foxworthy says he has purposely made his life as normal as it can be. "I got invited to host a dinner at the White House once, but I couldn't go because it was the same night as my daughter's play at school," he says. "Twenty years from now, the president won't remember if I came to the White House. But my daughter will remember if I wasn't at her play."

Foxworthy's career evolved out of a friendly good-ol'-boy-next-door routine, which he admits was never much of a stretch for him. The "You might be a redneck" jokes that put him on the map came out of playing gigs in big, non-Southern cities where club owners would often tell him, "Foxworthy, you're just an ol' redneck from Georgia."

On one such occasion, Foxworthy looked outside a window of the comedy club and saw a bowling alley next door—with a valet-parking stand. He laughs. "I said, 'You don't think you have rednecks here? Look out the window!'"

So he decided to jot down 10 ways to tell if you're a redneck. That list blossomed into one of the most durable routines—and career tracks—in the business of professional comedy.

"That little yellow piece of paper," he says with a smile, "is now framed in our kitchen." ☆

Train Whistles and Country Crooners

Senior Editor

A northbound Amtrak train pulls into Union Station in Meridian, Miss. (pop. 39,968), and immediately a conductor begins unloading—and loading—passengers and baggage. After a brief stop, the engineer blows the whistle, alerting everyone to clear the tracks before the train departs on its journey from New Orleans to New York City.

"That's a signal for the smokers to get on board," says Mick Nussbaum, director of the Meridian Railroad Museum, standing on Union Station's second floor overlooking the downtown rail yard. "He'll give two more blasts and he's leaving."

Meridian has been a railroad stop since the first track was laid in Lauderdale County in 1855. Through the years, the railroad has provided jobs for townspeople, inspired the songs of country music's first superstar, Jimmie Rodgers, and fascinated rail fans like Nussbaum, whose hobby is photographing the trains that rumble through town.

"We're the best-kept secret for rail fans; not many places have what we have," says Nussbaum, 40, motioning to the 1906 depot, which was rebuilt in 1997 and today serves as a transportation center, accommodating hundreds of train and bus passengers each day.

The railroad boomed and the population swelled in the early 1900s, making Meridian the largest city in Mississippi. Today, the city is the state's sixth largest and the railroad continues to be an economic force, employing 1,900 people.

"Meridian has always been a railroad town," says Fonda Rush, a Meridian native whose 23-year-old son, Elliott, helps maintain the rails. "If you've lived in Meridian very long, you've probably had someone in your family work for the railroad. That's been a family tradition."

Another Meridian tradition is fostering and discovering musical talent.

Jimmie Rodgers, Meridian's most famous railroad man, went on to become the Father of Country Music. Born in nearby Pine Springs in 1897, Rodgers grew up in Meridian, working on the railroad, and plucking and strumming his guitar. The Singing Brakeman, as Rodgers was called, combined the rhythms of black railroad workers with the yodels of Western cowboys and became a national sensation, selling more than 10 million records between 1927 and 1933. Among his biggest songs were "I for Texas," "Waiting for a Train," "In the Jail House Now" and "My Carolina Sunshine Girl."

"His music related to a lot of the working class during the Depression," Rush says. "His music was a release for them and their problems. He felt their pain."

A Kansas City Southern luxury train pauses at Union Station in Meridian, Miss.

Rodgers, who died of tuberculosis in 1933 and is buried in Oak Grove Cemetery in Meridian, influenced a long list of country, bluegrass and rock artists, including Ernest Tubb, Merle Haggard, Bill Monroe and Jerry Lee Lewis.

"All the artists respect Jimmie Rodgers and what he did," says Betty Lou Jones, president of the Jimmie Rodgers Foundation, whose mission is to perpetuate the memory and history of Rodgers, and pay tribute to his contributions to American music. (Continued on page 15)

The Master's Touch

At 76, legendary golfer Arnold Palmer finds new rewards

It's been 40 years since Arnold

Palmer was awarded the green blazer traditionally given to the winner of professional golf's most prestigious event. And though he won't take part in this year's Masters Tournament April 6-9 at the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Club, the man who set golf on fire in the 1960s remains plenty busy today as a business executive, aviator, advertising spokesman, golf course designer/consultant, philanthropist and humanitarian.

And he still manages to play a little golf, too.

"Golf is still his life," says Doc Giffin, Palmer's agent. "He practices or plays a round almost every afternoon."

But over the past two decades, Palmer's famous swing has taken a backseat—at least publicly—to his other roles, including sharing his famously big heart with people in need.

His own father was born with polio, a fact that Palmer, now 76, admits steeled him with resolve to help others. "I am extremely pleased if I can help anyone do something that will help them in their lives," he says. "It's an ongoing situation for me to try and be somewhat of a philanthropist. But I also feel like people who are not extremely wealthy, but who make contributions to charity, show something even more giving and helpful."

For 20 years, throughout the 1970s and '80s, he served as honorary national chairman of the March of Dimes, which works to prevent infant mortality, birth defects and premature births. And his passionate concern for children opened the door two decades ago to help young people even more directly—as founder of the Arnold Palmer Medical Center in Orlando, Fla.

"When Mr. Palmer toured our pediatric intensive care unit at what was then the Orlando Regional Medical Center, he was finishing up and casually said to some of the folks in the group that 'It just seems like we could do better than that for our kids,'" recalls John Bozard, 56, head of the Arnold Palmer Medical Center Foundation. The foundation embraces both the Winnie Palmer Hospital for Women and Babies (named after Arnold's late wife, Winnifred, to whom he was married for 45 years before her death of cancer in 1999) and the Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children.

Palmer visits the Florida hospital that bears his name.

Palmer smiles in recollecting the moment. "The next thing that happened, the city fathers came back to me and said, 'You object to some of the things the hospital has done in pediatrics—why don't you help us and lend your name to doing a children and women's hospital?'"

His word is gold

Through a simple handshake, Palmer agreed to help. The center's immediate need, not surprisingly, was for an infusion of philanthropic dollars. Palmer dug deep, as he has done numerous times over the years. While the foundation does not reveal specific amounts of money contributed by donors, Bozard calls Palmer's sum "substantial." And he has continued to support the facility over the years. "I don't know of a time when he's told me he'd do something that he didn't do it," Bozard says. "When Arnold tells you something, you can take his word to the bank. He is as solid as gold."

A gilded standard is exactly what Palmer set in 1960, when he first began to entrench himself in sports lore with his stalking, warrior-like charges that took golf and the country by storm. His legendary saga started at only 4 years old when his father, a course superintendent at Latrobe (Pa.) Country Club—a course that Palmer now owns—first cut down a pair of clubs to young Arnold's size. The future champ began swinging away, eventually launching an astonishing career that would include seven major tournament triumphs and 92 career wins worldwide.

Palmer's headline-making triumph in the 1960 U.S. Open, following his second of four lifetime Masters wins two months earlier, almost single-handedly energized the entire sport, ignited a legion of fanatical Palmer fans—the fabled "Arnie's Army"—and educated the entire country on the excitement of competitive golf.

Almost half of Palmer's time today is split among golf-related business and personal appearances. Competitively, he remains active with the Champions (PGA Senior) Tour, though he has cut back, making just eight appearances last year.

Off the links, Palmer and wife Kit, whom he married in January 2005, divide their time between homes in Latrobe, Pa. (pop. 8,994), and Bay Hill, Fla. (pop. 5,177).

Palmer's admirers point to the sense of integrity, sportsmanship and confidence he has brought to every phase of his career. "He's a true-blue person and it shines through," says Jerry Palmer, 61, Arnold's younger brother and general manager of Latrobe Country Club as well as his brother's residential and commercial properties in Latrobe. "What he says, he means."

Palmer's well-known integrity in the golfing world spawned his long-running offshoot career as an advertising spokesman, something that came naturally. With everything from automobile oil to home-health care and long-lasting batteries, Palmer's friendly face invited consumers to try the product.

"I'm pleased if I can help anyone do something that will help them in their lives," says Palmer, who now devotes much of his time to philanthropy.

Valuable lessons learned

But even the man with the Midas touch wasn't invincible to life's occasional arrows. Palmer is a prostate cancer survivor who has crusaded tirelessly for early detection through regular testing ever since his encounter with the disease in 1997. "Early detection is the key to almost all cancers," says Palmer, who has raised millions of dollars for prostate cancer research by serving as honorary chairman of Arnie's Army Battles Prostate Cancer, a golfing program affiliated with the Prostate Cancer Foundation.

Ultimately, the scary event was just a bump in the road for Palmer, who says he has learned some valuable lessons during times of difficulty and defeat. One came in 1966 at a tournament on the Cherry Hills course outside Denver. Solidly ahead entering the final round of the U.S. Open, Palmer saw his commanding lead whittled away by the relentless, ironically Palmer-like charge of Billy Casper, who ultimately edged Palmer for the title. That defeat is not lost on him to this day.

"When you reflect on something like losing a seven-stroke lead, it's difficult," Palmer concedes. "But after having won the Open and then losing the Open, like I did then, I found out a lot more about life, friendships and what life was all about. It was extremely gratifying to know that winning a golf tournament such as the Open at that point in time wasn't the only thing in the world that can be gratifying."

A large part of that gratification for Palmer continues to be giving his best effort to whatever he's involved with. And, as always, the Palmer method is a personal one.

"He'll walk down the halls and take time to talk," says Bozard of the golfing icon's visits to the medical facility bearing his name. "I've seen him stop and gather two or three of our housekeeping staff around him and tell them just how much he appreciates them keeping the place so clean." During moments like that, Palmer's reputation as a sports immortal, wealthy benefactor and astute businessman are overshadowed by a more immediate, more intimate impression.

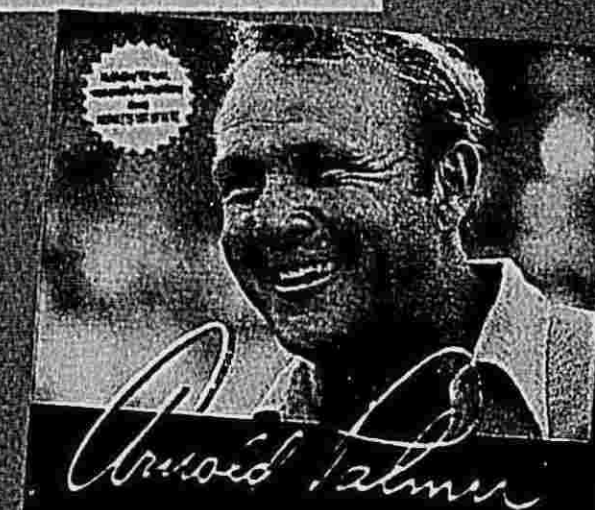

"We just really see him," Bozard says, "as a very kind, gentle, tenderhearted person." ★

Hope Chest founder Barbara Hensley

When Barbara Hensley decided to leave her corporate job in 2001, retirement was the furthest thing from her mind. Hensley, of Shakopee, Minn. (pop. 20,568), had lost two sisters to breast cancer and her plan was to help others with the disease.

Using marketing experience she'd gained while working as an executive for various companies, Hensley decided to help raise money for breast cancer programs while enabling other women to become what she calls "social entrepreneurs."

"I carefully researched other foundations and decided the best way to raise money was to open stores where women could be successful entrepreneurs and at the same time they would be able to give back to their community," says Hensley, 58.

So she asked companies and individuals to donate overstocked and used items to sell in an upscale store. The result was a non-profit foundation named Hope Chest for Breast Cancer and a for-profit retail store called Hope Chest, which opened in November 2002 in Orono, Minn. (pop. 7,538), and has contributed more than $150,000 to breast cancer causes.

What sets the 6,000-square-foot Hope Chest store apart from other stores is that each day customers can find something different among the merchandise, from a sterling silver tea set and ornate wooden frames, to an 1890s oak table and high-end clothing.

Julie Riff, one of 200 Hope Chest volunteers, says Hensley is an inspiration. "Barbara is incredibly dedicated to the Hope Chest mission," Riff says. "She's always positive and sincere and has created a great place to work. I think her work ethic and unflagging enthusiasm and graciousness have inspired me the most."

Kari Berscheit, a breast cancer survivor, also volunteers at the Hope Chest store. "I always enjoy working there and I can't believe all these items are donated," Berscheit says. "I just love Barbara."

Childhood photos of Hensley and her late sisters decorate a store counter.

While many cancer charities raise money for one specific purpose, Hope Chest donates money to four different areas—research, hospice care, financial support to those with breast cancer and programs for early detection.

Hensley believes that helping people with breast cancer meet financial burdens, such as paying medical bills and living expenses, is crucial. "When both my sisters were going through treatment, I got to meet women who sometimes had to put off taking chemotherapy because they had inadequate or no insurance," she says.

Financial aid given by Hope Chest often means a breast cancer patient can buy food or even pay rent. One example is a donation to the Western Communities Action Network, a social service center that aids low-income families, in Mound, Minn. (pop. 9,435).

"We had one client who was a single mom and taking chemotherapy," says Jessie Billiet, a family advocate with the network. "She needed some help paying her mortgage, so we contacted

New lure's catch rate may be too high for some tournaments.

Out-fishes other bait 19 to 4 in one contest.

Uses aerospace technology to mimic a real fish.

ORLANDO, FL—A small company in Connecticut has developed a new lure that mimics the motion of a real fish so realistically

by Charlie Allen

cally eight professionals couldn't tell the difference between it and a live shad when it "swam" toward them on retrieval. The design eliminates wobbling, angled swimming and other unnatural motions that problem other hard bait lures. It swims upright and appears to propel itself with its tail.

Curiously, the company may have designed it too well. Tournament fishermen who have used it said it's possible officials will not allow it in contests where live bait is prohibited. They claim it swims more realistically than anything they have ever seen. If so, that would hurt the company's promotional efforts. Winning tournaments is an important part of marketing a new lure.

Fish would probably prefer to see it restricted. I watched eight veteran fishermen test the new lure (called The KickTail®) on a lake outside Orlando FL for about four hours. Four used the KickTail and four used a combination of their favorite lures and shiners (live bait). The four using the KickTail caught 41 fish versus 14 for the other four. In one boat the KickTail won 19 to 4. The KickTail also caught bigger fish, which suggests it triggers larger, less aggressive fish to strike. You can see why the company needs to get it into tournaments. An almost 3 to 1 advantage can mean thousands of dollars to a fisherman, and hundreds of thousands in sales to the company.

The KickTail's magic comes from a patented technology that breaks the tail into five segments. As water rushes by on retrieval, a little-known principle called aeronautical flutter causes the tail to wag left and right, as if the lure were propelling itself with its tail. Unlike other hard baits, the head remains stationary—only the tail wags. A company spokesman told me this.

Swims with its tail.

New lure swims like a real fish--nearly triples catch in Florida contest.

known principle called aeronautical flutter causes the tail to wag left and right, as if the lure were propelling itself with its tail. Unlike other hard baits, the head remains stationary—only the tail wags. A company spokesman told me this.

"Fish attack live things, and they determine if something is alive by watching its movements. Marine biologists will tell you that the more a lure swims like a real fish, the more fish it will catch. Well, the only live thing the KickTail doesn't do is breathe. It's better than live bait! It lasts longer and it never hangs half-dead from a hook. It's always swimming wild and free. Fish can't stand it. We've seen fish that have just eaten go for the KickTail. It's like having another potato chip.

Increases catch almost 3 to 1.

"To make the KickTail even more lifelike, we gave it a natural shad color and shaped it like the most prevalent bait fish of all, the threadfin. Game fish gobble up more threadfin shad than any other baitfish.

"We knew the KickTail would out-fish other lures. It had to. Other lures wobble their heads and swim on an angle. But 41 fish to 14? That's huge! I tell you, in ten seconds anyone who has fished a day in his life knows this little swimmer's a home run. Fishermen reserved thousands of KickTails before we produced it! Here, reel it in and watch it swim toward you. Can you tell the difference between it and a live fish? (I said no.) Neither can the fish.

"The flutter technology also allows the KickTail to swim at the water's surface. Other top water lures must be worked to have any live action, or have a bill that makes them dive on retrieval. Our diver version is the only deep crank bait that let's you do tricks like 'walk the dog.' Twitch it at deep levels and it gives an irresistible, lifelike action. Other lures 'dig.' And there's no need for rattles. The five tail segments click together as you pull it through the water, calling fish from a distance."

Whether you fish for fun or profit, if you want a near 3 to 1 advantage, I would order now before the KickTail becomes known. The company even guarantees a refund, if you don't catch more fish and return the lures within 30 days. There are three versions: a floater for top water, a diver and a "dying shad" with a weed guard for fishing lily pads and other feeding spots. The company says it's the only hard bait of its kind in existence. Each lure costs $9.95 and you must order at least two. There is also a "Super 10-Pack" with additional colors for only $79.95, a savings of almost $20.00. S/h is only $6.00 no matter how many you order.

To order call 1-800-873-4415 or click www.ngcsports.com anytime or day or send a check or M.O. (or cc number and exp. date) to NGC Sports (Dept. KT-1009), 60 Church Street, Yalesville, CT 06492. CT add sales tax. The KickTail is four inches long and works in salt and fresh water.

Kimberly Gayle Odom and Cary Laine won last year's Jimmie Rodgers Talent Contest.

Meridian also hosts Jimmie Rodgers Days each spring. This year's event, scheduled April 28-30, features a yodeling contest, barbecue cookoff, car show and musical entertainment in Singing Brakeman Park. During the Jimmie Rodgers Talent Contest, aspiring performers will try to follow in the footsteps of Elvis Presley, who finished second in the inaugural contest in 1953 and went on to become the King of Rock 'n' Roll.

"If we're in the music business, we definitely want to be country singers," says Cary Laine, 19, of Deer Park, Ala., who won the adult competition last year with singing partner Kimberly Gayle Odom.

"It's a lifelong dream," adds Odom, 21.

As long as singers dream and train whistles blow, the legacy of Jimmie Rodgers and the railroad will live on in Meridian. ★

Tax-Saving Tips for Families

NARDINI

Each year Americans overpay their income taxes by $400 due to missed tax breaks and savings incentives, according to H&R Block.

Whether you file your taxes yourself or hire someone to do it for you, be aware of tax law changes and be sure you're not paying more than required by law. Here are some tax tips as well as a few common, but often overlooked, deductions your family may qualify for this year:

- STATE AND LOCAL SALES TAX VS. INCOME TAX. If you live in a state with no state or local income tax, you can deduct the general sales tax you paid in 2005 from your federal tax return. If you do pay state/local taxes, you can either deduct the state/local taxes you paid or what you paid in sales tax for general purchases, whichever is greater. So if your purchases were high and your state/local taxes are low, you may choose to deduct your sales tax.
- CHARITABLE DONATIONS. You can deduct the value of items or money given to churches and other 501C-3 non-profit organizations. Get receipts for donations of more than $75 when goods or services were exchanged, or if more than $250 was donated and no goods were received.

- RETIREMENT. You have until April 15 to make a tax-deductible contribution to a traditional Individual Retirement Account (IRA). For tax year 2005, the maximum IRA contribution that can be deducted is $4,000 ($4,500 if you're age 50 or older). This is a good way to save for the future and lower your taxes at the same time.

- EDUCATION EXPENSES. You can receive tax-free distributions from Coverdell Education Savings Accounts, or ESAs, and Qualified Tuition Plans, known as QTPs. The main attraction for these programs is the same that draws you to a qualifying retirement account: distributions from ESAs and QTPs are tax-free when withdrawn and used for your child's education.

- DISASTER OR THEFT. If your home was damaged by flood, ice storm, earthquake, other natural disaster or thieves, you may be able to deduct what your insurance doesn't cover.
- REAL ESTATE. Your mortgage interest is deductible, and if you refinanced this year, you may be eligible to deduct some costs associated with the loan.

"Breakthrough Discovery To Grow Beautiful Nails"

Even if you have never been able to grow strong beautiful nails

By Jana Lynn

You too can grow strong beautiful nails with Trind™ Natural Nail-Repair. I guarantee it!

Now it's so easy to grow the nails you've always dreamed of—even if you have already tried a number of other things without success.

Trind is Europe's leading nail care product for women who want beautiful nails without the expense and inconvenience of acrylics.

Trind is so effective that it has even earned "pharmaceutical" status in Switzerland. This allows Swiss doctors to prescribe Trind Natural Nail-Repair for their patients with nail problems.

Sweden's leading women's magazine compared Trind Natural Nail-Repair with nail care products from industry giants such as Clinique, Mavala, Cutex, and Kanebo. They chose Trind as the "best" of all.

What makes Trind Natural Nail-Repair so effective? It reinforces the protein molecules in your nails and regulates their moisture content to make them strong and flexible. That's why Trind nails never get brittle.

Even women that have never been able to grow beautiful nails before are amazed at how strong and flexible their nails become in only two weeks with Trind Natural Nail-Repair.

Until now, many women with problem nails have turned to acrylics for the pretty nails they wanted. But, they have soon discovered acrylics have problems of their own.

Acrylics cost hundreds of dollars more each year than natural Trind nails. They seem to pop off at the worst possible times—and they are often the cause of nail fungus.

It's so easy to grow strong, beautiful nails that won't break when you use Trind Natural Nail-Repair. It takes only minutes right in the privacy and convenience of your own home.

Your Trind Beauty Kit for nails includes one bottle of Trind Natural Nail-Repair (about a 4-month supply) and Trind's Nail-Magic 3-way buffer.

Plus, you get a FREE Gift just for ordering before the expiration date.

RISK-FREE GUARANTEE

I guarantee you will grow stronger, more beautiful nails with Trind™ Natural Nail-Repair than with anything you've ever used—at any price—or your money back.

Try Trind Natural Nail-Repair and Nail-Magic buffer RISK-FREE for a FULL 4 MONTHS—then decide. If you aren't delighted, return them for a full refund of every cent you paid.

Do you have any of the problems they used to have?

"Best nail product I've ever used. In the past five years I've tried nine different nail strengtheners priced from $1.89 to $39.95. My nails continued to peel and split until I tried Trind.

"Now my nails grow — healthy! — until they need to be cut because they get in my way."

Sonja Strickland
Kingsland, Georgia

"I never want to be without your Trind Natural Nail-Repair again! I used it even though I didn't really believe it could make a difference in my splitting fingernails. Ashamed of them, I'd keep my hands as hidden as I could when with friends.

"In just a few weeks I am really happily wearing pretty rings on my lovely nails—my very own!"

Jackie Klinsky
Watsonville, California

"After exhausting so many products and methods to help my splitting, peeling and non-growing nails, I felt I had nothing to lose and decided to try the product. I'm so glad I did! Believe me, it works!"

"My husband had two split nails that would not grow out and he too, decided to try TRIND. Now he adds his voice to mine, 'It really works!' I'm amazed at the condition and growth of my nails. It's unbelievable!"

Nikki & Addison Fritts
Delray Beach, Florida

"I have always had trouble with my nails splitting and peeling. But with your Nail-Repair the difference in them is amazing.

"Over time I have tried everything trying to get my nails to grow. This is the first thing I have ever used that actually did what it said it would."

Wanda L. Shults
Okemah, Oklahoma

"I'll admit to being skeptical. After all, over the years I had tried them all (Sally Hansen, Barielle, Nailtique, etc.) and nothing helped my thin weak nails that split and cracked before they even reached the end of my nail beds.

"TRIND was going to be my last attempt to grow my own nails before giving in to the expense and risks of artificial ones. Imagine my utter surprise and joy to find TRIND works where all others have failed.

"This is the most wonderful and amazing product! At last I can enjoy the beautiful nails that before I had only been able to envy on other women."

Michelle Hogan
Harvard, Massachusetts

"I just can't stop looking at my beautiful nails!"

"I have NEVER in my life been able to grow, sustain and maintain such healthy, strong and LONG nails! They were paper-thin after having acrylics removed and the regularly recommended products did not help me at all!"

"I am a TV host of my own show called 'Vee on Venice' and needless to say I need to look my very best from head to toe for my viewers.

"So now I finally feel fully confident that my nails will film beautifully."

Vee V. Garry
Venice, Florida, Channel 21

"I stopped using acrylics but my nails looked terrible, so for two years I sat on my hands to hide my nails whenever I went out. Then I tried Trind Natural-Nail Repair and it seemed like my nails became long and strong almost overnight.

"Now people think my natural nails are acrylics. Every time I go to my manicurist she just shakes her head. She can't believe how well it's working."

MY BUSINESS DESKTOPS LET ME CONCENTRATE ON WHAT I DO BEST: RUNNING MY BUSINESS

DELL™ DESKTOPS. OPTIMIZING OUR PRODUCTIVITY JUST GOT EASIER. Because Dell™ Desktops – powered by Intel® Processors – are designed to help improve performance in complex business environments, they not only help us complete more work in less time, they help us improve our bottom line. They're ideal for our network environment, and easy to operate since they help reduce installation time. And they're built to grow as our business grows – thanks to optional dual-core processors that can handle even more workflow. They're even backed by Dell warranties* and 24/7 support for their long life cycles. At long last – and with help from Dell – we're truly maximizing our technology investment.
